

The Lexhipep

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY
LEXINGTON SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL,
LEXINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Editor	Ann Rogers
Assistant Editor	Mary Lou Hall
Literary Editor	Carol Craver
Assistant Literary Editor	Pat Hankins
Sports Editor	Donnie Leonard
Assistant Sports Editor	Charles Bernhardt
Columnist	Genne Hewitt
Foreign Correspondent	Monika Kolar
Exchange Manager	Mildred Gee
Business Editor	Charles Crouse
Typists	Christine Hill, David Swing
Photographer	Bobby Honeycutt
Bookkeeper	Louie Bowles
Advisor	Mrs. Ottis M. Hedrick

Serious

Thoughts

—CAROL CRAVER

John 14:19 "Because I live, ye shall live also."

Immortality may be a word that we do not use very often. It means unending existence or living forever.

We cannot understand the word forever, but there are some things we are not meant to understand. He just rest in the thought of God's wisdom, and we feel sure that He will help us to know all that is needful.

God must believe that he needs to remind us each spring of immortality, because spring seems to shout the word.

PRAYER:

Dear God, in this spring season our hearts are full of joy in that we shall live forever. We thank Thee for the resurrection of Jesus. We do not yet know all that it means, but our hearts are glad in the spring as we join nature and all Christian people in singing, "He is risen!"

HEAVEN

—JANE BURRELL

"In my father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you." John 14:2.

What is heaven? Heaven is hope. It is true that neither heaven nor hope can be seen. This brings in another element—faith. "Faith is the substance of all things hoped for . . ."—Hebrews 11:1. Here we have another of life's eternal triangles composed of heaven, hope, and faith.

Why should we be concerned about heaven? We must be concerned because heaven is hope, and without hope there is nothing. Also, heaven should be our supreme goal. We should spend our lives working at getting to heaven, and entirely too many of us are playing at it.

What is heaven like? John tells us that he saw "new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband."—Revelation 21:2. We all picture heaven as having streets paved with gold.

How does life in heaven compare with life on earth? The Bible assures us that in heaven there will be no corrupt influences, abominations, or temptations. Heaven puts an end to all pain, sorrow, and death. Former things are left behind.

Last and most important of all, how do we certify a place for ourselves in heaven? "And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son."—I John 5:11. We will assure ourselves of a place for ourselves by belief. Belief is faith. Faith is hope. Hope is heaven.

It is almost like the person who is searching for his tennis racket but cannot find it because he is looking only in the closet. Maybe if he had not intensified his search in one spot, he may have discovered that it was in the attic.

On the other hand, I think that the person who does nothing but gallivant around the town during his high school years is not ready for marriage either. This person is even less prepared for marriage because he has no idea of what it is like to settle down with one person.

The reason that these people find themselves in these two different ruts is usually because society demands it. I think that if more people would realize that they are all separate individuals with a mind of their own, they would be much happier in the long run.

LIBRARY-LIBS

By SUZANNE EVERHART
MARILYN LOHR
Student Assistants
Library Staff

"Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief."

Doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief . . ."

Thus quoted Librari-Andy, apparently reminiscing of his long-ago kindergarten days.

"That jingle reminds me of Career Day at school in February," said Librari-Ann. "You remember, don't you, when various persons in town came to school in the afternoon, and after a sort of introductory program in the auditorium, all of us went to have conferences with the counselors about specific vocations and careers?"

"Yes, I remember," replied Librari-Andy. "Did you decide what you wanted to be or to do after you finish high school, or graduate from college?"

"I have not decided definitely," answered Librari-Ann, "though career day here did give me some good ideas and information. Now all I need to do is a little "detective" work and follow up those "clues to careers" that I gained from career day."

"The Library here is a good place for all kinds of information, you know," suggested Librari-Andy. "Some people think that the library has books and magazines only, but it has many other types of information."

"Well, of course, I know about the usual vocational and career guidance books found in the non-fiction shelves. I know also about the well-rounded, authoritative pamphlets in the vertical file on nearly every type career and vocation we could be interested in. There are pamphlets on taxi-derry, beauty shop management and culture, medicine, aeronautics, social service, education, clergy, engineering, journalism, librarianship — well, many others."

