

ADVICE FOR THE LONELY HEART

By JERQUE

Dear Jerque,
My Mother always goes with me on my dates. She is a good dancer and the life of the party, but I feel kinda funny kissing my boy friends good night when she is standing there watching. What shall I do about this mess?

Perplexed.

Well it seems to me that you have quite a problem on your hands. But here is what I would do. The next time you have a date invite some young man of your mother's age over and when they get to know each other rather well, slip out the back and she won't miss you, I advise.

Dear Jerque,
My boy friend wants me to see him every night. My problem is that I go to school and when I date on school nights my home work goes sadly lacking. What shall I do?

Melvin.

If your boy friends is the right sort of fellow he will understand. It seems to me that three wo sessions a week would be enough anyway.

Dear Jerque,

I am a very handsome and dashing young man. For some reason everyone calls me B. M. O. C. Now my problem is that nearly all the girls want to date me.

How can I fight them off?

B. M. O. C.

Here is my solution to your problem. Date each one time and if my guess is right you won't have any more trouble out of these same girls.

Dub's Dugout

Have you ever sat and listened to the different noises and likewise watched the expressions on other peoples faces?

While sitting in the library the library the other day I tried it—turned out to be very interesting.

A very lovely girl who looked as if she had just lost her last friend opened the hall door, looked around for a minute as if she didn't want Miss Capel to catch her there, then went hurriedly into the library office leaving the scraping sound of her scandals a thing of the past.

Ah! Over there sits Betty Conder gazing lazily out the window—Oh! well, last night was Sunday night so she probably has memories to cherish! Gosh! What has happened to "Dot" Turner? I've never seen her so excited—Who is the boy, anyway? "Dunk" is what you might call not bad, eh, "Dot."

Holy mackerel—"Dub" Benson looks as if he had just won a million dollars—But I guess it's only that note he just received from Helen Conder.

There sits Bill Sizemore just inside the study hall—Boy! Does he look in the dumps—I guess he hasn't got over a certain girl saying "Kiss me my fool, Nothing makes me sick," on his recent request of a kiss.

Sounds interesting doesn't it? Try it sometime.

MORONS CROAK AFTER BIG SPLASH

Fighting in a terrible gruesome battle, two jerks by the names of I. B. Cracked and the "Purple Yellowjacket", fell to their death off the Brooklyn bridge. An innocent bystander who helped me with a little shove said this massacre was over a genuine Duncan Yo-Yo. I. M. Cracked was a prominent Wall Street wolf who made a fortune out of making all the red cents that people don't get. "The Purple Yellowjacket" was the toughest, meanest crook in the world whose hobby was collecting wildflowers. He was the only man in the universe to operate five Yo-Yos at one time. He was arrested once for hoarding Yo-Yo strings. These are vital in national defense. They are one reason MacArthur is so successful in his campaigns and the main way he saves ammunition. The reason is logical. When MacArthur wants to fire a gun, he just puts a Yo-Yo string on the shell and after it has done its destruction, it returns, saving enormous amounts of ammunition. Anyway, those morons who fell off the Brooklyn bridge might have been saved if Garbage Scow No. 6 hadn't been passing under the bridge at the time.

In the picture above, Byron Grandjean, clad in a blue summer gabardine suit from Wright's, and sports shirt from the same store, shows Violet Yokely a pair of tan and white Nunn-Bush and Edgerton shoes from the Quality Shoe Store. Violet is attractive in a lovely cotton dress, which sells for only $7.95 at the Holly Shop, and a pair of white Rythm-Step sports shoes from the Quality Shoe Store. She holds a pair of brown and white Rythm Step spectator pumps, also from the Quality Shoe Store.

BOOK REVIEW

Jimgrim by Talbot Mundy, author of The Black Knight a tale of weird, mysterious adventure, of international intrigues and infernal engines the like of which the world has never seen, an inspired, merciless manner tracking his dangerous way through the secret places of the East.

Major James Schuyler Grim, Jimgrim to the Secret Services of the world, has set himself to the task of ferreting out one Dorje, self-styled "King of the World", a strange, secretive power whose agents, armed with a new poison gas and with electric bombs of ghastly ferocity, are rapidly spanning the world, creating panic and spreading destruction wherever they go. Beginning in the harbor dives of Marseilles, Jimgrim, Jeff, his robust aid, and others chase through the hidden cellars of Cairo, secret tombs in the pyramids, black dens of Indian cities, to a well-guarded valley in the Himalayas, seeking Dorje. Every part of the sputters with excitement.

MY LIFE STORY

(By Gilbert Furgurson)

The title of this article may be a bit misleading. It should be—"Who is the world's biggest jerk and how did I get that way?" In the first place, I was born (that's logical—but impractical). My first memories consist of a talk between my mother and father. My father pointed at me and asked my mother whether they should bury it, send it to Ripley, or let the cat drag it back out (the cat refused). I was a very lucky child—I was born with a Yo-yo in my mouth.

As the years went by, I grew—but not much. In fact, my little brother grew so much faster than I, he was twenty-one when I was only fifteen.

It was in the third grade (my home for eight years) that I was destined to become an outcast—my coat and pants matched. After years of hard labor, I have finally built up the reputation I have today. Yes sir, I am the only person in High Point high school that can shoot all my spit-balls with a genuine rubber band.
