

Miss Elizabeth Brodie Becomes Bride Of George Goodson, Sr.

Miss Elizabeth Brodie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Brodie, Sr., became the bride of George Goodson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Goodson Sr. of Quincy, Florida, Saturday night at the Holy Temple Church.

Rev. R. Alston officiated. Music was presented by Alston Lane, a student of A and T College. Mrs. Delores Turner sang two songs, "I love you truly" and the "Lords Prayer". Miss Norma Crews of Brooklyn, N. Y. sang "Because".

The altar was a background of palm trees, fern, seven candelabrum with forty-nine lighted candles, eight altar vases of pom-pom, yellow and white chrysanthemums with greenery. White satin ribbons and pom-pom marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported satin and alencon lace with a torso bodice and portrait neckline, outlined in seed pearls and rhinestones.

The bouffant skirt was waltz length. Her veil of illusion was attached to a cap of matching alencon lace, outlined with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of stephanos centered with a purple orchid.

Brides Attendants

Miss Hester James of Montclair, N. J., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson and Mrs. Jean Brodie of Henderson, N. C. Mrs. Lillian Johnson of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Barbara Crews of Brooklyn, N. Y.

They wore ballerina dresses tulle and lace, the dresses were off the shoulder with skirts of heart shape ruffles. They wore aqua, blue, and shrimp with hats to match. The attendants carried arm bouquets of carnations tinted to match the bridesmaids dresses. They were tied with talisman satin ribbons.

William Henry Oliver Jr. of East Elmhurst, N. Y. was best man. Groomsmen were Henry Lee Brodie Jr., Curtis T. Parham Jr., of Henderson, N. C., John Campbell of East Elmhurst, N. Y., and Eugene Ellis of Henderson, N. C.

The bride's mother wore a waltz length blue lace dress with matching accessories, her corsage was white carnations.

Reception At Home

After the ceremony the bride, and parents entertained at a reception at their home.

The bride's table was covered in a white linen table cloth with a center piece of white pom-poms, ivy and fern. The wedding cake consisted of six layers topped by a bride and groom.

Receiving at the entrance was Mrs. Lawrence Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Brodie, Mrs. Lizzie Sommerville and Mrs. Ednora James served at the punch bowl and the buffet style dinner.

Mr. George Goodson Jr. is a former student of Standard High School in Jacksonville, Fla. At the present time he is a tailor in Brooklyn, N. Y. He also serves as Boy Scout councilman at Browns Memorial Church, 629 Herkmer Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Elizabeth Goodson is a former graduate of Henderson Institute, Henderson, N. C., and a student for two years at Shaw University. She is now employed at Acme Air Appliances, Brooklyn, N. Y., as file clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goodson Jr. will be at home after their honeymoon, 433 Clairmont St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Do People Like You?

We all want to be well-liked, but sometimes we don't succeed. Sometimes we don't know what it is that will make people respond to us and say of us to others, "I like her!" Do people describe you as well-liked? Try this little test that will give you an idea of how likable you are and some hints that will help you become even more so. Just imagine yourself in the following everyday situation and see how you would react.

1. You've been invited to drop in at your neighbor's for afternoon coffee. Your nails could stand a polish job; those comfortable shoes you're wearing are a bit run down. Will you take the time to make yourself spic-and-span? Or will you think, oh, its only the girls and go as you are? The ill-groomed woman gives the expression of saying "who cares what you think of Me?"

A Song In My Heart

This month finds many capable boys wondering or deciding what careers they shall follow.

Most of these young men will be strongly urged to ask themselves, "In what work can I make the most money?"

I should like to suggest that they ask, "In what work can I find the greatest happiness?" If they would ask this question, I feel a large number will consider the tremendous need for more engineers, more newspaper reporters, and more agricultural leaders. There is also a great need for more doctors and the financial returns in this field are justifiable. Whatever your choice may be, let "Need" play an important part in your choice. One finds greater happiness in being needed than having monetary value as the driving factor.

As our young men and women plan their future careers, I would like to suggest that they ask themselves, "Can I do a job so helpful to other people that I can have a song in my heart every day because of it?"

Social Errors Are Not Easily Forgotten

Bettie Marable

You are in contact with people many times everyday. When you shop you often meet friends at church you greet and converse with other members. If you attend PTA and other types of meetings, you exchange ideas.

So, no matter where you are, you meet people. They judge you largely by your behavior. Their opinions as to whether you are "Nice" or just "So-So" are determined very much by your manners.

A badly-timed introduction or incorrect procedure when you are being introduced often causes an unfortunate reaction in those whom you most want to please. Saying the "Wrong Thing", or saying the "Right Thing" in a graceless manner can have unfortunate results.

A bad start or a tactless remark can spoil matters when they're moving along so brightly. Its unfortunate but true that social errors are not easily forgotten.

Codes For Teenagers

Elsie Mae Marable

1. Show-off driving is juvenile. Act your age.
2. Don't let your parents down. They brought you up.
3. Live carefully. The soul you save may be your own.
4. Stop and think before you drink.
5. Ditch dirty thoughts fast or they'll ditch you.
6. Be smart: Obey. You'll give orders yourself someday.
7. Choose a date fit for a mate.
8. Go to church regularly. God gives you a week. Give Him back an hour.
9. Don't go steady unless you're ready.
10. Choose your friends carefully. You are what they are.

