

Flagler Is Chosen New Editor-In-Chief Of Pointer

Managing Editor

MANAGING EDITOR — Gilbert Furgurson, who takes over the old position of Fred Flagler as POINTER managing editor.

Senior Plans For Post Graduation Activities Varied

Your inquiring reporter recently asked a few of the seniors their plans after graduation. The results were interesting as well as varied. Figures show that Uncle Sam will get a good many of the boys while business schools and offices will take the majority of the girls.

"Monk" Watkins, president of the student body, is planning to attend Citadel. Eleanor Younts, Helen Clark, Nancy Woollen and Estelle Leyton will be the future "Grables" at W. C. Mary Aycoth, Jacklyn Daniels, and Marjorie Russell are in the market for an office position (PS: if their boss is a Casanova). Dot Moffitt and Frances Dearman will take a business course.

Jack Ahl and "Pinky" Hedrick are looking forward to spending the next few years at UNC, providing Uncle Sam doesn't get them first. Bill Peak is going to State, while John Haworth, editor of the Pointer, will go to Guilford College.

I went "out of this world" when Winfred Johnson said he was going to join the Coast Guards, and Jimmy Current, the Marines. Girls, doesn't the very thought of the uniforms get you all excited?

Jacquelyn Price will attend WC with plans to teach English in the near future. Ernestine Hancock plans to study journalism "somewhere." Thelma Weekley hopes to get a job "somewhere." Tommie Stanton is going to college but has not yet decided upon a definite one.

Meredith College seems to have captured the "ambitious" Willa Grey Lewis, and Lenoir-Rhyne beckons to Betty Jean Culver. It has been rumored that Dot Pegram and Dot Highfill will go to Elon as majorettes, while Eleanor Dodamead is headed for S. C.

Byron Grandjean, as well as a number of other seniors, will attend HPC. Julia Faye Setliff, Lib Reid, Elaine Kirkman, W. R. Benson, and Weyland Linthicum are "still wondering about it themselves."

Melvin Hayes is very much undecided. For instance: she might be a senior next year, or she might attend Furman, or HPC, or WC . . . then again, she might become a "Mrs."

The following are waiting for the outcome of the war before they themselves decide what to do: Beverly Merchant, Pat Steed, Jerry Hedrick, and Violet Yockey.

Many Former Students Now In Service

Inquiring around some more this week your inquiring reporter asked a lot of questions and compiled some facts about the sons of High Point high school who are at the present time in the services of their country.

I don't pretend to say that I got the names of all the boys, but I collected quite a number, and the Pointer would appreciate knowing the names of any more who are not included in this article.

Buss Overcash, former gridiron and baseball star, is at present in the Air Corps in Texas. Clifton Furgurson, also a football man, is in the army in Fresno, California. Fate Sasser and Thurman Horney, two more well-known football men are in the Air Corps; Fate in Georgia, and Thurman in Arizona. M. C. Kimsey is in the army in Texas, as is Joe Given. Sinclair Horney is stationed at Panama.

The marine corps got its share with Bus Black stationed at Chicago, Clarence Leonard and Bobby Holt at Parris Island, and Thomas Henderson also in the corps.

The navy didn't fare quite so well, claiming only Knox Wilson and Leon Caison, and Harlan Reed in the Air Corps.

Art Feature

Few students today, ever realize the beauty and importance of the art which is in our school. Few people ever see the pictures, busts, statues of plaques which are scattered throughout the building.

Beginning in the library, we find one of the best and most expensive pieces of art in the school, "The Doge's Palace," by George W. Edwards. This picture is located near the entrance doors of 205. During the year, 1927, art was emphasized and with the aid of Mrs. Arrington, who paid one-half of the cost of "The Doge's Palace," it was presented to the school. The value of this picture is five thousand dollars; however, it cost the school only one thousand, half of which was paid for by Mrs. Arrington. Also in the library is the picture "King Lear," by Edwin Abbey, an American artist.

To Succeed John Haworth As Head Of Local Student Publication For 42-43

Willard Named Business Manager; Furgurson New Managing Editor

NEW BOSS

EDITOR — Fred Flagler, who has been named to succeed John Haworth as POINTER editor.

Fred Flagler, now managing editor of the Pointer, will serve as editor-in-chief of the paper for the 1942-'43 school year, it was announced by Miss Eloise Best, faculty adviser of the Pointer.

Other staff members for the coming year include Ray Willard, as business manager, who chalked up an outstanding record as a member of this year's business staff, and Gilbert Furgurson, who will take over Flagler's old duties as managing editor.

Succeeding John Haworth as editor, Flagler has made for himself an outstanding record, and, although a first year student, his work as managing editor and as a member of the sports staff left little to be desired.

Although as yet not officially announced, Flagler will probably be named as publicist of the athletic department within the near future, also succeeding John Haworth in that office.

Upon notification of his appointment as editor, Flagler stated that he would do his utmost to produce a paper next year of which the faculty and students of this school could well be proud.

