

FITTING TRIBUTE PAID TO WORLD WAR HEROES IN GREENSBORO TODAY

Entire City Observes Armistice Day; Special Program in High School

Throughout the entire nation today millions of living Americans are silently and fervently paying tribute to those patriots who surrendered their all for the cause of Democracy. Greensboro, as a truly American community, is observing Armistice Day in a most fitting manner. The city schools as parts of the community life, are staging appropriate exercises in harmony with the spirit of the day.

Special programs are being rendered in the various schools of the city today. Members of the English department are co-operating with the students in staging a special Armistice Day program which have been correlated with the activities of "Better Speech Week." A well-known citizen has been invited to address the student body at the exercises which are to be held in the auditorium. In addition to these talks there will be special musical features. Each session room in the main building and the two annexes are to have special programs during the day.

The citizens of Greensboro are staging a grand celebration of Armistice Day, the town being dressed in gala attire for the occasion which has been declared a legal holiday throughout the land. A big parade of ex-service men is being staged during the morning. There will be a community gathering in the city hall following this parade, when the city will pay homage to the dead heroes.

One of the unique features of the day's program in the city is the spectacular sham aerial battle which is to be staged over the city. Two local airmen, Charles Myers and Ed Klingman, have consented to give Greensboro people a sample of real air warfare. Both men had experience as aviators in the war zones of France.

In the afternoon there will be a gridiron contest between the elevens from Elon and

HELEN FRASER SPEAKS IN O. HENRY BALLROOM

Helen Fraser, one of the most, if not the most outstanding women in British governmental affairs today, lectured at the O. Henry ballroom Saturday evening on the subject of the proposed Disarmament Conference.

Miss Fraser, being intimately associated with Lloyd George in war work, knows more through this association, than any other person, England's attitude to, and part in, this proposed disarmament conference. She is much sought after by men's colleges and clubs, as well as women's.

This lecture is for the benefit of the Federation of Woman's Clubs to defray expenses of "Child-Welfare Week."

BETTER SPEECH WEEK DOES MUCH GOOD IN HIGH SCHOOL ENGLISH

Now that "Better Speech Week" has passed it can be truthfully said that it was a success in G. H. S. Not only was it a success, but it has left a pleasant impression upon the minds of many. An impression that will not soon wear off.

Monday morning an unusual sight met the eyes of pupils and teachers in the main building and the annexes. All through the halls there were posters, little posters and all kinds of posters. These were work of the Freshmen, but from the looks of their posters they don't seem to be very fresh in that line of work. All during the day groups of young people gathered around the posters, discussing and admiring the great number of varieties.

Tuesday was given over to special programs in the rooms. These were declared a great success by all who heard them.

Wednesday the Juniors gave in chapel, for the main building, a play called "The Magic Voice." This brought out a plea for "one country, one people, and one language." Thursday the play was repeated for the benefit of the annexes.

The Sophomores' part in "Better Speech Week" was enjoyed by everyone. Every day of that week tags were given to all pupils and teachers in the school. Many people had their tags taken away from them only a few minutes after they received them. At the end of the week some people were privileged to wear five tags, this signifying that they had used no incorrect English during the week.

Friday, Armistice Day and North Carolina Day, too, was celebrated by a fine program, rendered in chapel by the Seniors. Everyone has agreed that this proved to be one of the best programs yet rendered in chapel.

"Better Speech Week" has passed and some are again in the ruts of carelessness, nevertheless the effects of days of conscious concentration are seen and felt on playground and in classroom. English Week for Weak English has brought results.

PURPLE WHIRLWIND STRUT AFTER CHAPEL HILL GAME

GREENSBORO TO MEET QUEEN CITY BOYS IN CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST

The Purple Whirlwind of Greensboro High School invades the camp of the Charlotte High School on Saturday, Nov. 19, for the first game in the elimination contest for the scholastic championship in Western North Carolina.

Both teams go into the contest with a good record for the season. The Purple lads probably have the edge in point of experience and in the showing made this year.

The playing of the Greensboro Club has been erratic—two hard games in succession haven't been played up to standard form. The record of the team, however, has been good. A defeat by Durham and a tie game with Winston have been more than balanced by the overwhelming defeat of D. M. I., Guilford College Scrubs, Chapel Hill, and a 7-0 victory over Winston earlier in the season.

Charlotte has one of the strongest teams since the high school days of "Chuck" Pharr, and Larry Templeton, when the Queen City lads were the champs of Western North Carolina. The Charlotte aggregation has played several hard games, winning them by a good margin.

The Whirlwind, however, should have no trouble with the Queen City boys, since the team will go into the game with no one on the sick list and with the advantage of a ten days' rest.

PURPLE WHIRLWIND CLASHES WITH OLD TIME RIVAL IN A HARD FOUGHT BATTLE

The Purple Whirlwind met a team which held its ground Saturday when it

WHIRLWIND SWEEPS ITS ANCIENT FOE OFF FIELD BY OVER- WHELMING SCORE

Locals Wreak Vengeance on Chapel Hill; Final Score, 28 to 0.

The Purple Whirlwind from the Greensboro High School, accomplished that which no other team has been able to accomplish in the last two years, namely, defeating Chapel Hill by the decisive score of 28 to 0, at Cone Park, October 29.

Both teams fought hard all the time, with Greensboro clearly outplaying her opponents who did not put out the brand of football that they have previously. Many of her best players have passed on to college football and, consequently, the majority of the players are green. Nevertheless, Chapel Hill put up a good fight and succeeded in holding Greensboro for downs in the third quarter, on the 12-yd. line. One notable feature of their defense was the kicking of Hampton, who showed great strength in booting the ball.

Greensboro put up a wonderful game, with Daniel the moving force of the offense. He ploughed through the line, dashed around the ends and his accurate passing was responsible for one of his team's goals. Daniel's toe seemed never to fail him as he kicked all four goals easily. On the defense Greensboro showed great strength, never allowing Chapel Hill to make any consistent gains. Captain Taylor stopped many plays, sharply, which were directed at him. Jody Transou, our star tackle, injured his shoulder, which necessitated his removal from the game. He was replaced by Sanders who played his position creditably.

Greensboro scored first in the first quarter. Jody Transou intercepted a forward pass and made a dash for the goal but was caught by the fast Roberts who downed him on the twenty-yard line. Chapel Hill braced and held Greensboro for three downs but Daniel's accurate toss to Bell who had but a few more steps to go, made possible the touchdown. Daniel kicked goal.

In the second quarter Daniel made his long, slashing run. Chapel Hill seemed afraid to tackle his flying legs and he stiff-armed and dodged his way through a broken field for 45-yards and scored. He also kicked goal. Greensboro scored again in the same quarter. The Purple and Gold started off with a series of short gains from the middle of the field, which was followed by a long pass from Daniel to Bell. Daniel then plowed through the line for 10-yds, and Paul Transou made the touchdown by dodging and twisting for 15 yards. Daniel kicked goal.

In the fourth quarter Greensboro got her deadly delayed buck in action. The first time the play was used Daniel carried the ball 7 yards. Then Chapel Hill was penalized 15 yards, and, using the same formation again, Daniel carried the ball for 10
