NEWS BRIEFS

—Elizabeth Clodfelter

The year is nearly ended,
(My thoughts are all askance;)
Sorrow and joy are blended
As we give a backward glance.
So many things have taken place
In the year about to end.
I'll try a picture for to trace,
To recall some important trend.

"SCHOOL DAYS, SCHOOL DAYS . . ." And it's back to our good old school for another year. For many it is the last year. Let's make it the best Lexington Hi has ever known.

IT HAS BEEN a wonderful year. Under the capable direction of Ang Lindsay, president of the Senior Class, and Marvin Crow, Student Council president, it will take an exceptional year's events even to equal this, our farewell year at L. H. S.

DID YOU KNOW THAT L. H. S. is considered to have the second best Industrial Arts Department in the State? We rate second only to High Point High School, which is considerably larger than L. H. S.

HIGH POINT'S I. A. D. MAY be larger than ours, but the work done in our department could not be equaled by any other school, no matter how much larger!! Your fine workmanship has been wonderful, boys!!

Pictured here are some of the Seniors and their cute little brothers and sisters of pre-school age. They show promise of being as attractive and popular as their older sisters. Seated left to right are Peggy and Nancy Costner, Mary Dean and Dwight Hedrick, Peggie and Neil McCulloch, Betty Jean and Jimmy Saunders, Jo Ann and Woody Perrell, Blanch, Charles, and Dona Rea Cox, Nancy and Cheryl Thomason. Absent when picture was made were Barbara and Simmy DeLapp, Charles and Johnny Harris, Nancy and Johnny Bumgarner.

This afternoon at one-thirty the "dignified seniors" held their annual Senior Assembly. The participants of the program were led into the auditorium by the class marshals while the traditional "Largo" was being played. After the seniors were seated, the superintendent, Mr. L. E. Andrews, gave the invocation. A solo was rendered by Marilyn Saunders, after which the Class History was read by the Historian, Elizabeth Clodfelter; and Robert Sutton rendered a baritone solo, "Myra." The presentation of gifts was made to the class mascots, Elizabeth Lee Nance and Johnny Harris, by the president of the Senior Class, Anglos Lindsey, who then introduced the senior superlatives. Robert Mims then sang "Desert Song" by Romberg.

The presentation of awards was a highlight of the assembly, and many deserving seniors and underclassmen were highly honored. These scholarships and awards were as follows: Erlanger Mills Four-Year Scholarship, O. Henry Short Story Award, National Honor Society Scholarship Medal, Lexington Music Study Club Medals, Euterpe Music Club Medals, Business and Professional Women's Club Scholarships, American Legion Auxiliary Scholarship, W. C. T. U. Awards, Civitan Scholarships, English Medal, Journalistic Medal, Senior Scholarship Medal, Best Boy Athlete Medal, and Best Girl Athlete Medal.

The Last Will and Testament was read by the Class Testator, Mary Alice Wilson. The Class Prophecy was presented by the imitable Harriet Leonard, the prophet. "Sorto Miss You" was sung by Betty Jean Saunders, with flute obbligato by Winnifred Andrew.

Martha Hooper made the dedication of the Senior Edition of the LEXHIPEP, and the class poem was read by William Cox, class poet. The class song, written by Harry Gore, was sung by the Class of '50.

The band played the Lexington High School Alma Mater Song very effectively while the student body stood in honor of their school. The band then played the recessional while the seniors filed out of the auditorium.
