STUDENT GOVERNMENT News

By ANN SPETH

In talking with Margie Worthington, President of the SCA, and Kay Turner, Vice-President, I discovered that the SGA is hoping to fulfill the needs of the students this year. This semester the SGA will work with the Constitution Committee to begin revising the SGA Constitution. The SGA will also promote more activities of interest to the students on campus.

During the first part of October the SGA will be sponsoring the election of underclass officers. The elections will be under the guidance of Charlie Sloan, Secretary of the SGA. Following class elections, the SGA will conduct Honor Week which is designed to emphasize the place which honor holds in the St. Mary's community. A principal concern of the SGA this year will be the maintenance of communications between faculty and students.

So far Margie Worthington and Kay Turner have been pleased and excited with the response of the student body. They re-Port that the students have been helpful and interested in the activities of the SGA. Margie and Kay hope to be open and responsive to the needs of the students and to deal constructively with these needs. They also said that they need the help and sup-Port of the student body throughout the year.

TUTORING PROGRAM For 1972 - '73

By VIRGINIA COX

This year, as before, St. Mary's is participating in a tutoring program in the Raleigh Public School System. Wiley Elementary Call but we tary School is our only project so far, but we hope to have other elementary schools in the area in our program at a later date.

Tutoring does not mean just academic subjects. Although we work in the areas of math, reading, and English, we also conduct projects in the fields of arts and crafts, sports, and and personal grooming. If you have any abilities or interests, or simply would like some information on the program, please contact Vision 108 tact Virginia Cox, the chairman, in 108 Cruik, or phone 828-2632.

NEW AND OLD FACES ENHANCE FACULTY

By MARGARET STEVENS

From as far away as Europe and as close as Raleigh, the seven new and returning SMIC faculty members come from all over

Physical Education instructor Mary Lida Alexander was thrown into the shower three times on her birthday. This mishap occurred at her earlier teaching position in Charlotte's Eastway Ir. High.

Native to Kannapolis, Miss Alexander was graduated from UNC-G with a B.S. in physical education. She has had much practice for her job through her participation in statewide tennis tournaments. During her senior year, her UNC-G tennis team placed fourth in the Women's National Invitational.

Miss Alexander presently teaches tennis, bowling and Introduction to Team Sports. She feels that St. Mary's is a "friendly and cooperative effort in learning where students and teachers are working together towards a common goal.'

"I thoroughly enjoy the atmosphere here because students are treated as individuals, said Math instructor Ellen A. Birch. Graduated from N. C. State with a B.S. in math education, Miss Birch taught three years at her high alma mater, Cardinal Gibbons, in Raleigh.

In addition to her mathematical interests, Miss Birch enjoys basketball and tennis. During her years at Cardinal Gibbons she coached her girl's basketball team to third place in a conference of 11. Miss Birch has taught P.E. and English as well as Math.

After his retirement from the service in 1967, math instructor Hamilton Fish participated in a program sponsored by the National Science Foundation at N. C. State to train retired servicemen as math teachers. "I'm just not physically constituted to work for 30 years and then start doing nothing, he explained.

Mr. Fish found few problems with returning to school after retirement. He is a member of Pi Mu Epsilon, the mathematical honor society, and Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. In addition to his Master of Teaching degree in math, Mr. Fish is a registered engineer in N. C. He holds a B.S. from West Point and a M.S. in civil engineering from Harvard.

Teaching her classes with a British accent, sociology and psychology professor Georgina Hancock is a native of Sheffield, England. She and her family left England five years ago.

"My husband and I particularly wanted to live and work in another country and have the opportunity to travel on a large scale without feeling like tourists," explained Mrs. Hancock. Because their two children are small, the Hancocks preferred to remain in an English-speaking country.

After her architect husband secured a teaching position at N. C. State, the Hancocks moved to Raleigh. Unable to continue ner previous profession as a social worker, Mrs. Hancock opened an import shop in Raleigh. She later relocated it in Chapel Hill and enrolled in State's graduate school with a research assistantship. Mrs. Hancock graduated with a M.S. in sociology and minor in psychology. She completed her undergraduate work at the University of Birmingham in England.

After a year's stay in Norway, Mrs. Olivann Hobbie has returned to SMJC for her third time. Taking a year off from his position at State, Mrs. Hobbie's husband did work at a Norwegian water research project in Oslow. Mrs. Hobbie feels at home in Scandinavia since she and her family spent from 1962 to 1965 in Sweden.

Her two older boys, ages 7 and 11, at-
