DANVILLE WINS SENSATIONAL VICTORY FROM GREENSBORO GRIPPING SCORE 21 TO 20

Britton And "Knot" Williams Do Stellar Forward and Guard Work for the Home Team

G. H. S. LEADS 'TIL LAST MINUTE

The game of basketball between the Greensboro Highs and Danville Highs, Wed., Feb. 1, was probably the greatest and most interesting game that was ever witnessed by the public. The game was played in Greensboro and was witnessed by a fairly large crowd. The game was as close as it possibly could be, Greensboro keeping the lead by a point throughout the game until at the very last moment when the game seemed within our grasp—Bang! went the whole works when one of Danville's guards rolled one basket in and left the score 20 to 21 in Danville's favor.

The first half was a great exhibition of basketball. Both teams displayed some of the most beautiful passing that can be imagined. Every man played the game for all it was worth and they played it cleanly too which fact can be seen from the number of personal fouls made. Britton starred for Greensboro in this period, the fast little forward making some beautiful plays. Williams for Greensboro was the outstanding star of the game. The little guard seemed to put his whole self in the game and when it seemed that one of Danville's men was about to shoot a goal "Knot" would be on the spot and the forward's well directed shot was nipped in the bud. Enwright starred for Danville in this half making several good plays. The half ended with the score 11 to 12 in Greensboro's favor.

The second half was just as good as the first. In this period Greensboro continued to keep one point in the lead and until the last half minute the score was 20 to 19 in the Gate City lad's favor. Then came Martin with his goal and put the game over for Danville, for just then the final whistle tooted. Daniels starred for Greensboro in this half, tipping a basket in from a held ball near the foul line, in one instance. As was said before Williams continued to cover himself with glory in this period. Martin and Emerings starred for Danville.

DEFINITE ATHLETIC PROGRAM FOR GIRLS

Point System Adopted for Girls' Athletics

For some time there has been felt among high school authorities the need for a more definite plan for athletic activities for girls. There have been more or less spasmodic attempts at encouraging games for girls. Each school proudly boasts a few girls who go out for some special form of athletics, but so far nothing has been done to meet the demands of the girls not on special teams, that is, a few get special training, the mass have been left without the needed encouragement.

At the Teacher's Association in Raleigh in November, this need was discussed and a committee was appointed with Mr. G. B. Phillips, of

"THE BIGGER MAN" SUBJECT DR. MOSS' TALK IN CHAPEL

"The Big Man," Dr. Moss Said, Is the Man Who Can Give Up His Career to Serve His Community

In that attractively concise form of expression, which belongs to him alone, Dr. Moss of Chapel Hill, in his address to the High School Thursday, gave his ideas of what a man is and can be. "A man is himself," he said, "plus his community. Every man has two positions—to be himself and to build up his community." His belief is that the bigger man is the man who can do the bigger thing—give up himself for his community. He continued this thought with the story of Edward Tilder Graham, "a real man," he declared, "who gave up his individual choice of each, to read, and most of all to write in order that he might lay down his life to make the world safe for democracy." Phillip Brooks was another of those men who accepted the bigger call, to give up his desire to stay with old Trinity and become Bishop. "Most of us" he said, "are one-talented folks. If you have to be a hod-carrier in this work of building your state, be the right kind. If you can only lay a few bricks, lay them well. And above all when you fall down or your project falls down, don't be like them in the Garden of Eden! Stop blaming the other person and put the blame where it belongs—on yourself."

Dr. Moss's original expressions have that adhesive quality that makes them stick in the minds of his hearers—and we believe that the impressions left on one's mind, shape in a large measure what we are in life.

SEASON'S PROSPECTS FOR BASE BALL VERY BRIGHT

Coach C. W. Phillips, Manager Temko, and Captain Green, Plan Great Things for the Team.

