

On My Honor

well, girls, the fourth week of the trial of the Honor System is almost over, and now is the time for all of us to come to the aid of future Saint Mary's girls and decide whether we will continue with the new system. Before our month of probation is up, let us each stop and think: Am I doing my part? The success of the honor system rests upon each of us, not only as a group, but as individuals. And before we say it is not working, we should try even harder to do our part toward making it work. It is a fine thing, and we can make it a Saint Mary's institution if we will. It can be done. Will you do your part? We are counting on you.

Around the School

The time has arrived for dehydrating the skin, in other words, sun-bathing. But please take it slowly, for not only will it make one ill but also the rush for the porch on third floor Smedes may result in a permanent disbanding of the privilege altogether. Again--Please remember to be quiet, to keep the porch clean, and to be considerate of the rooms adjoining the porch.

The campus is beautiful and many of the students and teachers are taking advantage of it; for if one is not careful she will stumble over a class with the students gathered around the teacher like the little birds learning to fly.

Wednesday morning after assembly the Seniors voted for their superlatives. But we will all have to wait patiently until the annual appears to satisfy our curiosity.

The Grapevine wishes to take this opportunity to express its sincere hopes to Florence Boxley for a speedy recovery and this time, a permanent one.

Friday afternoon amid the excitement over the Junior-Senior, we were entertained by the famous Beechnut Circus. The Beechnut ladies distributed samples of "beechies", which helped to keep us from biting our fingernails before our big moment that night. Some of us were lucky enough to see it at the little store, and thus have a double treat for it came right up to our front door for a few minutes before study hall. Laden with "Beechies" we were shoed in at four o'clock after awful threats from Mr. Tucker, who we are sure, made front page headlines with his and Mr. Kloman's picture with the Beechnut ladies.

Saturday night the more dramatically inclined among us made another in our series of trips to Chapel Hill to see a group of plays given by the Carolina Play-makers. Aably chaperoned by Miss Davis, we all enjoyed the plays very much, especially the first one. How about it, Tootsie?

Lab Highlights--

Visitors to the 2nd floor of the Art Building were pleasantly surprised on Thursday, April 16, to find instead of bottles of banana oil and pans of deceased frogs, a lovely display of wild flowers in the biology lab. Miss Lalor's lab students were hostesses and showed the visitors the pungent little treasures. Everyone enjoyed the wild flower show, even the next day when they had to name the 39 species.

The following week Miss Lalor took her lab classes down town to the library to look at a volume of the lovely Audubon plates. The set of four volumes is very valuable, being one of the few in existence, and the lab classes were thankful to Miss Lalor for the opportunity of seeing them.

New Members in Literary Societies

The Literary societies have elected their annual spring pledges. The fortunate girls are all as follows: E. A. P.'s--Erwin Gant, Jean Flount, Betty gwyn Weaver, Sarah Griffith, Winifred Vass, Mabel Humphrey, Mary Louise Riddick, Sylvia Cullum, and Louise Jordan. Sigma Lambda's--Martha Watts, Pasy Jones, Rebecca Norman, Louise Hall, Barbara Thompson, Jean Miller, Helen Noell, and Agnes Sanford.

The Junior-Senior

Friday night April 23 will always remain outstanding in the memories of Saint Mary's girls, for that was the eventful date of the Junior-Senior. Eventful because not only will it be the main topic of conversation for many weeks, but also the wave of invitations to finals and Junior-Senior seems to have swollen.

We are sincerely grateful to Helen Noell, who was chairman of the decorating committee, Miss Harris, and Mr. Tucker for their valuable assistance, and all the students, not only Juniors, who helped decorate the gym, for the boys realized that it was intended to be a "vineyard" and not a garden of wisteria. We also extend our thanks to members of the faculty who helped make the evening more enjoyable and to the pages.

The receiving line were Mrs. Cruikshank, Miss Davis, Miss Sutton, Miss Harris, Virginia Worth, Sally Fell, Janet Lawrence, Mr. Kloman, Mr. Guess, and Mr. Moore.

Jimmie Poyner and his Collegians set the tempo for the evening, quickening the beat of many hearts and dancing feet.

Delicious punch was served in the dining room. After the music ceased at twelve o'clock, a rather thorough destruction of the decorations ensued and then the moment for goodbyes arrived.

From the expressions on the faces the following morning one could gather that everyone had a swell time.
