

The Hill-Billy dance, sponsored by the LEXHIPEP Staff, was a huge success as demonstrated in the above picture. Center foreground, couples square dancing.

Amateur Fashion Show Presented By FHA

The Future Homemakers of America presented on December 4 Miss Elizabeth Jones, representative of the Education Department of the Simplicity Pattern Company, Inc. Using members of the club as models, she presented her fall fashion review: "A Dream Wardrobe for the Modern Miss." The fashion parade covered all sorts of appropriate clothes from the simplest school dress to the most formal evening gown. The program was thoroughly enjoyed by all, especially the boys.

Honor Society Meets

The National Honor Society met in the home of Margaret Finch on Monday night, November 25. After the meeting was called to order, Becky Smith conducted the devotional.

A discussion was held about a movie the Honor Society is to have after the Thanksgiving holidays.

Becky Smith made a report on members eligible for membership and also the number of seniors and juniors to be taken in.

Memorial Service

(Continued from page one)

honor, love, and devotion."

Perhaps the most impressive moments were experienced during the candle lighting service when Paul Shoemaker and Richard Deane gave the roll of honor, giving statistics about each person represented by a cross. A candle was lighted after each name was read. Tributes were paid to the following: Robert Wade Biesecker '36; John C. Bower, Jr., '33; Oliver David Briggs, '35; Clyde W. Carlton '39; Harold E. Cecil, Jr., '37; Norman "Bud" Corn '44; Curran Elton Craver '40; "Dewberry" Everhart '42; Blake R. Ellis; Edmund Silfred Gaines '38; James Hartzog '34; William Haddon Hege '44; Arlan Hudon '38; George Frank James '43; Ira Leslie Kivett, Jr., '39; Lindsay Paul Leonard '40; Henry Franklin Link; Bobby Smith Lookabill '43; John R. McCrary, Jr., '21; Thomas Hill Michale '36; Jack Mundy; Clyde Dudley Newman '36; Henry Albert Styers, Jr., '39; John M. Trexler, Jr., '35; Charles Vestal; Charles Lee Waitman, Jr.; Wesley F. Walker '39; Occo Pickett Jr., '37.

Mr. Clifford concluded the program by emphasizing the sacrifices these boys had made and leaving a breathless question concerning what today might have been, had they not stood between us and our enemies. He closed using the words of St. Paul "You have been bought with a great price." These L.H.S. boys helped to pay that price.

Bible Club Is Organized

The first period Bible class held a business meeting in October and organized a Bible Club, the first L.H.S. has ever had.

Harold Lanier was elected president with Mary Dowtin, vice-president; Edna Sue Shoaf, secretary; and Patsy Leonard, treasurer.

One meeting is scheduled for each week. At the first meeting the project was discussed and several were decided upon. Scrapbooks for the children's ward at the hospital are being made. Also scripture book-marks are being secured for all school children in the city. An honor system is being worked on.

There will be a Bible Convention in Asheville next April, and this club is planning to send delegates to it.

Junior Red Cross Drive Totals $144.64

The National Junior Red Cross Drive was underway from November 1-15. Each homeroom in L. H. S. was very cooperative and took part in a very enthusiastic way. A Red Cross sticker was given each room and a membership card was given to each contributor.

Two eighth grade rooms contributed the largest amounts. Mrs. Gibson's room made the largest contribution with approximately $34.00 being raised. Mr. Rentz's ranked next, with his room raising approximately $30.00. A total of $144.64 was contributed from this school.

Five gift boxes for foreign children were filled by the home economic classes. The classes are also planning to make some clothes for the Junior Red Cross.

Peggy Jean Thomason, president read a letter received concerning the State Organization of National Honor Society Convention, and one delegate was appointed to attend.

No other business was to be brought up, so delicious refreshments were then served, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Clublicity

—Mary Sue Thomason

Future Homemakers of America Hold Initiation

Attend District Meeting

On November 12, 1946, the Future Homemakers had initiation of 48 new members and were given one day of initiations. During that day the initiates wore aprons and oddly mixed apparel.

