G. H. S. DAUGHTERS ENTERTAIN MOTHERS

The mothers of Greensboro High School girls were entertained by their daughters at the annual mother-daughter banquet, Friday night, November 16, in the Y. W. C. A. hut. An airplane ride was featured throughout the toasts, Lucy Crocker, president of the Girls' Council, giving the "take-off" speech. Mrs. A. B. High responded with "a successful flight" toast. About 150 were present at the dinner.

WHAT OYSTER EATERS!

Who said men teachers can't eat? Such was not the case at Mr. Phillips' oyster roast, Tuesday night, December 6. About a bushel of oysters was consumed by the nine teachers. During the supper Mr. Routh and Mr. Woodward entered into a contest to see who could eat the most. Fortunately (?) they lost count of the number after eating over two hundred apiece. It is hard to say who won. The roast was thoroughly enjoyed by all those present. Only Mr. J. H. Johnson and Mr. Farthing were absent.

Christmas is here;
Winds whistle shrill,
Icy and chill.
Little care we;
Little we fear
Weather without,
Sheltered about
The Mahogany Tree.

GIRLS USE SUBJECT OF ATTRACTIVENESS IN FORUM MEETING

Girls Talk on Different Topics Included in This Subject. Religion Is Stressed

LUCY CROCKER PRESIDES

Elvie Hope, Sadie Sharp, Clyde Norcum, Frances Cartland, E. Boyst, K. Nowell, M. Murchison, Speakers

"What Makes a Girl Attractive?" was the subject of discussion at the second Girls' Forum meeting Friday, December 2. The devotional was conducted by Lucy Crocker, president of the Girls' Council.

The subject of the meeting was treated under different heads by several girls. "Her Appearance" was the theme of a brief talk by Elvie Hope. "A well groomed girl is always attractive," she declared. Frances Cartland in discussing "Her Friends" said that no girl was happy or content without girl friends and boy friends, too. "We must be attractive in order to keep our friends," she concluded. "Her Books" was the subject from which Katherine Nowell talked. In her talk she said, "Books are our best friends and most helpful champions."

Sadie Sharp in speaking of "Her Home Life" declared that she thought no girl well-rounded until she could join in her home life as enthusiastically as school. "Her Amusements" was the subject treated by Margaret Murchison. "Wholesome outdoor sports add to any girl's attractiveness," she concluded. Any girl's religious life is an added quality and charm. "Shall we omit the most important phase of our lives?" was the challenge of a talk by Clyde Norcum on "Her Religious Life." "Her Personality" was the theme of the last talk, by Elizabeth Boyst. By reading "If—For Girls" she summed up the whole personality of a girl.

TWO LOCAL BOY SCOUTS RECEIVE EAGLE BADGE

Mayor E. B. Jeffress Presents These Badges at a Meeting of Court of Honor

MANY OTHER BADGES AWARDED

C. D. Benbow, Greensboro Bou Scout Commissioner, and John Gunter, of West Market M. E. church, were awarded the rank of Eagle Scout, Saturday, December 3. The badges were presented by Mayor Jeffress. This was a feature of the last meeting of the court of honor.

Mr. Benbow is the first scout official in the city to qualify for the coveted honor. Gunter, semester I student of G. H. S., has been a scout for less than two years; his record is very good.

The court's docket included the promotion of 10 scouts from tenderfoot to second class; one to first class; and the awarding of 35 merit badges.

Two boys qualified as Star Scouts and two as Life Scouts.

GIRL RESERVE MEETING HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL

To Sing Carols On Christmas Eve and Provide For a Family For Christmas

The meeting of the Girl Reserves on Monday, December 12, at the High School, was opened by Katherine Nowell's reading "Today" as the devotional. The national Girl Reserve song, "Across the Hills and Plains," was sung. At this time it was decided that the club would take one large family or two smaller ones to clothe and feed at Christmas. On Christmas Eve the Girl Reserves will sing carols all through the city.

The next meeting will be "A circle of lights," or the meeting of all the new members.

