

A SAPP'S FIBBLES

By A SAPP

He was seated in the parlor
And he said unto the light:
"Either you or I, old fellow,
Will be turned down tonight."

PICNIC

Upon this theme
I'll briefly touch:
Too far
To go
To eat
Too much.

When girls put on their spring guise,
They're looking for fall guys.

Sweaters for girls
Come in sizes that fit:
Little and large,
And "I don't believe it."

Wives are the women that men are always in church with.

Two old maids went for a tramp in the woods. The tramp escaped.

A young lady after a broken engagement returned all the gent's letters marked, "Fourth Class Male".

Her face is her fortune—and it runs into a nice figure.

An old timer is a guy who can remember the days when a woman stayed home if she had nothing to wear.

Speeches are like steer horns—a point here, a point there, and a lot of bull in between.

Lawyer, reading client's last will and testament to circle of expectant relatives: "And so, being of sound mind, I spent every darn cent I had before I died."

Cowboy: What kind of a saddle do you want—one with a horn or without?
Dude: Without no horns. There doesn't seem to be much traffic on these prairies.

All the animals came to the ark in pairs—except the worms. They came in apples.

The modern girls dress to kill—cook about the same way.

Then there was a bitter golf match between two Scots under a broiling sun in which one of them had a stroke and the other made him count it.

Cop: Hey, Jones, where are you going at four in the morning?
Jones (turning in his driveway): To a lecture.

The father's tone of voice was severe. "Young man," he said, "do you think you should be taking my daughter to night clubs all the time?"
"Indeed not!" the boy answered, then he added hopefully, "Let's try to reason with her."

Reporter: I've got a perfect news story.
Editor: How come? Man bit a dog?
Reporter: No, but a hydrant sprinkled one.

DAFFY DEFINITIONS

Golf: A good walk spoiled.
Meteorologist: A man who can look into a girl's eyes and tell whether.
Conscience: Something that feels terrible when everything else feels swell.
Modern bathing suit: Two bandanas and a worried look.
Alimony. The high cost of leaving.
Gambling: A way of getting nothing for something.
Punctuality: The art of guessing correctly how late the other party is going to be.

Bill: Do you believe in clubs for women?
Will: Yes, if every other form of persuasion fails.

The trouble with being best man at a wedding is that you don't have a chance to prove it.

Mr. Clark: "The earth is known to be round, and it hangs in the air without support. Millie, tell the class how you prove it."
"Millie": I don't have to prove it. I never said it was.

Burglar: Please let me go, lady. I never did anything wrong.
Old Maid: Well, it's not too late to learn.

Fun is like insurance—the older you get, the more it costs.

Mrs. Lewis: Give me a definition for a pedestrian.
Don Hege: A pedestrian is a car owner who has found a parking place.
