May Day Theme Discussed

This year the tentative theme of May Day is the Legend of Jones Valley. Jones Valley is a small mountain town that suddenly becomes industrialized. The valley not only gains industry but also gains a new type of culture.

The program will consist of five main types of dances. There will be, of course, the villagers doing their hillbilly dance. The can-can girls will represent the way of life in the village taverns. Jazz represents the moving of factories into town as the town begins to grow more progressive. A modern dance will portray the influx of the city-slickers. The east step of building the small town into a city finally takes place with the arrival of culture, the arrival represented by a lyrical dance.

This program is meant for all of St. Mary's students. Since the scenery, make-up, and the choreography is going to be done by students only, there is no reason why everyone should not play an active part in this year's May Day.
