

EXCHANGES

The Parrot, China Grove, N. C. The short stories are fine, and so are the editorials, and the one-act play, too. We wonder how you are successful in "ad-getting."

River Ripples, Bassett, Va. It truly ripples back and forth, telling you a little of everything. "Everything" includes an "elegy". My! L. H. S. students sometimes write poems. But "elegies!" Never! at least you have something new.

The Carolinian, N. C. C. W., Greensboro, N. C. The news is excellently written—arrangement is also commendable.

The Forester, Forest City, N. C. We believe you have a fine school, judging from your paper. The arrangement of your publication is fine.

The Chatterbox, Panville, Va. A creditable semi-monthly; but where are your exchanges and other departments? The poem, "Vengeance," was fine—sounded like some mortly Shakesperian.

The Twig, Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C. Poets corner is a fine one, indeed, and the literary articles are especially good. The editorial column is exceptional and quite clever.

The Hillbilly, Asheville, N. C. Vividness and composition have a personal check on the Hillbilly. Congratulations, A. H. S.

The Central Digest, Chattanooga, Tenn. A welcome and interesting publication. We believe you could arrange your material better, but the present way is acceptable.

"Heard the story about Ben?"
"Ben who?"
"Benzine. It leaked out somehow".

Mother—"You know you don't really love Jim; it is only puppy love"
Anna—"Hot Dog!"

The next number on the program ladies and gentlemen, will be a song entitled. "I call Her 'Ollomargorine, for I haven't any but her".
