The Passion Play as Mr. Brooks Told It.

The next scene is where Pilate is trying to release Jesus, because he can find nothing against Him. Then He is taken to Herod and then back again to Pilate and at last He is given over to the clamoring, fanatical people. Then in the next scene Judas is suffering with the agonies of remorse at what he has done and what is awaiting him in eternity. He soon finds that money is not everything.

The most impressive scene of all is where Jesus is being crucified. You can see the marks of the nails in His hands and feet. Then when the sword is struck through his side, the blood gushes out as though it was really the actor's own blood.

The last scene is the Resurrection where Jesus is risen from the dead and appears to his disciples.

This play impressed upon Mr. Brooks that our only guidance is the Pilot. Without Him life was dark and dreary. It also meant to Mr. Brooks that if all people tried to live as these people tried to live there would not be so much strife or hardship.

The story of this play has meant a great deal to me. Jesus who died for us is always willing to forgive us and we can turn to Him when in trouble and for guidance in the rough pathway of life.

With The Army of Occupation at N. C. C. W.

Dear G. H. S:
Howdy! We heard about your marvelous victory over D. M. I. last Saturday. You can't begin to know how tickled we were. We thought of a time, two years ago, when the D. M. I. team played here. They just simply walked over G. H. S. But you know the last laugh is the longest. The last score is the largest, too. So we give fifteen "rahs" for the 1922 football team at G. H. S.. Just keep on winning—you've got the stuff in you to do it.

We think this year's annual and "High Life" staffs are unusually well selected. Great things can be done by you. Everyone of us is filled with the deepest pleasure because you are giving us a whole column in "High Life." We feel as important as a bug under a microscope.

After a whole month's encampment here, we have found that it takes the combined efforts of all twenty-nine of us to keep the enemy subdued to a reasonable degree. Two of our number have been rash enough to attack Latin, that most ferocious of barbarians, single-handed. Quite frequently sounds from the fields of combat issue from the room presided over by Miss Boddie. But, we must say, our dear friends always come out whole and alive. This is for your ear, (We believe Latin will lose some of its conceit before '22 gets through with it).

Practically all of us are still parley-vousing. French is not nearly as much fun here as it was at G. H. S. There are (this is to prove to Miss Dorsett that we ain't forgot the learning she gave us last year) several honest-to-goodness French women on the faculty. They reel off a thousand feet of French while we are saying—

We often find it quite hard to get up for breakfast at 7:15, so that we can begin the attack at 8:15. But taken all in all life in camp is far from bad. We are fed well, very well. There is plenty of fun on our plates. All ready there have been several wonderful parties.

The thing that set us on our ears at first was the announcement that we had to have two examinations—a medical and a physical one. Gee! but we were scared! We were almost ready to decamp. The whole thing was a farce. So we tell you from experience that a thing that scares you is really small or insignificant if you march right up to it and hold your bayonet drawn. The faculty here quite took our breath away when we first began attending classes. They invariably call us Miss This or That. "Is our powder on straight?" Do we look all right? We are grown-ups. It is a queer feeling.

Here's great news for the "weary followers of Aeneas," or of Miss Gressitt or of anyone else. One may be a boob in G. H. S. and then come out here to N. C. C. W. and be considered a pavant. If you doubt the veracity of this statement ask anyone of the fossilized professors here what they think of the girls who were boobs at G. H. S. last year.

Will not some one of you please tell Miss Gressitt for us that she never told us anything about two planes being parallel to one another. My goodness! but we have to learn it here.

Here are our complete congratulations to Miss Jane Summerell: We cannot help but wonder how she ever reached the rank of senior. Honest did she use a pony?

Here's best wishes from your friends,

The girls of '22 at N. C. C. W.

The Community Forum In Chapel

The program that had been planned for chapel Monday, Oct. 16, turned up missing! Nevertheless the full period was thoroughly enjoyed.

After two songs were sung, the orchestra, for the first time this year, favored us with the selection, "Evening Breezes," by Zamecnik.

Mr. Charles Phillips then told us of his visit to Chapel Hill to see the Trinity-U. N. C. game. While there he managed to see all of the G. H. S. alumni.

The last part of the period was spent in a pep meeting, due to G. H. S.'s victory over Danville with a score of 40 to 0, and also for the Oxford-Greensboro game which will be played here Friday, Oct. 20.

A representative from room 207 kindly advised the students as to the proper occasion for applause. Heretofore we have applauded every speaker on every occasion. There is an improper time for applause, especially after Bible talks and similar serious subjects. If the students would heed this advise, embarrassments, as well as bad impressions, would be prevented.

Hiking Club

At a meeting with Miss Detwiler, hiking leader, the hiking club elected Margaret Patterson as captain and Dorothy Allbright press reporter. Plans and aims for the new work were discussed. The aim of the club is to give activity to the girls who can't or do not take part in the more strenuous activities; also to give points to the girls who are taking part in more strenuous activities. It was decided that no points will be given to a person unless she hikes three miles or over on each trip. She will get no credit unless she hikes fifteen miles during the year. Regular hiking day for the freshmen will be Thursday. The day for the other classes has not been decided upon. There will be heaps of fun in store for those who take part in hiking—weenie roasts, steak fries, and other good things to eat will be ready for them.

The first hike was last Saturday morning. The girls met at the High School and the Church of the Covenant and from there walked out to Lindley Park, where they roasted weenies. There were about twenty-two present. We hope to have a larger number for our next hike.

Mr. Barnes Arouses Interest in Passion Play

try to live so that their lives may betray the true character of the saints.

The personator of Christ considers his part an act of religious devotion; he and the other principal performers are said to be selected for their holy life and consecration to their work of prayer.

The actor who has taken the part of Judas three different times is said to live a life secluded from the rest of the village.

The players, about 700 in number, are all villagers, who, though they have no artistic instruction except from the parish priest, act their parts with much dramatic power and with a delicate appreciation of the characters they portray.

The gospel narrative is closely followed; the acts alternate with tableaux from the Old Testament and choral odes.

While Mr. Barnes was in the little village, he was much impressed by the saint-like expressions of the inhabitants, due to their Christ like lives.

Girls' Basketball

At a meeting of all the basketball girls, Marjorie Blair was elected sport head. The various captains of the class teams were elected as follows: Senior, Carlotta Johnson; Junior, Elsie Fluarty; and Sophomore and Freshman captains are yet to be elected.

Miss Morrow is coaching the Senior and Junior teams at present, while Miss McAlister is coaching the Sophomore team and Miss Mitchell the Freshman. Under the leadership of these captains and coaches we know we are going to have the best class teams ever.

If the present plans are carried out, the class championship will be played off during the months of November and December. In these games we are going to see some real basketball.

Scrubs Hold Asheboro

with their backs to the wall the Greensboro defense stiffened and held Asheboro for downs. Then is when the opportunity was lost. By a series of line plunges and end runs and a pretty forward pass. Butler to Thomas, the ball was carried to Asheboro's five yard line. Here Asheboro held G. H. S. for downs by two inches. At this point the ball went over to Asheboro and the whistle blew for the end of the first half.

In the second half came some pretty running by Cole for Greensboro and Burns for Asheboro. Both backs showed speed and line crushing ability. The game ended with the ball on Asheboro's twenty yard line with G. H. S. working hard for touch-down, trying pass after pass.

For Greensboro the playing of Turner in the line and Cole in the backfield stood out. Burns for Asheboro was the outstanding player.

The line up for G. H. S.—Ogburn, le, Neele lt, Turner c, Hodgins rg, Hobbs rt, Smith re, Thomas qb, Cole rhb, Watson lhb, Burtner fb.
