

Future Homemakers Honor Mothers At Valentine Banquet

Members of the Lexington chapter of the Future Homemakers of America entertained their mothers at a buffet supper Tuesday evening, February 14, 1950, in the high school economics department at 6:30. The rooms were beautifully decorated with the theme of Valentine day predomination. Red roses and azaleas were used.

"Get-Acquainted" games were used before the meal. The long table was decorated with red candles and centered with a large bowl of red roses. The menu consisted of a large variety of delicious foods brought by each student. Soft music was played during the meal.

After the meal a short candlelight program was conducted by the president, Jeanette Leonard. Several members gave the purpose and explained the work of the organization. Each girl then stood and introduced herself and her mother. The program was closed by everyone singing the F.H.A. emblem benediction.

Reverend Banks J. Peeler Leads Devotional Assembly

The student body was very glad to have the Reverend Banks J. Peeler, well-known pastor of the First Reformed Church, as speaker for the devotional assembly program on Thursday, March 2. He stressed that students should make the most of what they have and grasp opportunities as they come along. Everyone enjoyed his talk and would like to extend a cordial welcome for him to visit the school at any time.

Ross Ritchie conducted the devotional, and the Glee Club sang musical selections of a religious nature.
