HIGH LIFE JOURNALISTS ATTEND PRESS INSTITUTE

Nelle Bookout, Elizabeth Newton, Paul Pearson, and Mrs. Betts Represent School Paper at Chapel Hill.

PRESS CONVENTION STARTS TODAY

HIGH LIFE is sending three student representatives and one faculty adviser to the annual North Carolina Scholastic Press institute. Mrs. Betts will be the faculty adviser and Nelle Bookout, Elizabeth Newton, and Paul Pearson will represent the journalism class.

The meeting starts today and will continue through tomorrow. A very interesting program has been planned, which will be very beneficial to high school newspaper writers.

Marty Cockfield, editor of HIGH LIFE, and Jean Berbert, business manager, were unable to attend the meeting as representatives, since they have gone with the seniors to Washington.

THIRTY-TWO STUDENTS ENTER MATH CONTEST

G. H. S. Students Enter State Contest Today; Best Papers Will Be Sent to Chapel Hill.

The annual North Carolina math contest is being given today to approximately 30 juniors and seniors of G.H.S. The three best papers of the seniors will be sent to Chapel Hill to compete against winning papers of other North Carolina high schools. The juniors are taking the test today merely as a means of preparing for next year's contest.

The list of entrants is as follows: Cornelia Anderson, John Adams, Charles Bennett, Perrine Bilyeu, Clyde Cobb, Sudie Clark, L. M. Clymer, Janet Campbell, Edna Caviness, Carl Compton, Elizabeth Deaton, Irvin Fulton, Richard Fritz, Ed Gehrke, Jack Gorrell, Ed Grosse, Ed Hipp, Dorothy Hendrix, Dickie Johnson, Austin Lane, Margaret Lewis, Frank Masters, Elfried Pennekamp, Stokes Rawlins, Geneva Rakenkamp, George Reynolds, Charles Staley, Joe Schofield, Carol Spainhour, Albert Wilson, and Bryce Yow.

G. H. S. GIRLS GO GA-GA

For details showing how the little pink bundle above aroused the maternal instincts of our high school lassies, see story, "Why the Baby Talk."

WHY THE BABY TALK

"Kitchi-goo; nice utle babe."

Mrs. Walker, of the American Red Cross, strolled down the school walk uttering baby talk to something cuddled in her arms. She marched into the class room, where a class of girls were assembled, and dropped her burden with a resounding thud upon the cot in the room. The girls all gasped but said nothing.

"Now, girls," began Mrs. Walker, "this class has been made possible for you, and I hope you will take advantage of it. A knowledge of hygiene is necessary in any home. Our lesson this morning will consist of the handling of a young child."

With that, she grabbed the mysterious bundle by the head, and held it before the class. The class, to a girl, jumped to its feet with a cry. The top of the bundle slowly unwrapped, revealing the face of a large doll. The class sighed and sat down.

This happened in one of the five classes in home hygiene which have been organized through the cooperation of the Greensboro chapter of the American Red Cross. Mrs. Mary Walker is in charge of the instruction, and the classes are being held in the Science building office.

MRS. MILNER GOES TO DURHAM FOR MEETING

Mrs. Charles Milner, head of the Greensboro public school cafeterias, is going to Durham today to attend the meeting of the executive committee of the North Carolina division of the American Association of University Women. On Saturday she will attend the general meeting of the organization. Mrs. Milner is president of the Greensboro branch of the association.

CUP IS TO BE AWARDED BY PLAYMASTERS' CLUB

Trophy to Be Presented to the Outstanding Member of the Society.

DRAMATIC CLUB GIVES PLAY

Miss Lottie Wall, director of Playmasters, has announced that the dramatic organization will award a silver loving cup semi-annually to the member of the club voted most helpful in the production of the plays, either in acting or backstage work. The cup will be presented for the first time at the June Commencement.

The Playmasters, Wednesday, gave a one-act play entitled, "The Boy Comes Home," by A. A. Milne.

Chemists Invent Compound For Use In Degravitator

Your snooping reporter, always on the alert for startling info, chanced upon a mad chemist who was busily engaged with some apparatus which was close beside him.

