

On the job experience helps students

by Mrs. Evelyn Harrison
Food Service Instructor
West Craven High

West Craven Food Service students prepared for careers by "on the job" work experiences provided by various Food Service businesses in the New Bern area. Students worked approximately one hour each day during the work week. The student teams rotated the work schedule to include at least three different types of food service. Earlier during the year Mrs. Goleck from the Health Department met with the Food Service students and administered the tuberculin skin test or recommended chest xray, which is necessary to procure the temporary health card needed in this program.

At Granny's Doughnuts students cooked, glazed, filled doughnuts, and made sales under the supervision of Mrs. Betty Taylor. The staff at the Berne Restaurant and Mr. Dan Vernelson directed activities in cooking and catering group meals. "Bussing tables", waitressing, baking, and assorted kitchen responsibilities were experiences at the Palace Motel supervised by Mr. Frank Wilson and his staff. Students were preparing food for patients, operating the quantity food service equipment, planning menus, carrying trays, serving foods in the hospital cafeteria under the direction of Mrs. A. J. Waters. Special diets, safety and sanitation were even more controlled experiences in the Guardian Care Nursing home kitchen supervised by Mrs. Lucille Toler.

This "on the job" work-experience has been a part of the Food Service Program at West Craven High under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Harrison for the past eight years. The success of the program is evident by the high percentage of graduates continuing in a Food Service related occupation. The program has been successful also because of the cooperation of the New Bern business people who provide experiences in the real "World of Work".

Students participating were Sonya Brunson, Beverly Bryant, Lori Campbell, Shabra Campbell, Carolina Cook, Wanda Dawson, Iris Dixon, Richard Harris, Lisa Hill, Deborah Jones, Laura King, Tracey Speed, Carolyn Sutton, Bessie Swinson, Trina Swinson, Bonnie Tucker, Phyllis Willis.

G. A.'s present Mothers program

by Alma Drake

On Sunday morning the Girl's Auxiliary of the Vanceboro P. H. Church, under the direction of Mrs. Marietta Fulcher and Mrs. Alma Drake presented a program to honor each mother.

Mrs. Drake welcomed each mother and had them to stand while she led the girls in singing "Happy Mother's Day to you", accompanied on the piano by Miss Jenny Lee Chandler. Mrs. Drake read a poem called "Why God Made Mothers. Then she accompanied them on the piano while they sang Mother Loves Me, which was composed by Mrs. Drake.

Each G. A.'s mother stood at the front of the church and each girl presented their mother with a long stem red rose.

Rev. Frank R. Moore, pastor of the church, prayed for God to bless each of them.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank R.

Moore had their daughter Miss Loy Anne Moore Parkton to spend Mother's Day weekend with them. Also they had as a special guest, Mrs. Moore's sister, Mrs. Lizzie Hall, of near Greenville, she stayed Sunday and Sunday night with them.

Killingsworth inducted

Greenville--Glenda Killingsworth of New Bern was among fourteen new members of the East Carolina University chapter of the Society for Collegiate Journalists inducted here today.

Following the ceremony Wilford Kale, Jr., Williamsburg, Va., Eastern Virginia Bureau Chief for the Richmond Times-Dispatch, will address the gathering. The society is the nation's oldest collegiate honorary for mass communications. The ECU chapter was organized in 1969.