On Tuesday night a candlelight service was conducted which stated to the new members the qualifications of a good club member. Eight old members of the club acted as guides for the incoming members. Each guide stated a purpose of the club. The new and old members elected delegates for the district meeting. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

The district meeting was held at the Boyden High School in Salisbury November 16. An interesting program had been arranged by the Rowan County teachers, with different chapters participating. Lunch was served in the home economics department.

Delegates attending from Lexington were, Betty Weese, Nancy Foster, Sarah Tussey, Colleen Story, Mozell Perrell, Mary Dean Hedrick, Wilma Everhart, Martha Hooper, Johnnie Michael, Frances Truell, Elsie Fleming, Emily Russell and Mrs. Jacqueline Leonard, adviser.

Tri-Hi-Y Has November Meetings

The two November meetings of the Tri-Hi-Y took place on November 5 and 19, at 7:30 P. M.

On November 5, the meeting was called to order in the home of Nancy Jean Conrad with Jean Gregg as co-hostess. The roll was called and minutes read. Enid Ayers then made a report on the Tri-Hi-Y officers meeting which she attended in Greensboro. After discussing the points which she learned, refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned.

On November 19, the club met at Mary Eleanor Gray's home with Nancy Witherspoon as co-hostess. A very im-

"Shopping & Popping"

—Sue Hooper

So you don't know what to give someone for Christmas? Well, I'm going to try to help you solve your problem. First, you make out the list of people to whom you wish to give a gift. Let's start with the family, and go on to the others:

Mother, Dad, S.S., Brother, Favorite Aunt and Uncle, Grandmother and Grandfather, The Neighbor's Dog, The Postman, The One and Only, The Sidekick.

O. K. Now you have that much, so let's go back and find out what to give to each.

For Mother a flannel lined, taffeta jewelry case with a sequin design on one corner; this would make her eyes light up for you. She'll love you all the more for giving her this useful gift.

Now, what can we give Dad? If he likes to lie around and read his paper a soft smoking jacket or lounging pajamas will suit his fancy. Maybe a pair of soft leather slippers with a fleece lining will suit him better. (After you get him all comfortable in his easy chair, he really is in a better mood for you to ask him for an advance of your allowance.)

A pair of quilted slippers in bright colors are just the thing for Sis. If she is a little older, how about a lapel pin that sparkles like the stars? It will match her eyes when she goes out with her No. 1 Swoman.

Now for the problem of what to give your kid brother! This one always gives you trouble, so let's try to figure it out. One of those new windbreakers with plaid wool lining are dandy; or maybe if he is a little fellow, a chemistry set or a wood-burning set. Any one of those gifts will make him worship you for months to come.

Your favorite Aunt and Uncle aren't hard to find something for. A beautiful linen luncheon set embroidered in intricate design is ideal for your aunt, and a bright scarf or a white one for your uncle checks them off with ease.

I wonder what a dog would like. Well, of course; a bone or a few scraps of meat from the butcher's shop! A dog never gets tired of bones and meat, nor will he ever forget you as a friend.

As for the postman, he shouldn't be hard to suit. The first thing he would like would be a pair of easy slippers to rest his tired feet. After all, look how far he has to walk.

A warm, pastel wool bed-jacket will feel good to Grandmother on cold winter nights. It's gift will be very serviceable and very, very much appreciated. Something on the same line will be grand for Grandfather. A wool jacket to slip on over his vest when he just wants to knock around the house makes a perfect gift.

The One and Only requires much thinking. His gift must be special and if he receives a big plaid wool shirt that is so popular now, he will look at you in a new light. An identification bracelet is the ever faithful gift that will never fail you. No matter what you get him, just send all your love with it and it will be special deluxe.

For the sidekick just ask him or her what it is that is wanted and you will find out. It never is a problem to know what to give, because you know practically everything she or he wants.

I hope you won't have any trouble with your Christmas shopping. So "Merry Christmas," and the very best wishes to you all.

pressive devotional service was conducted by Becky Smith, who was also in charge of the program.

After the program, the business meeting was held. The Pep-Parade was discussed and six members volunteered to make posters.

A Christmas project was discussed but no definite decision was made.

Refreshments were served, after which the meeting was adjourned.