

THE DIFFERENCE.

There are some of our brethren who get the various missions aided by our churches rather "mixed up." For instance, they get confused as to what is meant by Associational Missions, Home Missions, or State Missions. A word of explanation might not be amiss:

Associational Missions mean the mission work carried on within the bounds of the Association; State Missions, that work prosecuted within the State; and Home Missions the mission work carried on by the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention within the Southern States and Southwestern Territories. In sending up funds for these various objects to the Treasurer of the Baptist State Convention, brethren should be careful to explain fully for which object the contribution is meant. Care should be exercised also to give the name of the church and association from which the contribution comes.

OUR MISSIONARIES AND THEIR FIELDS.

The Board of Missions has commissioned the following faithful men to labor in parts of the destitution in our State. If we had the means, we might judiciously employ almost as many more, as there are many more very important fields asking us for the preached word:
