

WITH OUR NEIGHBORS

"Isn't it funny that Princes and Kings
And clowns that caper in sawdust rings,
And common folks like you and me,
Are builders for eternity?
To each is given a bag of tools;
A shapeless mass, a book of rules,
And each must make ere life is flown
A stumbling block or a stepping stone."
—From the Stethoscope.

Breaking the Ice
Slipper ice—very thin.
Pretty girl—tumbled in.
Saw a boy—on the bank,
Gave a shriek—then she sank.
Boy on bank—heard her shout,
Jumped right in—pulled her out.
Now he's here—very nice.
But she had—to break the ice.
—Orange and Black.

Grandma's English
"I think it is just awful,"
Said Grandma Jinks one day;
"The way they speak the language
In this horrid slangy way.
"A gentleman is called a 'guy,'
A lady is a 'jane,'
If you're in style, you're 'all dolled up,'
You're 'cookoo' if insane.
If you are rowdy, you're 'hard-boiled,'
If angry, you are 'peevish,'
If overjoyed, you say, 'Oh, boy!'
You're in the 'dumps,' if grieved.
If I live on a few more years,
I'll have to spend a while
In learning how 'I'll tell the world,'
To speak in this new style."
—Roosevelt News.

Just So
You can always tell a Senior
He's so sedately dressed.
You can always tell a Junior
By the way he swells his chest.
You can always tell a Sophomore
But you cannot tell him much.
You can always tell a Freshman
By his timid, gentle touch.
—Orange and Black.

Fleas
I think that I shall never see
A thing as ornery as a flea.
A flea whose hungry mouth is pressed
Against your leg or arm or breast.
A flea that sticks with you all day
And in the night-time won't go 'way.
A flea that may in summer bear
A host of flealets in her lair.
Now poems are made by you and me
But Satan alone can make a flea.
—Sky High.

Spring Cleaning
"Miss Behney, I can't get mine off."
"Aw, what's the need to get it off?"
"Please let us leave them on so everybody will remember us."
"No, wash them off without any argument."

"The paint is coming off mine."
"Don't rub so hard."
"I don't intend to buy any paint to paint these old windows."
"Neither do I. What does she think we put them on there for?"
"If we do have to paint them over,
who is going to be the painter?"
This conversation could be heard
while Irene McFadyen, Gordon Sturm,
Catherine Sykes, and LeRoy Tackett were washing their names off the windows between 201 and the Dramatic room.

Chewing Again
"Bill, Bill Cooper."
"What, Miss Grogan?"
"Here is the wastebasket."
"Aw, now, Miss Grogan."
"I said here is the wastebasket."
"But, Miss Grogan, it's all I got."
"You heard me."
"Aw, Miss Grogan."
"I will not allow anyone to chew gum
in my class."

Hey, folks, whom do you think I saw up town early yesterday morning? I saw Ray Henderson standing on the corner of Market and Elm streets waiting for the "Big Parade" to pass. He said that he had been waiting there three hours for the parade.

PIRATES PENZANCE TO BE PRESENTED BY MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Scene of Opera Is Laid on a Small Island Off Coast of England

CAST NOT YET SELECTED

Large Cast Will Be Composed of One Hundred and Fifty Students—Aided by G. H. S. Orchestra

Rehearsals are being held daily during the regular Glee Club periods for the "Pirates of Penzance," a light opera, to be staged sometime during the early part of May.

The scene of this opera is laid on a small island off the coast of England. On an end of this island is a pirate's camp and on the other is the summer estate of the noted Major General. Of course the Major General's daughter and their friends fall in love with the pirates and there begins a general mix-up. The plot is woven around Mabel and Frederick, with comedy added by Ruth, Frederick's old nurse, and the Major General. The songs and lines are snappy and well written.

The cast has not yet been selected, but will be soon. There will be under-studies for each of the character parts, as well as an unusually large and well trained chorus. The entire cast, including the chorus, is composed of a hundred or hundred and fifty people. The high school orchestra is working on the music for the production.