Willard, perhaps better known for his work as a member of the upper house of the student council, and his work on the student council handbook, has served as a ranking member of the business department this year, which Furgurson, too, while active in other school affairs, this year turned out some of the best editorial pages the Pointer has published, while his skill as a feature writer has been of great aid in giving variety to this year's paper.

Staff Members To Attend Chapel Hill Convent'n May 8, 9

Journalism students from all parts of the state will gather at Chapel Hill May 8 and 9, to attend the Annual Press Conference held at the University of North Carolina. Members of the Pointer staff will represent High Point at this meeting.

Each year official delegates are chosen to represent High Point High. Five official delegates have been selected this year. They are: John Haworth, Thelma Weekley, Fred Flagler, Anna Lou Doctor, and Mary Elizabeth Barton. All have held various important positions this year on the Pointer. Miss Best, journalism teacher and Pointer adviser, will accompany the delegates.

Besides the ones selected as delegates others planning to attend the conference are: D. L. Barker, Gilbert Furgurson, Dick Ring, Pinky Hedrick, Dick Wright, Bob Martin, Gene Carraker, Fred Swartzberg, Melvin Hayes, Beverly Merchant, Joyce Tuttle, Margie Slack, and Bob Hicks.

Bobby Holt Visits High High Point High School

"From the halls of Montezuma, To the shores of Tripoli."

That's the song of Bobby Holt, former student at this school, who visited here this week.

Business Manager

BUSINESS MANAGER — Ray Willard, named as successor to business manager's position left vacant by graduation of Anna Lou Doctor.

Juniors Select Color, Motto, and Flower For '43

Members of the Junior class, and rising members of the Senior class next year, this week selected their class colors, flower, and motto for next year's class, the colors, etc., to be used throughout next year and as next year's prom. The colors selected were maroon and white, the flower carnation, and the motto "Forward To Success."

Committees were appointed by Wayne Davis to decide on the selections or ideas to be slated on the ballot. These committees were Mildred Jones, Marjorie Kearns, Stan Kennett, Jane Baucom, Harold Davis, Belle Miller, Philip Modlin, Mary Alice Boyles, and Irby Dawson. The other selection on the ballot was green and white for the color, sweetpea as the flower and "Knowledge For Power" as the motto.

Mrs. Baldwin, faculty adviser of the Junior class, stated that maroon and white and the carnation won by an approximate two to one count.

GIRLS, REFRESH YOUR WARDROBES! HERE'S HOW AND WHAT TO PURCHASE

Color and splash added to the classics is what you want in your clothes this summer, and that's exactly what you'll find waiting for you at Belk-Stevens. A new shipment of the popular Cotton Club prints has just arrived and they are really colorful. Red, green, turquoise, purple, yellow, and blue made of gingham, chambray, sheers, seersucker, pique, and prints. The patterns range from stripes and checks to tiny prints and large floral designs. One particularly pretty classic is a red striped shirt waist with wide skirt and deep, button-trimmed pockets.

Belk - Stevens feature the youthful Kitty Fisher dresses as seen in "Mademoiselle," and one particularly eye-catching dress is a brown and white figured spun rayon with a fly front and waffle pique collar and cuffs. It is designed for action and cool comfort.

Sheers are becoming more and more popular, and will continue to do so during this hot weather. At Belks you will find sweet, simple dresses made of dotted swiss, batiste, voile, tissue gingham, bemberg, and eyelet, designed for feminine flattery. One unusual dress is made of dimity with yoke of eyelet that buttons to the bodice. It has a set-in band and half-belt. It's priced right, too.

A striped jumper is just the thing to add personality to your wardrobe. This one is of pique in multicolored candy stripes and with it comes a white pique blouse. For $3.98 you may call it yours.

For those of you who like the casual look, there is a two-piece dress of French gingham, made to look like a suit. The plaid is red and white and can be dressed up, or down, with accessories.

Just $4.95 is the price of an all-over embroidered, washable, spun rayon dress, that has an unusual tie belt. The dress comes in bright colors and all pastels.

Very jaunty is the Trudy Hall dress of sheer seersucker, rick-rack trimmed, and with navy and red buttons on the bodice. It's also $4.95.

Just the thing for riding your bike are the smart gabardine culottes. With big, box pleats, they are cut to look just like a skirt. They come in blue, rust, beige, and gold, and are priced at just $3.95.

You'll be wearing slacks now as never before, not just for play time, but for working, and taking first aid courses. A very smart slack suit is one of gabardine that may be bought in rose and blue, or chartreuse and green color combinations for only $3.95. Other slack suits come in sailor styles, stripes or solids, in cotton and spun rayon. The prices are right, too.

Good, and good looking are the sharkskin shorts, white, or navy, for 79c. They may also be bought in sharkskin. They consist of blouse, shorts, and skirt, and come in white and all pastels. The price is $4.98. For just $1.98 the same pattern may be bought in cotton.

All around pleated luanna cloth skirts are becoming a new craze, for they may be used for so many different purposes. They come in all pastels and are just $1.98.
