Fourth of July Celebrated

St. Paul's Episcopal Church celebrated the Fourth of July, Independence Day, with a service of Evening Prayer at 7:00 on Wednesday. The service was followed by a Lemonade Reception in the Parish Hall.

Concerning this occasion, Rev. Kenneth Townsend, rector of St. Paul's, writes, "Christians have long championed justice and sound government, and opposed the twin evils of oppression on the one hand and anarchy on the other. When America won her independence and founded a new nation on this continent she was seen by many as stepping boldly away from oppression but stopping short of anarchy. Many Anglican churchmen led in this struggle and on this day it seems appropriate to mention a few. Churchman Paul Revere hung his famous lantern in the tower of Christ Church, Boston, and churchman Patrick Henry delivered his renowned "Give me Liberty or give me death" speech in St. John's Church, Richmond. Richard Henry Lee first proposed the Declaration of Independence and Thomas Jefferson contributed to the writing of it. George Washington, 'on whose character the Revolution rested,' was a staunch Episcopal churchman, as were James Madison, the "Father of the Constitution," and John Paul Jones, the "Father of the American Navy."
