

NO TAX ON FOOD BRINGS WOMEN TO J. M. BROUGHTON

RALEIGH, N. C., May 16.—Women in every one of the more than 1800 precincts in North Carolina are rallying to the standard of J. M. Broughton, candidate for Governor, Mrs. J. R. Futrell reported today.

Mr. Broughton's stand on the sales tax with his promise to take the sales tax off all food bought for the home table has struck a responsive chord in the hearts of the women of the State and particularly in those sections where most of the family paycheck must go for food.

"We are intensively organizing every precinct of North Carolina for Mr. Broughton," said Mrs. Futrell, head of the woman's division of the Broughton campaign.

"Our high type of campaign and the appeal of Mr. Broughton's qualifications and platform to the teachers and mothers of North Carolina have attracted a great number of women to the active support of our candidate," she added.

Mrs. Futrell declared that she felt "particularly fortunate" in securing as her associate State Manager, Miss Ruth Burke, who has taught school at LaGrange for the past 18 years.

Miss Burke has been prominent in the State organizations of the P. T.-A., the Federation of Women's Clubs, and the N. C. Education Association as well as in the Democratic Party councils and in Lenoir County and State government.

A women's organization has been set up in more than 90 counties in the State, featuring such typical women as Mrs. George E. Marshall of Mt. Airy, past State president of the Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Mary Green Johnson of Lillington, sister of the Pulitzer Prize Dramatist Paul Green; Mrs. Wilbur Bunn of Raleigh, past executive secretary of the Federation of Women's Clubs; and a host of ladies, prominent in P. T.-A., Women's Clubs, the American Legion Auxilliary, Garden Clubs, church activities and a host of other organizations.

Mrs. Bunn says, "Mr. Broughton is recognized as a brilliant orator. His delivery is unaffected, simple and clear, and quite forceful. His speeches emanate from a powerful and well trained intellect, constantly enriched by reading of choice literature and timely topics.

"Mr. Broughton inherits the name of a family long outstanding in Baptist history in North Carolina. I shall never forget when he was elected Superintendent of the Tabernacle Baptist Sunday School of this city, an office he has held since that day 27 years ago. The church had been called together for the sole purpose of electing a successor to the late Needham Broughton, pioneer Baptist spirit and uncle of J. Melville Broughton. In addition to his duties as superintendent for the past 15 years he has been teaching a large class of young men."
