

A SAPP'S FIBBLES

By A SAPP

Character is what you are—reputation is what you get caught at.

Tax Examiner: What's your husband's average income?

Wife: Oh, about midnight.

Uncle Milt can't figure out why they call the stuff in whiskey "neutral spirits." He says that after his second drink he shifts from neutral to high, and after his fifth one, goes into reverse, and spends the next day in low.

Flood: A river too big for its bridges.

Etiquette: Ability to yawn with your mouth shut.

I sat alone in the monolight,
Forsaken by women and men,
And murmured over and over,
"I'll never eat onions again."

Clergymen: Men who work to beat hell.

Mrs. Lewis: Your recitation was extremely good, Don K. The gestures were particularly natural. Where did you get them?

Don K.: Git what?

Mrs. Lewis: The gestures.

Don K.: I ain't got the gestoors. It's the hives.

"Clum" K.: What do they call the man that brings you into contact with the spiritual world?

"Millie": A bartender.

Any doctor who does much walking downtown will tell you that the best thing to take when run down is the license number.

Sign in the postoffice: PLEASE DO NOT THROW CIGARETTE BUTTS IN THE CUSPIDORS, AS IT MAKES THEM HARD TO LIGHT.

Mrs. to Mr. (arriving home at 3 a.m.): Well, did you find home is the best place, after all?

Mr.: I don't know about that, but it's the only place open.

Nice Girl: A girl who spends the evening whispering sweet "nothing doings" in your ear.

Adolescent: A boy in his early nicoteens.

They cut down the old apple tree
That blossomed each spring by the door,
And Rover has missed it since that day,
Though he never missed it before.

Man Instructor (to Nick Kearns): I'm putting this rivet in the correct position; when I nod my head hit it r-e-a-l hard with that hammer.
Next morning he woke up in the hospital.

Then there was the cross-eyed professor who had no control over his pupils.

Mr. Clark (after trying first-hour class): Some time ago my doctor told me to exercise every morning with dumbbells. Will the class please report to me tomorrow before breakfast?

She: Oh, John, there was once a time when you used to stroke my chin so lovingly. You don't do it anymore.

He: Yes, but that was when you had only one.

The easiest way to live within your income is to have a big one.

Forger—A fellow who gives a check a bad name.

Stork—A nice old bird who kids the world.

NOTICE: A big game hunter has been missing for days. It is feared that something he disagreed with ate him.

The only time a girl really dislikes being whistled at is when the whistler is a motorcycle cop.

Some girls count on their fingers, but a smart girl counts on her legs.

Lady Passenger: I suppose you've been in the Navy so long you're accustomed to sea legs?

Sailor: Honest, lady, I wasn't looking.
