

Spotlight: Thomas Revelle

CHAITU MADAMANCHI

Those of you who have gone to the home basketball games this season might have wondered who was the shaggy brown-haired junior that fearlessly battled inside against taller stronger opponents. Thomas Revelle, noted by teammates for his hard work ethic, intense hustle, and heart is from Murfreesboro, North Carolina.

His season high was twelve points against the conference leaders, the Ravenscroft Ravens.

Thomas started playing basketball during the second or third grade and caught on to the game playing with friends that also loved basketball. Basketball is a sport that runs in the family for Thomas, as his mother played at the college level for Davidson, and his father played varsity basketball at the high school level.

Revelle has been a versatile player, able to play both post and perimeter positions. He believes that his game resembles that of reputed NBA player Rasheed Wallace, power forward for the Portland Trailblazers.

His goals include improving his individual ability, playing and working harder, and winning more games.

Ryan Campbell

Dominating D, Opportunistic O

JOHN ZHANG

Defense, defense, defense. Defense has characterized the Tampa Bay Buccaneers for the past four years, and always kept them in games, but many times the offense could not score enough points to win. Super Bowl XXXVI and the 2002-2003 NFL season, however, proved to be different.

The Bucs, noted for being a defensive juggernaut, have an underrated offense that has been overlooked many times. The defense played better than par, but it was the offense of the Bucs, led by Brad Johnson, that proved critics wrong, making the difference between a winning team and a Super Bowl Team. The Bucs finally had a complete team, and they dominated the Super Bowl with a 48-21 victory over the Raiders.

Sure the defense was great, picking off 5 Rich Gannon passes, returning 3 for TD's. Throughout the play-offs the D has shut down top quarterbacks, 3 pro bowlers in a row, including Jeff Garcia (SF), Donovan McNabb (PHI), and Rich Gannon (OAK).

Before though, even with turnovers, the Bucs couldn't convert squat. However, without the INT's, the Bucs still would have probably scored 27 points. Brad Johnson, the Bucs' QB, should be in the pro-bowl, as his TD-INT ratio is off the charts. Defense is the identity of the Bucs, but watch out for the O too. The whole team, not just the D, deserves much praise.

Give credit to a great D, maybe one of the best in history, but the opportunistic offense, was the difference this year. The defense was expected, but the offense beat expectations. A team in the hunt for years finally goes home with the ring and trophy in a battle of Raiders and Buccaneers.
