

Salesmanship Course Offered To Sales-Minded Students

Mrs. Ed Gilbert To Teach Subject

High Point High School is planning to produce a bumper crop of salesmen to work in the local stores during the holidays this year.

A brief course in salesmanship is being offered to all students interested in selling. Given as an extension service of the State Department of Vocational Education, this course not only teaches salesmanship but gives instruction in how to get and keep a job, appropriate dress for work, and how to get along with the boss and customers.

Mrs. Ed Gilbert, a local resident, is going to be here for three weeks teaching the course. To make up a class of about 30 people, students wishing to receive the instruction are taken from their study halls for a week, during which time they learn the fundamentals of selling in an unspecialized line.

The students taking the course have not been employed previously and do not have jobs at the present time, but are interested in obtaining part-time work.

After finishing the course, each person will receive a certificate from the State Department of Labor stating that the course has been successfully completed. This certificate will aid the people in obtaining a job.

This selling course is given at the request of the local merchants association.

Student Council Makes Progress

The Upper and Lower Houses under the leadership of Doris Craven and Jerry Paschal, respectively, have completed organization and are stepping forward to combat challenging school problems.

The election of Barbara Priddy and Donnie Boone to the Upper House as freshman representatives increases its membership to eight, as required by the constitution. Each homeroom elected one representative to the Lower House in September. Thirty-eight students now claim membership in this larger house of the council.

The Student Council is now sponsoring the arrangement of material on the bulletin board near Tower 2 on the first floor, Friday morning assemblies, open-house after football games, and the sale of school pennants and badges.

Student Council headquarters were established recently in the mimeograph office, which is in Tower 2 on the second floor. The room will serve until other arrangements can be made. A filing cabinet and desk have been purchased and placed in the temporary office. Records of council projects and work will be filed in the cabinet and kept.

Classes Taught By Practice Teachers

Practice teachers are here again! Every year, High Point College seniors who plan to become teachers spend sixty hours observing and teaching classes in the different schools of High Point.

There are six college students now practicing at Senior High. Two have finished their required time this fall, and have already left. Those two are Mr. Raymond Wise, who taught plane geometry under Mr. Henry T. Rohde; and Mr. Ardenal Haney, who taught junior and senior English under Miss Ruth Goodman.

Those who are still here are as follows: Miss Bertha Lowe, teaching home economics under Miss Mary Ella Ingram; Mr. Percy Payne, teaching United States history under Miss Elizabeth Lindsay; Miss Betty Spearman, teaching sophomore English under Mrs. Clara Harrison; and Messrs. George Boggs, Ralph Copley, and C. L. Stroud, Jr., teaching book-keeping under Mr. Harry Hendrick.

French Classes Seek Correspondents Abroad

Second year French students of Mrs. Rogers and Miss McDavid are sending off for names of French correspondents.

These future correspondents will be picked according to ages of our own students; and they will be selected from France, Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia and Belgium.

It is hoped that a better feeling and understanding between our students and those of foreign lands will be created by this interchange of letters.

Our French students plan to swap ideas with these foreign boys and girls and to learn of the unusual customs of these people. At the same time they will help to relate the American way of life to them.

Junior Play Postponed Until Late January

There was no ghost last Saturday evening, nor will there be one until the latter part of January; for the junior class play, "The Saturday Evening Ghost," has been postponed.

Miss Amy Franklin, who is directing the play, says there are several reasons for the postponement of the production, but the main one is lack of time.

Rehearsals for the play are still in progress, and will continue until the play is given.

The production was previously planned for November 18 and 19.

Club Chatter

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

The newly organized Future Teachers of America Club of High Point High School will soon become a member of the National Future Teachers Association.

Organized last month, the club now has a roster of forty members. These students have planned to meet each Tuesday morning at eight-thirty in the auditorium. Business and other matters of the organization will take place then. At present the group is discussing the possibility of renaming the club.

As yet, committees have not been selected.

The chief purpose of the Future Teachers of America Club is to give students an opportunity to learn about the teaching profession at an early age. This will enable the prospective teacher to discover whether or not he will be interested in the field.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

High Point High has a photography club! The name of the new organization is the Jr. Camera Club, and it held its first meeting on Tuesday, November 15.

During this first meeting officers were elected, and they are as follows: President, Jack Grimes; vice-president, Rex Hucks; secretary, Pete Jones; treasurer and faculty adviser, Mr. Carr.