The prospects for the coming baseball season seem to be of the brightest. The team has suffered the loss of only 4 regular players and these holes can be filled up by a wealth of ready material. The pitching staff has not been broken into by graduation and the team bids fair to have one of the best pitching staff in years. Mr. Chas. Phillips, a man who has had much experience in baseball, has been decided on for coach. The whole school feels that under the guidance of Mr. Phillips and Bruce Green, who has been elected captain, we will have a team which will give any in the state a hard fight for the championship. Mr. G. B. Phillips has ordered a large amount of equipment and is expecting its arrival in time for the coming practice which will start about March 1. Leonard Temko, as manager has been working on a schedule for the trips. He is planning a western trip to Asheville which will extend over a period of 5 days and also a 3 day trip to Charlotte. Summarizing everything, the Greensboro High School team seems to have everything necessary for the winning of the state championship.

Of only one thing nothing has been said and that is the school spirit which has never been known to fail and which everyone feels sure will not fail in the coming baseball season. So, everybody together and push for another championship to add to old G. H. S. laurels.

George Taylor, (on hearing his grades for the year read, in which there were several "C's") "Miss Morrow, what makes me seasick.

CHARLOTTE EASY VICTIM TO UNSURPASSED QUINT GREENSBORO AMAZONS

Greensboro Listless During First Half, But Begin Irresistible Passing In Second Half.

STINNETT AND JOHNSON STAR

The Greensboro High School girls' team returned from Charlotte Saturday, where on Friday night, it defeated Charlotte High School in the score, 23 to 14. Charlotte started out with speed and showed good shooting ability, whereas the Greensboro team was slow and uncertain. At one time Charlotte led 7 to 3, and at the end of the first half, she was ahead, 10 to 3.

The situation changed entirely in the second half. Greensboro developed her passing game to an unusually high standard, and Charlotte had trouble getting hold of the ball at all. Greensboro kept possession of the ball nearly the entire half, resulting in the final score of 23 to 14.

Stinnett and Johnson each shot five field goals. Gonzales was the star for Charlotte.

MISS ELLIOT MEETS THE DEBATING CLUB

The League of Nations, Subject of the Triangular Debate, Was Discussed Pro and Con.

On Tuesday night, Jan. 31, the Debating Club of the Greensboro High School enjoyed an interesting and highly instructive talk on the League of Nations by Miss Harriet Elliott of the faculty of the N. C. C. W. The meeting was held in the High School Library which was filled with a goodly number of interested participants of the coming triangle debate of which the League of Nations is the topic.

Miss Elliot took up the question from both sides and although stressing the point that she was in favor of the League of Nations she gave some excellent points for both sides. She said that the greatest point for the negative was the fact that the entire League was an assumption and that nothing could be proved about it until it had actually come to be a fact. She mentioned several points for the affirmative but her discussion on this side was based on the fact that the League of Nations was sound in principle and necessary to the welfare and peace of the world. During the course of the address several members of the debating club brought up a discussion of the question and after a short while the meeting had turned into an open forum with Miss Elliot at the head. The whole League was gone over and thoroughly discussed and at about 9 o'clock the meeting broke up with each member feeling greatly benefited and helped by Miss Elliot's talk.

I see they're talking about having negro policemen. That's not right. It's hard enough to find a white policeman after dark.

CITY TEACHERS ENJOY ANNUAL BANQUET IN H. S. CAFETERIA

The Banquet Was Characterized by Speeches and Stunts. The High School's Probably the Best

The teachers of the Greensboro banquet at the high school cafeteria Friday night, Feb. 3, with an attendance of 162 including the teachers of the seven city schools, members of the board of education, the extension teachers and other friends of the school.

Dr. W. D. Moss, pastor of Chapel Hill Presbyterian church, was the speaker of the evening. Miss Jane Summerell acted as toast mistress. The tables and cafeteria were decorated in red and white carrying out the valentine suggestion. A four course dinner was served.

The teachers of each school staged a class stunt:

Lindsay, "A Silent Drama;" Ashboro, "A Day in School;" Spring St., "Modern Methods in Teaching;" Cypress, "Aint We Got Fun?" Simpson, "Teachers' Division;" West Lee, "Educational Process."

The High School "Stunt" was probably the most entertaining one Miss Nita Gressitt of the Math. Dept. accused Mr. Archer of Destroying her Matrimonial Prospects. Miss Dorsett, her Lawyer, put up a hot argument in her favor against Miss Morrow, the lawyer for Mr. Archer. The jury rendered the verdict, "not guilty."

