greenhouse that can no longer support delicate orchids but can still serve as a "cold" house for frost-susceptible plants. A leaking aquarium could be put back into circulation through repair or use as a terrarium. Books, magazines, journals, equipment, chemicals, chart models, and glassware are all items in constant demand.

Savings made on routine expenditures can be dedicated to the purchase of an urgently needed piece of equipment while keeping within the limits of a Spartan budget. The biology majors at Belmont Abbey have become major contributors to museum specimens, charts, audiovisuals, displays, and prepared microscope slides, all of them representing money savings and adding considerable pedagogic value. Since the students' work is part of their course assignment, it gains a new dimension; in learning by doing, they are helping others in future courses.

Nowadays there is a clamor to recycle waste in order not to penalize any further the already threatened environment. This is a plea to recycle the still usable surplus of scientific tools. We can offer no brownie points, no indulgences. Just the satisfaction of giving meaningfully - plus a tax deduction. And, of course, you can always count on our sincere gratitude at receiving your help.

Of Courts And Colleges

DORMITORY REGULATIONS UPHELD, Pratz v. Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, 316 F. Supp. 872 (W.D. La. 1970). The court upheld parietal regulations requiring all unmarried full-time undergraduates to live in the university's dormitories.

UNIVERSITY REGULATION, SEARCH OF DORMITORY ROOM, AND CRIMINAL CONVICTION OVERTURNED. Piazzola v. Watkins, No. 30332 (5th Cir. 1971). With the consent of university administrators, state narcotics agents entered the students' dormitory rooms without a warrant and found marijuana. A student was convicted in a criminal court and given a five-year prison term. The district court held that "reasonableness" governs the university's relationship to its students in search and seizure cases but refused to permit the university to delegate or share this right of entry and search with the police. In finding the searches unconstitutional, the court ordered the student released from prison and this decision was affirmed on appeal.

Student Behavior

As in past sessions of the Legislature, a number of bills were introduced during the 1971 session to regulate student behavior on college campuses. Again the General Assembly prudently refrained from enacting any excessively repressive measures. The responsibility for administering the public institutions in respect to student affairs was left largely to the legally responsible boards of trustees and their administrators. One piece of legislation was enacted which strengthened the hand of appropriate officials. It was a bill making it unlawful for any person to possess, or carry, whether openly or concealed, any gun, rifle, pistol, dynamite cartridge, bomb, grenade mine, powerful explosive, knife, or any other similar weapon not used solely for instructional, school-sanctioned, or ceremonial purposes in any public or private school building or bus, on any public or private school campus, grounds, recreation area, athletic field, or other property owned, used or operated by any board of education, school, college, or university or college board of trustees of any public or private educational institution.

HOME COMING

Homecoming will be held on February 12th, 1972.

Details will appear in the December issue of Crossroads.

We know that the Washington, D. C. Alumni Chapter has challenged the Charlotte Chapter to a basketball game. We wonder if Richmond can play (something about their age)! We have already engaged the Bill Bolen Trio for Saturday night from 10:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.

Steps are also being taken to provide excellent accommodations.

More to come in our next issue. Plan now to attend.

OUR NEXT ISSUE

Father Nicholas discusses the contribution of psychologist Abraham Maslow.

Dr. Miller considers the impact of behaviorist B. F. Skinner.