PHYSICS DEPT. OFFERS HIGHER SCIENCE COURSE

Limited Number of Interested Students Afforded Course

It has been definitely announced by Mr. Stanley Johnson, of the Physics department, that a special advanced course in Physics will be afforded students of Greensboro High School next semester. The course will be afforded to a limited number of interested students, probably fifteen, at chapel period and one period after school; and it will carry with it one semester's credit, though it is planned primarily for those who are interested in higher Physics rather than credit.

From a negligably small group of students taking Physics the department has grown within the last few years to meet the demands of students too numerous for the department to care for; and since it is an elective course this growth fairly shows the increase of student interest. "This course is offered because the Physics students want it," said Mr. Johnson. "Eligibility will be judged on scholarship and interest in the subject," he concluded. The course will include a thorough study of scientific facts relating to Physics lectures, and individual projects. No texts will be used.

Mr. Johnson has been re-equipping the department for some time. With a five hundred dollar yearly bonus for new apparatus he is rapidly building up the department in preparation for greater growth when the new high school is completed.

ALUMNI NEWS

Ruth Simpson was over to see us the other day.

"Chuck" Burgess and Jimmy Moss also paid us a visit.

"Pug" Solomon and Herman Gardner, our old basketball stars, are playing on the Oak Ridge team this year. Wade Stockard and Homer Shambly came in for the week-end from the "Ridge."

Mary Lyn Carlson was home last week-end from Sweet Briar, Va.

Hilda Davidson, Mary Jane Wharton, Katherine Wharton and Evelyn Rives were all over to see us Tuesday. Jane Harris and Emma Barton came home Wednesday from Salem to spend the Christmas holidays.

Vernell Hackney, Fred Burroughs, and Meade Connelly received letters at Wake Forest this year.

MR. JOHNSON—LADIES' MAN

"Oh, Mr. Johnson, please come open this window," cried M— across the school yard. "I just can't get it open."

Our hero strode gallantly over to where came the cries of dismay to open the metal screen on a window of the physics class.

A terrific tingling sensation immediately ran through his arm—an electric shock! The angry victim freed himself with difficulty and a muttered "D—n!" was spat from between his teeth. The witnesses of this episode were roaring with laughter as he turned away adding, "This is just a little too much, boys." It really seemed as though he meant murder when he said, "You know what this means for you," to the young miss who had induced him to open the window.

Later Mr. Johnson was heard savagely to declare that if he had had a gun he would have killed "those kids." He also complained of the shock going down into his leg and limped the better part of the afternoon. When he mistook Mr. Phillips' initials (C. W.) for N. C. C. W., Mrs. Smith thought it had gone to his head too.

Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for it is the stuff life is made of.—Benjamin Franklin.

CIVITANS ENTERTAIN PURPLE WHIRLWIND TEAM AT LUNCHEON

President Taylor Presides Over Unique Football Game Which Was Featured

COACHES MAKE TALKS

Bill Petree, 1928 Football Captain, Assures Civitans of the Fighting Spirit of Next Year's Team

The Purple and Gold grid warriors were guests of the Civitan Club at their weekly luncheon at the King Cotton Hotel, Friday, December 9. The Civitans, who were hearty supporters of the team during the past season, entertained the entire squad of forty boys.

President Taylor presided over the meet and Mr. J. H. Cook was the official "referee" in the unique "football" game which was its chief feature of the meeting. Captain Theron Brown made the "kick-off," which came in the way of a startling speech. Bill Petree, elected captain of the 1928 team, then gave a speech, assuring the Civitans that next year's team would be full of fight and they would carry on the work started by this year's team.

Coaches Routh, Coletrane and Woodward and Manager Dick Douglas made talks, after which a gold football was presented Dr. J. W. Tankersley, who has acted as team physician for several years. In presenting the football, Coach Woodward said that Dr. Tankersley's services had been invaluable and the team appreciated them. Dr. Tankersley in return paid a wonderful tribute to the squad, saying, "It was the finest bunch of boys I've ever had any connections with at Greensboro High School."