Dr. Moss gave his address on the "Second Mile Man." He said, "We came into the world with the hand of necessity laid upon us; we go through life with the hand of necessity upon us. Each individual must answer the questions as to how he is going to meet these compulsions of life. If he allows them to drive him he becomes a machine, a slave—his life is a pigeon hole. He cannot cut loose and get away. If he would be a free man he must take these compulsions and make them his own. Right down here in this earth he must live with all kinds of people, hear the music and give the response—he must go the second mile.

ENGLISH DEPT. ENTERTAINED BY MISS KILLINGSWORTH

Miss Killingsworth, head of the English Department, some days ago invited her corps of teachers to meet at the Guilford Soda Shop for a social hour. The purpose was twofold—a plan to combine business and pleasure. The ground covered during the term just passed was reviewed and work for the coming semester outlined. Each teacher gave some personal experience and contributed to the general plan for closer correlation of the work of the department.

Besides the English teachers, Misses Dorsett, Russell, Killingsworth, Clegg, and Mr. Purrington, Mr. Chas. Phillips, Mr. G. B. Philips and Mr. Leonard were present.

The hot chocolate, sandwiches, and wafers were very much enjoyed.

A man was sore because the carriages got mixed at his wife's funeral. "I knew," he said, "that the day couldn't pass without some unpleasant incident."

Teacher: Bill, give me a sentence using lettuce.

Bill: Lettuce go into the garden and take a look at the lettuce plant which mother lettus plant.

"Can't you help me a little? I've lost my leg."

"Well I haven't got it. Why don't you advertise for it?"

GREENSBORO QUINTET FALLS BEFORE LONG RANGE SHOTS OF PORTSMOUTH BASKET FIVE

The Game Was very Close; Portsmouth's Victory Due to the Fine Shooting of Her Players.

31 TO 29 HAIRBREADTH VICTORY

The Greensboro High School quintet was beaten by the Woodrow Wilson High School from Portsmouth, Va., Thursday, Jan. 26, by the score of 31 to 29 in Greensboro. The game was exceptionally well played on both sides, Portsmouth having the edge on Greensboro for long distance shooting.

The first half was a good exhibition of basketball by both teams playing good ball, but Portsmouth putting out a classier and fancier game. Daniels and Seburn starred in this period for Greensboro while Garrett took off the honors on his side. Greensboro played steadily throughout their half and showed that they were not at all outclassed. The period ended with the score 21 to 15 in Portsmouth's favor.

In the second half Greensboro outplayed Portsmouth and scored 14 points to their 10 but Portsmouth's margin of 6 points at the end of the first half kept her in striking distance and near the end of the game one of her players caged a long shot which gave them the game. Greensboro was tied with Portsmouth until that long shot which brought the score from 29 to 29 to 31 to 29 in Portsmouth's favor. The game ended with the score in those figures. Daniels and Britton starred for Greensboro in this half while Perry caged 2 field goals for Portsmouth. Garrett shot 4 fouls out of 4 chances.

BANKING COURSE PLACED IN SCHOOLS BY NATIONAL BANK

At the beginning of the new semester a banking course was put into the high school. Representatives from the American Exchange National Bank are giving this course and are furnishing all the equipment. This course is principally for the Juniors and Seniors and especially for the commercial pupils. The course should be very beneficial to the thirty pupils who have started taking it. The first project they are going to undertake is to organize a first national bank in the high school with a president, clerk, directors, etc. Mr. Spradlin and Mr. Arrowood are teaching this course and they think that anyone who graduates from it ought to be able to take a position in any of the branch banks that are being organized in this state. We feel that this course is going to be a great help to the school and we hope that this is just a beginning of a bigger cooperation with the various business concerns.

"What time is it by that thar clock, Silas?" inquired the old lady in the Grand Central depot.

"That aint a clock mother, that's a weighing machine."

"Land sakes, what do they have that fur in a depot?"

"So's the folks kin git away, I s'pose," said Silas solemnly.