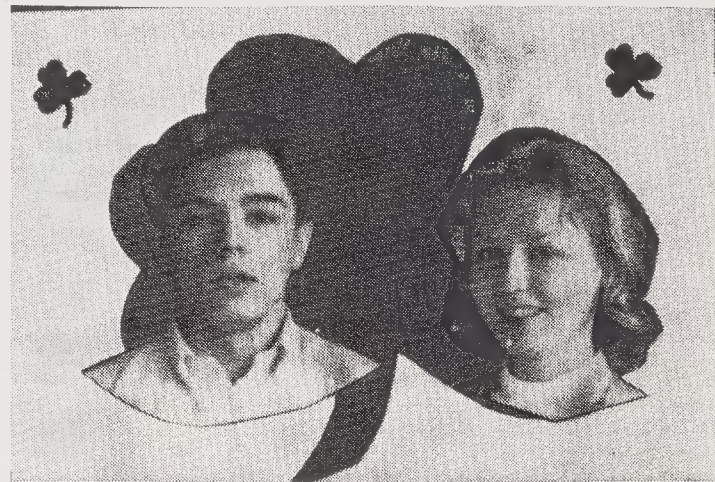

"You failed to mention that there are also many good books of fiction that deal with vocations and careers," added Librari-Andy. "For instance, I have read JET FLIER and JET PILOT recently. You might want to read DR. KAY WINTHROP, INTERN, or GOOD MORNING, MISS DOVE."

"Yes," replied Librari-Ann. "I'd like to add also that many biographies, such as MADAME CURIE, MAN HIGH, and AMERICAN DOCTOR'S ODYSSEY are good reading, as well as kind of firsthand views at vocations and professions."

"I'd like to add, too," interrupted Librari-Andy, "about the special vocational and career guidance corner in the library now. It has been planned by the librarian, and will be a permanent feature in the library. Special posters, pamphlets, magazines, and books of fiction and non-fiction, dealing with many vocations and professions will be displayed in one corner of the library."

MARCH'S

Mr. and Miss L.S.H.S.

—PAT HANKINS

Representing the symbol of this, the "great Day of the Irish" are Ginger Yarbrough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray V. Yarbrough, and Leonard Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gray Davis, Sr.

Miss L.S.H.S. is a popular member of the Future Teachers of America. She has also served as Jr.-Sr. waitress.

If Ginger could trade places with anyone for a day, she would trade places with Miss America because it would be a great thrill to represent our country. She would visit Hawaii if she could, to see the scenery and loll around on Waikiki beach.

"The World Outside" is her favorite song and The Platters are her favorite singers. THE YEARLING tops her list of books and "Twilight Zone" is her favorite television program. Ginger's favorite movie is "South Pacific" with Sandra Dee and Jeff Chandler being her favorite stars. Her favorite foods are pizza and salads and her favorite pastime, as with most teenagers is talking on the telephone. She had her best time the summer of 1959. Her pet peeve are conceited people, and people who are bossy.

If Miss L.S.H.S. could have three wishes, she would wish for (1) World Peace (2) Happiness and (3) a "Secret." She considers L.S.H.S. greatest need to be a better understanding between students and teachers.

Ginger's future plans are uncertain as of now. Her secret desire is to travel around the world.

Now let's hear from Leonard Davis, Mr. L.S.H.S. He is a member of the Hi-Y Club, and is a most popular member of the senior class.

Leonard would trade places with Sterling Moss, a champion race driver, because "it would be fabulous to drive at such high speeds. He would also visit Hawaii if he could. "The scenery and people there seem to be so interesting that I would like to see them for myself."

Leonard's favorite song is "It's All in the Game" and his favorite singer is Johnny Mathis. His favorite movie is "South Pacific" and Rock Hudson and Kim Novak are his favorite stars. ROBINSON CARUSO tops his book list and "Twilight Zone" is his favorite television program. His favorite subject is literature (not trying to influence Mrs. Gibson). His favorite foods are pizza and salads, also. As with most boys, his favorite pastime is washing his car. He also had his best time during the summer of 1959. (Wonder what happened then? It must have been worth remembering.) His pet peeve is also conceited people.

Leonard's three wishes are (1) World Peace (2) to graduate from college, and (3) a "secret". (We have a lot of secrets here, don't we?)

To graduate from college and to be an engineer are his future. His secret ambition is to also travel around the world and to visit out-of-the-way places.

We of the LEXHIPEP and the entire school join together to wish these fine students much luck and happiness in all that they endeavor to do.