STUDENT ASSIST TEACHERS

By Bessie R. Cheek

Several or approximately each member of our faculty has a student or several student assistants. Such assistance is given as follows:

Mr. C. W. Brown's assistants are, Brenda Brown and Burt Brandon. They make preparations for bulletin boards, arrange report cards, make rosters, and sell tickets along with others in general homeroom activities.

Mrs. V. J. Alston's assistant is Jessie Bowman. She does all the general typing and sale of tickets; she also gets averages for the Honor Roll.

Miss L. B. Taylor's assistants in the Library are: Annie Margaret Jones, Sadie Jones and Marvin Scott. They assist by circulating books, helping students find material, shelving books, checking attendance and displaying newspapers on racks.

Mr. W. H. Lewis has no regular student assistant, but has any or several students to help in his daily school work.

Mrs. D. M. White's assistants are: Sarah Kearney and Edna Royster. They assist her in the sale of tickets, collecting dues, checking the roll and setting up cleaning schedule.

Mrs. G. C. Turner's assistants are: Clara Holloway and Bessie R. Cheek. These students assist her in checking roll and running errands. They are also in charge of papers being sold to help keep our "Panther Prowl" in progress.

Mr. W. E. Jones has two assistants in the Office, Frances Martin and Alice Parker. Their work includes the use of the adding machine, carrying messages to other teachers, answering the telephone et cetera. Katrina Carroll is the 9-H homeroom assistant and reporter.

-Journalism Class-

We arrived on the Institute Campus at approximately 2:15 P.M. We feel that our trip has greatly increased our knowledge and understanding of our school paper. It has given us more respect for the field of Journalism and has interested several of our students in a career of Commercial Printing.

The Journalism Class and adviser wish to express their appreciation to all persons who COULD THIS BE YOU?

By Delores Reid

1. A person that litters up the campus?
2. A person that yells out the bus window?
3. A person that slanders another individual?
4. A person who continuously strolls up and down the halls?
5. The campus clown who always has to be seen?
6. The campus play boy who pulls on every girl he meets?
7. This year's study hall idol who idles away his time just to be idolizing again next year?

Rules To Abide By In 1958

1. Keep skid chains on your tongue; always say less than you think.
2. Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging thing to or about someone. Praise good work done, regardless of what it is.
3. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what it cost you.
4. Be interested in others; interested in their welfare, their pursuits; their family and homes.
5. Be cheerful. Keep the corners of your mouth turned up. Laugh at good stories and learn to tell them.
6. Preserve an open mind on all debatable questions. Discuss but do not argue.
7. Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves, and refuse to talk of the vices of others. Discourage gossip.
8. Be careful of another's feelings. Wit and humor at the other fellow's expense are rarely worth the effort, and may hurt where least expected.
9. Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about you. Simply live that no-one will believe them.
10. Don't be too anxious about your dues. Do your work, be patient, forget self, and you will be awarded.

'The Three Little Foxes' Visit Institute

On February 10, 1958, the Shaw University Dramatic Group presented a play—"The Little Foxes" in the Henderson Institute Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. This play was sponsored by Phi Zeta Chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority. The public spent an evening of enjoyable entertainment.

Journalism Class To Sponsor Faculty Play

The journalism class, through the efforts of the faculty members, is presenting a play entitled "Curtains Going Up."

The proceeds from the play will help with the expense of "The Panther Prowls."

The play is a comedy, it is the story of the production of a play in a high school, and the action takes place on the stage and in the auditorium, during rehearsals and after the presentation among the myriad comic obstacles with which poor young Miss Burgess is faced (it is her first play) are the following: a grouchy janitor with a sharp tongue, the disappearance of the play books the first day of rehearsal, a set of comically crossed-up high school romances with a capital R, a charming young heroine who becomes stage struck, her bewildered boyfriend, a campus "actor" with a swollen head, the disgruntled athlete feeling out of place as an actor, a flamboyant professional actress with advice, a banker's daughter driven to theft and dirty tricks by her father's ambitions and perhaps most unexpected of all, a romance for young Miss Burgess herself. Almost everything that can happen.

BUS DRIVERS CLUB ORGANIZED

The Bus Drivers' Club organized on January 15, 1958.

The officers are: President, John Person; Vice-President, Vernon Steed; Secretary, Eugene Burwell; Assistant Secretary, Melvin Bullock; Treasurer, George Hank.

The advisors are: Mr. R. Ford, Mr. C. W. Brown, Mr. C. V. Knight, and Mr. L. E. Spence. The members of the bus drivers club are planning to teach the non-drivers to learn from members. The members think that new members would be better drivers than old members in the future.

member two thousand years ago when there was no room at the inns and all doors were closed except a barn. The angels sang that night, and the stars gave a lovely light. All this for the birth of Jesus Christ.

The second place winner of the essay contest was Alexander Hawkins, a sophomore.

Third place was Annie M. Jones, a freshman.

Various prizes were awarded to the three contest winners.

The Journalism class wishes to thank all who participated in the contest.

Mr. R. Ford Jr. and wife, a sister of the bride, drove up for the wedding.
