HIGH LIGHTS OF 1925 PROVES "A KNOCK-OUT"

One of the best and most successful home talent productions ever presented in Lexington was the one given by the Senior Dramatic Club on March 6. The cast was composed entirely of members of the Senior Class. This play was produced under the direction of Misses Lula Walker and Stephanie Bragaw and Mr. Dick Walser.

Just before the entertainment Herbert Waters rendered several selections on the Xylophone. The first thing on the program was the black face act, "Hard Hearted Hannah," Pearl Wright proving the 'pep' of this feature. The old-fashioned girls made a 'hit' with their pretty dresses and smiling faces.

Dwight Johnson showed himself to be a magician of most excellent ability presenting many original tricks.

Frances Thompson made a beautiful portrait and displayed just how perfect an actress can be. Dick Walser and Cloyd Philpott were the 'sheiks' of the evening. Every 'Dream Girl' was new and different and their act was very interesting. Madge McCarn and Dick Walser were profusely applauded after both of their numbers, "All Alone", and "Romeo and Juliet".

The most unique feature of the program was "The cross word puzzle". Their costumes were very attractive and they were "real chorus girls".

To "cap the climax", every member of the Senior Class and the cast—black faces, old-fashioned girls, magician, cross word puzzle nuts, dream girls, beaux and Romeo and Juliet—came on the stage singing, "We love you tonight '25!"

Weep, and the world laughs at you;
Laugh and you laugh alone.
For you'll find, as a rule,
That no darn fool
Can see any joke but his own.

Great North Carolinians

On March 12, 1925, at our regular chapel exercises, we had a very interesting talk by Mr. Don Walser. His subject was, "The Three Greatest North Carolinians". His idea of this subject was that one came from each department of our government. From the executive branch, he named Governor Vance, our governor during the civil war. From the legislative branch comes Charles Aycock, to whom every school child is indebted. From the judicial department comes Mr. Clark who was indeed a great North Carolinian. The talk was enjoyed by all and we hope that Mr. Walser will visit us again.

TRIANGULAR DEBATE

On Friday night, March 27, the preliminary for the annual triangular debate will be held. Mt. Airy sends her negative team here to contend with our affirmative, which is composed of Dick Walser and Louise Thompson, the latter having taken the place of Ham Hargrave, who was prevented from taking part by a case of the mumps. Lexington's negative team, composed of Cloyd Philpott and Stephanie Bragaw, will debate against North Wilkesboro's affirmative representatives at their home. Much time has been spent preparing the debates, and we feel certain that our teams will be victorious this year. Two of the debaters, Cloyd Philpott and Dick Walser, displayed their excellent ability in this field last year, and we are sure that with the help of their colleagues, they will not only reach Chapel Hill, but will come home bearing the silver cup.

A boy named Woodrow Wilson, while visiting Davidson College went to see his old room. On knocking at the door, he received this reply.

"Who are you?"

He replied "I am Woodrow Wilson" The boy on the inside: "Well, I am George Washington and I'm shaving, so you can't come in".

DAVIDSON GLEE CLUB CONCERT PLEASURES ALL

Everyone who attended the Davidson Glee Club Concert was well pleased, and liked their program very much. The whole glee club was good, but the jazz orchestra made the hit of the evening. The black face acts were good and everyone enjoyed them. The quartets and solo's were fine, and the violin solos were beautiful. The program was well selected, and did not become monotonous. The whole glee club was splendid and those who heard it understand why it is considered one of the best of the State.

A NOTE OF APPRECIATION

The members of the Senior Dramatic Club wish that it were possible to personally thank every one who aided in making their vaudeville, "High Lights of 1925," a success. But since that is impossible, we wish through the columns of The "Lexhippep," to express our appreciation to every man, woman and child who loaned his aid and cooperation. Especially do we wish to thank the Parent-Teacher Association; Kirkman & Peninger; Arnold, Holman & Leonard; Mrs. Zeb V. Walser, Jr.; those who made candy, and all the members of the student body who attended or helped in any way.

BARGAIN DAY

He—"I'd give a million dollars
For just one kiss from you".
She—"Well, Old Dear, produce the cash
And then I'll make it two".

GIRL'S BEWARE.

Little Alice—"Why do you grease
the chickens heads, mother?"
Mother—"To kill the lice, darling."
Little Alice (after a moment's hesitation)—"Well then, I'm going to stay away from Bill".
