Nine Are Seniors

Ten Named To Who's Who

Ten Belmont Abbey College Students, nine seniors and one junior, have been elected to this year's edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The announcement was made by Warren L. Clark, Dean of Students, after the ten were chosen by a committee comprised of students, administration officials and faculty, and confirmed by officers of the national Who's Who organization.

Selection for this honor by the college and election by the National Committee is one of the highest honors awarded in American colleges and universities. Criteria for nomination include excellence and sincerity in scholarship, leadership, participation and support in campus extracurricular and other activities, service to the college and community, and future promise as a leader in American society and business.

The nine seniors elected, who are candidates for the Bachelor's degree at Belmont Abbey College, are Philip Eugene Baucom, an accounting major from Holly Hill, South Carolina; Joseph Henry Coffey, Jr., an English major from Charlotte, North Carolina; Robert Lee Daniel, Jr., an Economics and Business major from Chesapeake, Virginia; Michael Casey Holland, an Economics and Business major from Petersburg, Virginia; Christopher B. McDonald, a Psychology major from Kearny, New Jersey; Kevin Murray McGowan, a Political Science major from Richmond, Virginia;

Bernard Peter Scibienski, Jr., an Economics and Business major from Fords, New Jersey; Donald Joseph Smyth, an Economics and Business major from Orlando, Florida; and William A. Vigliotta, an Economics and Business major from East Moriches, New York.

The Abbey junior selected for this high honor is John Paul Marchwinski, a Biology major from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Homecoming at the Abbey, held September 20-22, was spiced with recollection and reminiscence, as a Homecoming parade and a 50's sock hop set the tone for the festivities.

The Saturday afternoon parade was the revival of a Belmont Abbey tradition of the late 50's and early 60's, which had been dormant for several years. Gaily decorated floats and cars were prepared for the occasion by Abbey students, who also entered the competition for prizes as clowns and marching units. A float from Sacred Heart College also competed for the cash awards.

An enthusiastic crowd of area residents and students were on hand to greet the cavalcade, which boasted a kazoo band entered by the brothers of Phi Kappa Theta. The Abbey chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon won the Best Decorated Float award for their entry done in a red and white motif, featuring a figure ready to be guillotined and the slogan "Abbey will go a 'head'."

The parade ended at the Belmont Abbey soccer field where, later that afternoon, the Crusaders defeated the Knights of St. Andrews College in the homecoming match by a score of 4-3. A semi-formal dance with a

Camelot theme was held Saturday night.

The festivities were capped Sunday afternoon with a concert by the Peter Yarrow Band. The group of musicians and vocalists featured Peter Yarrow of Peter, Paul and Mary fame. Yarrow opened the program with a set of solo numbers recalling the folk and social protest songs of his earlier career. He then brought on the rest of the band and involved the audience in an enthusiastic, hand-clapping repertoire blending rock 'n' roll, Jamaican sounds, nostalgia and satire.

Phi Kap Wins

The Alpha Rho Chapter of Phi Kappa Theta fraternity, Belmont Abbey College, recently won the first annual Pennsylvania Province basketball tournament, hosted by the chapter at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa.

The Abbey team competed against nine other colleges and universities in the double-elimination tournament to win the final game against LaSalle College by a score of 69-53. The basketball games were part of a weekend of activities for the Phi Kap brothers who came from schools in the Northeast and South.