The luncheon was the final move on the part of the Civitans to show the team that they were sticking by them, and the fact was heartily appreciated by all of the boys.

CIVIC MUSIC ASS'N GIVES JOINT CONCERT AT N.C.C.W.

Baritone, John Charles Thomas, and 'Cellist, Miss Vera Poppe, Entertain Large Audience

OVER 2700 MUSIC LOVERS LISTEN

One of America's greatest baritones, John Charles Thomas, and a 'cellist, Miss Vera Poppe, gave many thrills to an appreciative audience Monday night, December 12, in the auditorium of North Carolina College. Nearly 2,700 disciples of music who are members of the Greensboro Civic Music Association listened to the joint concert of singer and 'cellist, the second of the series sponsored by the organization.

"Mr. Thomas' performance was a demonstration of a capital voice, resonant, melodious, yielding and powerful. His diction showed careful cultivation in enunciation and in exposition, a thing which was pleasing to the auditors. He sang many well-known pieces," as the Greensboro Daily News reported it.

"The 'cellist's apparent simplicity of expression was remarkable; so remarkable was it that one was led to suspect that her power did not lie alone in her ability to express emotion with simplicity, but in an understanding of all those powers which make elegance in musical production," said a member of the audience.

EXCHANGES

Papers, large and small ones, varicolored ones, interesting and uninteresting looking papers find their way to the exchange editor's desk.

He picks up a large, interesting looking paper that turns out to be Sky High, from Asheville, N. C. He glances over it and stops at the sport page where an account of the Asheville-Greensboro game is given. How he enjoys reading this and other Asheville games. The Battling Maroons have a team worth reading about!

Passing on to another paper, The North High Oracle, from Des Moines, Iowa, he sees an article on the play "The Goose Hangs High," given at the Des Moines High School. He remembers that Greensboro gave it last year and put it over in grand style. He hopes that it was equally a success at the North High School.

The Pinnacle, from Princeton, W. Va., tells us that a girls' club gave a banquet to the undefeated Princeton High football team. The Blue and White grid squad deserves a lot of honors.

The Chip, the Maplewood, Missouri, high school's paper is a very interesting paper. Banner head lines proclaim the fact that the county championship was won by Maplewood's football team.

Everybody is winning championships and all the papers are full of football.

The Lincoln Log, from Cleveland, Ohio, is one of the best papers in our exchanges. The exchange editor finds the editorial page is especially interesting. The several features add much to the variety of the paper.

Here is another football paper from Baton Rouge, La., The Buzzer. The Bulldogs play the New Orleans High School team. Bur-r-h-rh. The Bulldogs at the top of the paper look very impressive and as if they could easily beat their opponents. Here's hoping they won!

One drunk: Lookit th' poor elephants—pitiful, ain't it?

2nd ditto: Yah—hic—probably be elephants all their lives, too.—Furman University, Greenville, S. C.

Teacher: "John, what kind of animal has big limbs, bushy hair, and is very rough?"

John: "Football player." — Albany High, Ga.

Child (after hearing Betty say that she is going to Miami): "Betty is going to Herami."

Mother: "No, dear, to Miami."

Child, patiently: "Oh, all right then, Yourami."—The High School Buzz.

Jack—"Have you heard the new swan song?"

Will—"Why, no."

Jack—"Ha, that's swan on you."—Virginia Reel.

He—"It's strange that the biggest fools always manage to get out with the most beautiful girls."

She—"Oh, you flatterer."—Ashland Collegian.

City lady (pointing to cow's horns): "What are those things?"

Farmer—"Them's horns, lady."

Just then the cow moaned.

City lady—"Which horn did she blow?"—The High School Buzz.

Doctor: "Do you talk in your sleep?"

Patient: "No, but I talk in other people's sleep."

Doctor: "How is that?"

Patient: "I'm a college professor."—Manual Arts Weekly.

Pat: "Was your oldest son in comfortable circumstances when he died?"

Mike: "No, 'e was 'half way under a train."—Manual Arts Weekly.