The cast follows:
Mary—Annette Donovan.
Lazarus—Elizabeth Leak.
Judas—Leilla George Cram.
Simon—Katherine Clements.
Martha—Clyde Norcum.
Bartemus—Jewel Rainey.
John Mark—Dorothy Stewart.

MEETING OF CHILDREN CONFEDERACY MARCH 6

Miss Jean Hoyle Contributes to Interesting Program Conducted by Various Members

The Children of Confederacy met Saturday evening, March 5, at the home of Nancy Hay. After items of business were attended to, Eugenia Isler read an article from the Confederate Veteran. "The Confederate Banner." One of Father Abram Ryan's best known poems, was read by Clyde Norcum. Miss Jean Boyle, violin supervisor of the city schools, played several selections to the accompaniment of Miss Clyde Kearns. The meeting was adjourned to meet again the last week in March.

WIFE OF FAMOUS MAN RECITES COMPOSITIONS

Mrs. Edward MacDowell, wife of the distinguished composer, gave a recital of MacDowell's compositions at Odell Memorial building, February 28. She played several selections, assisted by Miss Gwendolyn Mitchell, soprano, and William Monroe, baritone. Mrs. MacDowell's great personality made the recital a distinct success.

Y MISUNDERSTOOD BY GENERAL PUBLIC

Only One Central Head in City and Branch Buildings Under Secretary's Direction

MRS. LULA B. CARR TALKS

"Many people misunderstand the organization of the Y. W. C. A. There is only one head in the city or central point. Each branch building is under the direction of the secretary of the central 'Y,' said Mrs. Lula Carr, in her talk to the Girl Reserves at their supper on Friday, February 25.

There was a general discussion of several troublesome questions.

The Y. W. C. A. attempts to look after three classes of girls—the girls between the ages of 12 and 18, the high school girl, the business girl, and, last, the industrial girl, or the girl working in the factory or the mill. There are experts that plan for the best welfare of all these girls. I want to know you girls better and be more with you," concluded Mrs. Carr.

SENIORS START MAKING GRADUATION PLANS

In Class Meeting Miriam Block Is Chosen Testator, Ruth Heath, Prophet; and E. Scarboro, Historian

The senior class held a meeting, March 7, during chapel period, in room 106, and elected the following: Miriam Block, testator; Ruth Heath, prophet, and Ernest Scarboro, historian.

A committee was appointed to meet with Miss Lily Walker and Miss Ione Grogan, senior faculty advisers, to offer suggestions for class day.

Plans were made and presented to the class at a meeting held in 103 during chapel period, March 6. They were unanimously adopted. Each member of the class expects to fill his responsibility in making the class day a great success.

SCOUTS MAKE PLANS FOR SUMMER CAMP FOR ITS THIRD YEAR

The Season Will Be Divided Into Four Periods of Two Weeks Each

SEVERAL NEW FEATURES

Several Boats and Canoes Have Been Secured and the Lake Improved

Already, in their various troops, the Boy Scouts of the city have been discussing the plans for Camp Graystone, Greensboro's Scout camp. This will be the third year, and although the preceding years have been very successful, this camp is planned to have a more interesting and varied program.

The season will be divided into four periods of two weeks each. Another period will be added provided there are enough boys wishing to attend.

The tents will not be in one group, as before, but will be arranged so that each troop will be by itself. In the activities, however, all the boys will be together.

The program will include the craft-work in leather and pottery, archery, pioneering and camping, nature study, athletics, and water sports. As several new canoes and boats will be added to the number already owned by the camp, the water sports will probably be the most popular part of the program.

SEMESTER V MEETS TO ELECT OFFICERS

Brown, Vice-President; Elvie Hope, Sec.; D. McGlamery, Student Council Member

McSWAIN IS PRESIDENT

Semester V held a meeting Wednesday, February 23, for the purpose of electing officers. George McSwain was elected president; Theron Brown, vice-president; Elvie Hope, secretary and treasurer, and Dillard McGlamery will represent Semester V on the Student Council.

