

TOT TALK

You don't see many children holding rummage sales nowadays, like they did in generations past.

However, we did run across several youngsters peddling their wares on an upper Broad street lawn the other afternoon, and it made us remember the calamity that once befell Mrs. Ray Brewer when she was living on Spencer avenue.

Her son, William Ray, now a happily married father residing in Kentucky, if we remember rightly, was just a little fellow at the time.

His mother agreed to let him have a rummage sale, with other neighborhood kids. Having given her approval, she went downtown to shop for a few bargains.

Little did she know that the biggest bargain in all the village was being offered in her absence by William Ray.

She returned home to discover that a brand new girdle she had put away in a closet just the day before had been sold by William Ray for exactly 39 cents.

William Ray couldn't describe the purchaser to Mrs. Brewer, but he said she seemed to be a satisfied customer when she walked away.

A Weekend Prayer

Almighty God, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, we beseech Thee to look with love and mercy on us, Thy children, throughout this day and all the days of our life. Keep us in Thy faith and under Thy grace. Give us strength to resist the devil, and to renounce all his works of temptations. Guard us from the corruption of the world. Make us diligent and faithful in our appointed work. Keep us patient under trial. In anxiety and worry, help us to find trust and peace in Thee. In ills of the body and vexation of spirit, be Thou our healing and strength. Bless our friends and neighbors. Increase their joys and soothe their sorrows

Dwell in our hearts, and guide us with Thy Counsel, that after this life Thou mayest receive us with glory. All of which we ask through Jesus Christ, our Lord and Savior.—Amen.

She Got the Dirt, And Something Else

When the contractor rebuilding our county courthouse wanted to get rid of some dirt, Mrs. Jim Brinkley, who lives a stone's throw away at 222 Linden street, told him to dump it in her back yard.

She got more than she bargained for. A sunflower sprouted from the dirt. At last report it was over 16 feet tall and growing taller by the minute. The flower itself was yet to reach full bloom.

"I've seen sunflowers all my life," says Mrs. Brinkley, "but never one as big as this."

Her neighbors heartily agreed.
