

A. Sapp's Fibles

By A. SAPP

Barbara R.: "I like guys with blue eyes and green backs!"

Mary Nell: "Charles, dear," she asked softly, "can you drive with one hand?"

Pea Head: "Yes, my sweet," he cooed in ecstasy of anticipation.

Mary Nell: "Then you'd better wipe your nose; it's running."

Father: "Well, T. D., how are your marks at school?"

T. D.: "Under water!"

Father: "What do you mean?"

T. D.: "They're all below the 'C' level."

Blalock: Do you enjoy Kipling?

Mr. Gathings: Well, I don't want to appear ignorant, but I don't know. Just how do you Kipple?

Raker: I want a razor.

Clerk: Safety razor?

Raker: No, sir; I want it for social purposes.

Doug C.: "Can't see what keeps gals from freezing in the cold weather."

Bender: "You're not supposed to."

Marriage is like a bath; by the time you get use to it it's not so hot.

Boy Friend: Did you know that I am practically married?

Mike S.: Oh, goodness! I thought you were going to say this car wasn't yours.

Newell: "Have you ever had any indecent relations?"

Carter: "Yes, but they're all dead now."

Amos Fritts: "Is this hair tonic any good?"

Jimmy Grayson: "Is it good? Why, I spilled some of it on my comb last week, and look—now it's a brush."

A colored lady patient was asked if she had ever been X-rayed.

"No, suh! I aint' never been X-rayed, but I shore have been ultra-violated."

Tubba C.: "What would you do if I tried to kiss you?" he asked heavily.

Joanne K.: "Yell for father," she quickly replied.

He sprang away from her and gulped nervously: "Great Scott! I thought your father was out of town."

"That's right; he is," she sweetly replied.

He—"Please!" She—"No!" He—"Just this once!" She—"No! I said."

He—"Aw heck, ma! All the rest of the kids are going barefoot."

She was only a grave-digger's daughter, but you ought to see her lower the beer.

"Porter, get me another glass of ice water."

"Sorry, suh, but if I takes any mo' ice, dot co'pse in de baggage car ain't going to keep."

"Help! Help! I've been robbed!" she cried. "Someone has taken my aunt's pay!"

A policeman quieted her. "Cut out the pig-Latin and tell me what happened," he said.

It is reliably reported that Mahatma Ghandi left college because all the girls were after his pin.
