LETTERS

Dear Sir:

It was good seeing the article on Preston. The one thing we missed at the reunion was seeing people from the 59-60-61 years. A few showed up but nothing like I expected to see.

I might mention one thing to you. I attended the last class reunion that was held for Catholic High past-students and found that a third of the girls had married Abbey boys, and we had our own reunion there. It might be wise to co-ordinate next meetings with their functions in order to get more Abbey alumni to come out.

Looking forward to hearing more from you and CROSSROADS. A good article for the paper would be some information about Belmont,

'31 -- George Soter is retired and living in Hampton, Virginia.

'37 -- George Gornto is vice president of The Harvester Corporation in Salisbury, Maryland. George Armstrong is a veterinarian in Charlotte.

'40 -- Congratulations to Carlton (Tubby) Rhyne, who has been appointed to the advisory council of Moore Business Forms, one of the seven members in the United States. He and Libby have two children and live in Greensboro.

Thanks for last issue of (Crossroads). It is so enjoyable to read and to bring back memories of my days at St. Mary's College 1903 - 1908, and the old cathedral with Fr. Melehoir, O.S.B., Pastor, and Fr. Felix, O.S.B.

With some of my "Old Buddies" we served Mass for Bishop Leo Haid, Abbot and Bishop of North Carolina and others.

in Alexandria, Virginia and lives in Springfield.

'56 -- It was good to see Fran and Chuck Muller when they came for their son Corky's graduation from the Abbey. Bill Hatchett teaches in the Huntsville (Alabama) city schools. He received his masters from Athens College of the University of Alabama.

'57 -- James Devine is assistant director, publications division of the public information office of the N.C. Department of Agriculture in Raleigh. Michael Bishop is the owner of Bishop's TV-Stereo, Magnavox Home Entertainment Centers, in San Pablo, Calif. We have a copy of the ad which was in the Richmond Independent showing young Michael, a handsome lad indeed. James Franklin teaches the mentally retarded in the Los Angeles City Schools. He graduated from California State

Sunday Mass 10 a.m. was quite a treat because the girls from Sacred Heart Academy sat on one side of the aisle, we sat on the other, and there was some flirting. It was the only time we got to see girls all week. I only hope the music boxes from Germany were preserved. They were used at Christmas and Holy Days. Fr. Fred was organist and Fr. Raymond was so good he was sent to New York for lessons from the Masters. Fr. Millnery (Michael), the great architect, was one of my mathematics teachers.

Sincerely
