

High School Girls And Teachers Tour Student Nurses' Home

Preceding an Open House for the general public last Sunday, high school girls, parents, friends, and faculty members were invited on Saturday to the newly-constructed Student Nurses' Dormitory located on Boulevard, for a "Prevue Open House."

The event took place from 2-4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The public was invited to attend an Open House on Sunday from two to four in the afternoon.

Visitors to the dormitory on both Saturday and Sunday were taken on tours of the building by student nurses of High Point Memorial Hospital.

The purpose of the "prevue," as well as the event on Sunday afternoon, was to acquaint the public with the facilities of the Memorial Hospital nursing school and to encourage high school girls to consider nursing as a career.

Miss Anna Mendenhall states that it is very educational to have the opportunity to visit such a building and to observe the advantages offered to girls entering the nursing profession.

Band Pupils Attend State Clinic In Boone

Seven band members from Senior High, along with their band director, Mr. David Carter, attended the All-State Band Clinic held at Appalachian State Teachers' College, Boone, North Carolina, the weekend of January 29-30.

Meryle Pope played first clarinet, while Betsy Bryant alternated, playing both first and second.

Other students who attended the clinic were Bennie Jenkins—baritone, Joe Horney—bass, L. G. Wilson—French horn, Charles Vaughn—trumpet, and Larry Ledbetter—drums.

Included on the program were selections such as: "Americans We," "On the Mall," "Overture Allegro," "Tambour," "American Folk Rhapsody," "Etude No. 11," and "Etude No. 30."

There were groups representing 21 different cities, and while at Boone they were under the direction of Ray Prindl, from the University of Kentucky. In only two days, there was a total of 11 hours of rehearsal in preparation for the concert.

It was not all work and no play, however, because a dance was held Friday night and all of the band students were invited. As one member said, "It made all the practicing worthwhile." The band has now begun to make preparation for the district and state contests, which will take place sometime in March and April.

Salisbury Awards Pointer High Rating

The Pointer was chosen recently by the staff of Salisbury High School's newspaper, The Yellow Jacket, as one of their ten favorite exchange papers. The Boyden High School staff also lists High Life, from Greensboro; Pine Whispers, from Reynolds; and Hi-Rocket from Durham as a few of their other North Carolina favorites.

The Pointer also uses an exchange system. Peggy Kepley is Exchange Editor. A copy of every issue of our paper is mailed to thirty-four different high schools and colleges. They, in turn, send us copies of their school papers.

Induction Ceremony Held By Senior Hi-Y At Local Church

The High Point High School Senior Hi-Y held its annual induction services February 1 at the First Presbyterian Church with Rev. Arlo Newell as the evening speaker.

Acting as president, Jerry Meeks presided over the major part of the solemn service. David Fagg, Kirk Rich, and Richard Hallman took part in reading to the inductees the Hi-Y purpose. Mr. Jim Ensign, the Hi-Y adviser, spoke to the members on Christian living.

The Rev. Mr. Newell, minister of the Church of God, delivered an inspiring message on Christian character and clean living, pointing out its advantages.

After these activities, the inductees were presented with their Hi-Y pins. The members who attended were as follows: David Fagg, Jerry Meeks, Gilbert Buck, Kirk Rich, Richard Hallman, Bill Hayward, George Cook, Bobby Culler, Maurice Sives, Harold McKee, Charles Lucas, Jerry Willis, Joe Dean, Buddy Hudspeth, Tally Wright, Eddie Smothers, Grant Stockwell, Larry Harris, Jimmy Lain, Ray Montgomery, and Jack Wheatley.

Parents and friends were invited to the ceremony, also.

Many Seniors Work On Play Committees

Credit for the success of the Senior play goes not only to the cast and the director but to the numerous people who worked behind the scenes.

The following were chairmen of the play committees: Stage—Jimmy Lain; Mr. Hendrick, adviser; Publicity—Wanna McAnally; Mr. Vance, adviser; Tickets—Sylvia Fee; Mrs. Whitsell, adviser; Properties—Kitty Marsh; Miss Meisel, adviser; House—Nancy Stockwell; Miss Young and Miss McInnis, advisers.

Members of the stage committee built the scenery for the play. The publicity committee used skits, posters, newspaper articles, and a picture, etc., as ways of publicizing the production.

Masque, Gavel Society Inducts New Members During Assembly

New members of the Masque and Gavel Society for the year '53-54 were inducted at an assembly program on January 29.

The chief purpose of the Masque and Gavel assembly program was to induct new members, from both the Junior and Senior classes. Old members of the society provided the program, which illustrated activities and purposes of the Masque and Gavel Society, a national honor organization.

The devotions were given by Kitty Marsh. Nancy Cridlebaugh, president of the local chapter, presided. Nancy explained that one of the best ways to develop a relaxed feeling is to practice pantomime; and Patty Dillon, Sarah Johnson, Barbara Cook, Jane Marlette, and Becky Hester presented a pantomime entitled "All For Dear Aunt Matilda."

Illustrating that a good drill for losing the tenseness of the body is a short monologue, Betsy Lewis presented "Sally Reads the Newspaper."

To show another phrase of the Masque and Gavel activities, a tape recording was made of a radio skit. Taking part in this were Jim Casey, George Eanes, Dean Mac Pruette, Gail Armstrong, Barbara Cook, Larry Sledge, and Betsy Lewis. This skit was "The Ghost," a weird story by Guy de Maupassant.

Giving a preview of the talent which is contained in the group of inductees, two of the new members, both from the Junior Class, made brief talks. First, Larkin Kirkman gave a serious talk entitled "High Point Senior High School Needs a Swimming Pool"; then Watts Childress gave a humorous talk on "New Year's Resolutions."

English Class Rates Movies For Project

"Evaluating Motion Pictures" is the Citizenship Education Project recently undertaken by Miss Louisa Hatch and her sixth period English class.

A list of the movies shown in the community for the past year has been compiled by the group. The students have analyzed the films on the basis of what "experts" have said about them, plus their own opinions.

Each picture has been rated as either Superior, Good, Fair, or Poor, and classified according to type. The year's overall picture has been checked to see how many of "the year's best," according to critics, have appeared.