In a Semester VI meet Miss Mary Wheeler told the class that the juniors held many responsibilities. "The juniors are preparing to shoulder the responsibilities as leaders in the senior class," declared Miss Wheeler, "Juniors should always be looking for something to do."

MR. CHARLES BOYD LEADS OPEN FORUM

Sponsored by Several Hi-Y Clubs and Girl Reserves of Greensboro and Pomona

The first of a series of Sunday afternoon forum meetings was held in the boys' lobby of the Y. M. C. A. February 21. Mr. Charles Boyd was the leader, the topic of discussion being "World Peace." Mary Jane Wharton presided. After the discussion a delightful social period was held at which time refreshments were served.

Miss Harriet Elliot, of N. C. C., led the discussion on Sunday, February 27. The subject was "The Relation of the United States to Latin America." Finley Atkisson presided at the meeting.

These meetings were sponsored by the Hi-Y and Girl Reserve Clubs of Greensboro and Pomona High Schools.

BUFFALO SENIORS TO GRADUATE WITH G.H.S.

The sixteen seniors that came to G. H. S. from Buffalo High School held a meeting February 24 to decide whether or not they would graduate with the Buffalo students or with the G. H. S. students. The final decision was to graduate from G. H. S. and take part in all senior activities.

ALUMNI NOTES

Did you know that "Dizzy" and Dick Irving were living in Brooklyn, N. Y.? Well, they are, and they say that they don't like it as well as they do good ol' Greensboro.

Aileen Blaylock says she likes Raleigh and Meredith, but she is going to stay at home next year and go to G. C.

"Pug" Solomon and "Tootie" Scott have gone to Washington and Lee with the Oak Ridge team for the basketball tournament.

Arthur Pearce, from Duke, spent the week-end in town.

Judah Shohan, John Mebane, of Greensboro, and Garland McPherson, of High Point, freshmen, were chosen to represent the Dialectic senate in its freshman-sophomore debate with the Philanthropic senate, to take place some time in March.

This query is: "Resolved, That there should be enacted a workmen's compensation act in North Carolina, insurance to be paid by the employer for the employee, constitutionally conceded."

John Mebane was recently elected president of the new freshman debating club.

Aren't we proud of Roger Haller? He made the honor roll at Washington and Lee.

We hear that Bill Horney is training hard for the track meet. Come on, Bill, we're betting on ya!

Our dear Luke Glascock is stepping out at Carolina.

We hear that "Pete" Whittington is the stuff at Carolina.

Ed Mendenhall and Little Mo' are regular week-end visitors in Greensboro. I wonder what the attraction is?

Wade Hobbs, from the class of '26, says that freshman life at State is great, but even that doesn't keep him away from G. H. S.

SNOWBOUND

"What's the matter? Haven't I run you out of this hall a dozen times already? Now get back to your rooms."
"But, Mr. Phillips, you said the bell would ring at twelve and it's now 12:10."

"Well, it can ring without you looking at it. Now, back to your rooms!"
"Great day, you can't even be comfortable around here without being hollered at."

"Back to the woods, Abraham! Back to the woods!"

"Now stay in there until the bell rings."

"There's the bell! Get out of my way!"

Down the steps and out of the door. Snow! Snow! Snow!

"Look out, Zeke, or you'll get hit with a snowball."

"Bill, this isn't Saturday or even a holiday. So I didn't need a bath even if it is with a snowball."

"Don't pull me down, too; just 'cause you fall it's no reason I have too, also."

"Be good, boys; let us by; we haven't done a thing to you."

"Run for your lives or you won't have any."

"Gee, I wish I had nine like a cat; then I wouldn't be so scared of getting hit."

"There goes that dag-gone bell again."

"Tinkle, tinkle little bell,
How I wish you were—frozen up like our water pipes!"

"Wonder how long they are gonna keep us snowbound over here."
"G'bye, Jane; wait for me when we get out of school, if we ever do."
