Deserving commendation for its physical fitness program is the New Bern Junior Chamber of Commerce. Planned so comprehensively that it includes boys and girls from 8 to 17, the Jaycee promotion has a sound foundation.

Virtually all of the Junior Chambers in North Carolina are sponsoring the project in their own communities. The idea for it, as we recall, popped up in one of the western States a few years ago, and quickly caught on nationally.

At first the youngsters competed against each other, but more recently it has been found of greater value to have them compete against a standard. This method will be employed here in New Bern when the first phase of the Champ Physical Fitness Event is held at the City Recreation Center on Monday night, February 22.

Each youngster's score will be recorded. Then in March the initial score will be compared for improvement when the boys and girls compete again. In other words, emphasis is being placed on making the most of one's own capabilities, rather than surpassing someone else.

Included on the agenda are push-ups, knee-bends, the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard run, standing broad jump, baseball throw, chinning, weight lifting, bicycle race and the hop, step and jump.

We're assuming that there will be excellent supervision. Without it, of course, the good that can be accomplished would be nullified.

Some of the participants may not have further interest in athletics, but physical fitness for young and old alike is a worthwhile aim for us all.

BILLY HUISKAMP

REMEMBER HIM? — Pictured here is Billy Huiskamp, who played such fine basketball for Duke a generation ago. If the name sounds familiar to old-time baseball fans in New Bern, there's a reason. Billy, as a star centerfielder for Greenville, appeared in many a Coastal Plain game at Kafer Park here.

veteran's loss or loss of use of his legs must be due to certain specific causes has been eliminated.

The VA's contribution, which may not be more than 50 per cent of the cost of the home nor in excess of $10,000, is a grant and need not be repaid by the veteran. He may use the money to pay part of the cost of building a new house, buying an existing house, or remodeling one which he already owns.

The house to qualify must contain certain desired features made necessary because of the veteran's physical condition. Items required include ramps, wide doors, larger bathrooms and lowered light switches. The grant is provided to enable the veteran to have a home specially adapted to the circumstances of wheelchair living, VA said.

A grant of money from the Veterans Administration to aid in acquiring specially adapted housing is now available to certain veterans who are blind as well as to eligible veterans who have lost the use of both legs, the VA said.
A new law extends this benefit to veterans who, because of permanent and total service-connected disability, have lost or lost the use of both legs, or who are blind in both eyes and have lost the use of one leg, and who cannot get about without the aid of braces, crutches, cane or wheelchair.
The former requirement that the