The purpose of this organization is to study the various phases of photography, and the first few meetings will deal with the developing of roll and cut film. In the future they will study enlarging, tinting, and composition of photography. Their meetings will be held every other Tuesday night.

LATIN CLUB

Latin Clubs have again been organized in the Latin classes. Officers for each of the Latin periods are now in office.

The mighty presidents are Craig Kester, Ben Allen, Emmett Sumner, Jack Willis, and Rita Demas. Vice-presidents are next in line. They are Claude Earle, Carol Smith, Billie Ruth Pilcher, Tom Wood, and Barbara Terry. Last, are the note-taking secretaries. They are Anne Hulin, Anne Beam, Billie Sue Sherman, Tom Albertson, and Ellenor Terry.

The clubs meet on Friday of every other week. The purpose of these clubs is to arouse the students' interest in Latin by having programs at every meeting. From these programs students may learn interesting facts of Roman life that they would not ordinarily take up in class.

One of the programs consisted of interviews with people dressed in Roman costumes. These ancient Roman citizens, draped in sheets, were Barbara Freeman, Peggy Thomas, Frank McCain, Donald Greene, Sarah Dean Miller, and Buzz Lowe.

Former Alumni Of H.P.H.S. Gain Many Honors At College

Just for a minute, let's take a quick trip to a few colleges and universities to see what's become of our high school alumni.

First, from Greensboro College, comes news that Barbara Lee has been chosen one of the ten cutest girls in the freshman class. She will also be an attendant in the annual May Court there next spring.

Also making a name for herself at Greensboro College is Jane Beam, who has been elected freshman representative to the Student Council.

Way up in Cincinnati, Ohio, Ralph Tilden is presiding over the sophomore class at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. He is also the organist and choir director for the Saint Mary's Episcopal Church, which is located just outside of Cincinnati. Following in the music field, is Betty Jo Smith, who is attending Meredith College in Raleigh. She is directing the youth choirs of the First Baptist Church in Raleigh.

Switching, now, from Meredith College to Winthrop College in Rock Hill, South Carolina, we find that Barbara Lowe has been chosen vice-president of the Grand-Daughters Club of Winthrop College.

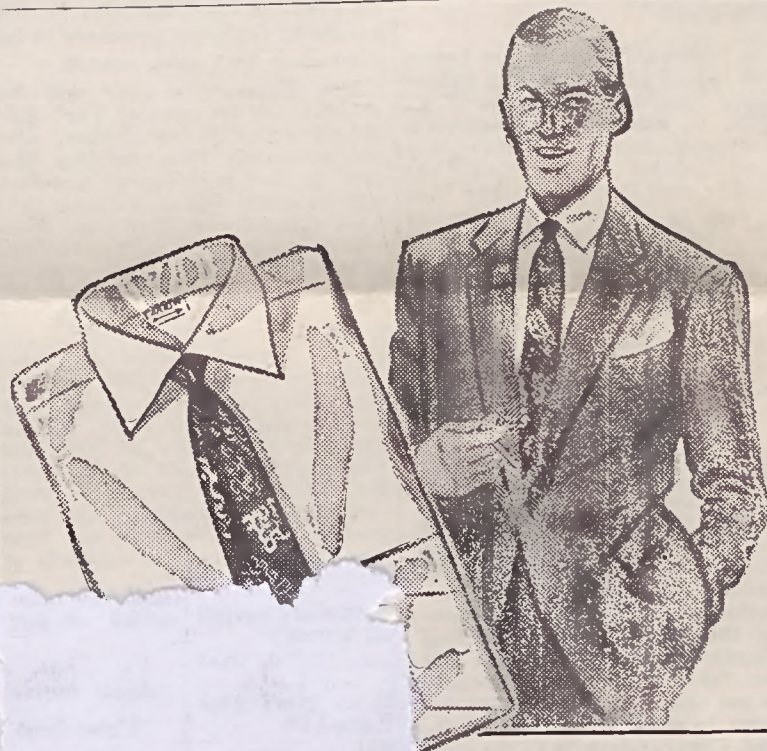

Ruth Ellen Monroe, who is attending Mars Hill Junior College this year, has been elected one of the college cheerleaders.

At the Harriett Elliott Social Science Forum which convened November 10 in Greensboro, Jackie Meekins was one of six students sent from Lenior Rhyne College.
