As we look into the future, we see that many changes have been made. We are at the present looking ten years ahead—Well, well, what do we have here—Mrs. Emily Borgus Wright, two kids and her husband, Mr. Casper Wright. She has just come from the Mercy Hospital in Philadelphia where she is working. Lo and behold, look who is now stepping into the picture, Mr. Rufus Hill and his wife, the former Miss Marie Jones. The two sets are members of the Elite Society of the Quaker city. They visit one another often.

We see a church, yes, and a marriage is taking place. Reverend George Harmon is marrying Mr. Harry Faulkner and Miss Annie Brane. The Reverend George Harmon is married to the former Miss Doris Peole of Middleburg, N.C. The Reverend cut out on his brother, Coach David Harmon, who is now teaching athelctich at West Va. State College.

We are now on the campus of Hampton Institute and looking into the music room, we see Mr. Robert Scott, who happened to secure a job teaching instrumental music, and Miss Mildred Strider, the piano. Believe it or not they have confessed and are now engaged. Scott wants six children, Strider wants three.

If you don't have an aspirin handy, secure one right away—Mrs. Melvyn Eugene Burt, the psychiatrist, is now at this very moment proposing to Miss Elsie Taylor, a teacher of Mathematics at Henderson Institute. Things certainly aren't static in this world. Doris Thorpe is facing the world alone, with all her lovers gone, she is wishing, and waiting that her ship will come in with her soldier boyfriend on it.

One thousand dollars has been willed to Thurston Sneed and he is now nearly out of breath, trying to tell his wife, the former Miss Louise Henderson, about it. She is turning red—where did Mr. Sneed go? Oh, no wonder we couldn't see him, Mrs. Sneed has him covered—that is with hugs and kisses.

We are glad to see that Mrs. Knight has recovered from an airplane crash. Mrs. Knight is the former Miss Bullock of Henderson. Mr. and Mrs. Knight are working at Langley Field, Va. The cause of the crash is—after being informed that her husband had been discharged from the field because no more married couples were to be employed, it happened.

Ah, Lieutenant Junious Crews, having returned from the war three months ago, has married Miss Katie Sutton. Dorothy Jones was very heart broken, for the Lieutenant was engaged to her. Professor Alfred Patrick proposed to her and saved the day for her.

Well, did you ever! Mr. Charlie Jiggetts made a trip to Dover, Deleware in his private plane for the purpose of seeing Dr. and Mrs. Henry Moore and family. Mrs. Moore the former Miss Gwendetta Pratt, is a leading business woman of Deleware, Dr. Moore, a dentist. Mr. Jiggetts came mainly to visit his god son, Charles Moore. It is a most devoted family.

Some said it couldn't be done, but it is now 1953, and after going together nearly all their lives, Dr. and Mrs. Isaac Rowland have done it, married and they have one cute little girl. Mrs. Rowland, the former Miss Geraldine Morgan was Dr. Rowland's secretary before their marriage. They found out that there is such a thing as love at first sight, even when it starts in kindergarden.

What do we see now? Pilot William Davis in bed in St. Philips Hospital. It looks as if he is proposing to a nurse, yes, it is his nurse, Juanita Twitty. She must have said yes, for they are kissing and he is blushing all down in his toes. We know because the brightness shows through the covers. Can you beat it?

Alice Freeman and Mary Turner are still down on men. They are living in Henderson where they visit each other often. Two old maids are what they will be if they don't watch out. Wake up, gitts!

Mechanic Urain Shields is now walking down the streets of Baltimore on his way home from work. Look who's meeting him at the door, Clara Henderson. They have been in love every since their high school days and finally everything turned out fi since Claude Epps was put out of the way.

Well, people!! Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor—Mrs. Taylor is the former Miss Elsie Gray. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are now visiting a veauty college in New York where Mrs. Taylor once worked, and look whom they see, the gay glamorr girls: Misses Louise Bennett, arcelia Bryant, Capitola Jones, and Katie Henderso. They really llik fine, because they have been around. They are a few of Harlem's glamour gals.

The scene has changed to a park and we see two short people with locked arms. They are Miss Lucy Miller and Dr. David Wills. Dr. Wills is working in one of the hospitals. This scence takes place in Connecticut. They seem to be very