Endeavoring to discover the nature of his experiments, I approached the laboratory. As I slowly opened the door and walked cautiously toward the chemist, he looked up from his work; however, his eyes quickly dropped back to his task and he jotted down a few notes before he gazed at me again.

"What do you want?" he asked in a gruff voice.

Taking courage from this recognition, I drew myself up and told him that I wished to interview him for HIGH LIFE. "Humph," he replied, turning back to his work.

Put It First

The report cards for the second report period of this semester were issued on Tuesday of this week. A careful examination of the Honor Roll lists and the Failure Sheets shows us that scholarship in the Senior High school does not show any material improvement as compared with the first report of this semester. We feel that the most important thing in connection with high school is scholarship, and we are very much concerned over the indifference of some students toward school marks. We have approximately five more weeks in this semester, and all of you can improve your semester average by more and better effort. I encourage you to place school first during these last few weeks, and to do everything within your power to improve the scholarship standing of our high school. Nothing less than your best will be satisfactory.

SIXTY-TWO SENIORS VISIT WASHINGTON

Two Faculty Members and Parents of Students Accompany Group.

WILL RETURN SUNDAY

With Washington, D. C., as their destination 62 members of the graduating class left the Y. M. C. A. yesterday morning at 6:30 in private cars and a bus to enjoy an educational tour of the national capitol. The party, which is chaperoned by Miss Mary Ellen Blackmon, Mrs. Estelle LeGuin, Mrs. Roland Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mrs. F. B. Mooney, Mrs. A. L. Roberson, Mrs. Charles Ketchum, Mrs. J. L. Kendall, and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Routh will return to the city late Sunday afternoon.

The sight-seers visited historic Richmond and Mount Vernon yesterday and arrived in Washington before dark. After supper the party enjoyed a night boat trip on the Potomac river.

Before the seniors return they plan to visit the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Capitol, Library of Congress, Supreme Court building, Zoo, Airport, Arlington Cemetery, White House, Smithsonian Institute, Washington Monument, and the Pan-American building.

STATE MONOGRAM CLUBS TO MEET MAY 6 AND 7

Ed Hipp, Charlie Baker, and James Wolfe Delegates From G. H. S.

MULLIS WILL PRESIDE

Extensive Program Being Planned for Entertainment of Monogram Wearers at Conference.

Clyde E. (Pete) Mullis, chairman of the North Carolina Association of Monogram Clubs has called a state-wide meeting of monogram wearers at Chapel Hill on May 6 and 7.

Edd Hipp, president of the G. H. S. Monogram club, has been named chairman of the Greensboro delegation, and has in turn selected Charlie Baker, captain of the football team, and James Wolfe, letterman in football and baseball, to complete the group of three.

The delegates will be guests of the association at the track meet between the University of North Carolina and Georgia, and will attend the University-Navy baseball game on Saturday. Officers of the convention will be elected during the business session.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND GIVES RADIO PROGRAM

Miss Malvin Morton Offers Lecture for Charm School Program of April 26.

DEBATING CLUB GIVES DEBATE

The Greensboro High school band, under the direction of Mr. Hazelman, will present a radio program, Wednesday, May 4. The presentation will be celebrating National Music Week.

The Charm school, supervised by Miss Kneecce, offered as their program a lecture in the form of a question box, given by Miss Malvin Morton of the Y. W. C. A. This program was a reproduction of the regular club session on Tuesday, April 26.

The April 20th radio program was in form of a debate, given by four members of the High School Debating team.

MR. NICHOLSON GIVES PROGRAM, "PLAY SAFE"

Miss Cason's English Class Presents Program on Shakespeare; Interview With Past.

To bring the Inter-Class Radio series to a close, Mr. Nicholson presented an interesting program on school traffic, yesterday, April 28. Since there has been much trouble with the school traffic situation, this program was very appropriate.

Commemorating William Shakespeare's birthday, Miss Cason's English 6 class gave a radio program, Thursday, April 21. This skit was in the form of an interview with the past. The program was issued from the office of education in Washington.

Wild flower preservation was the topic of discussion on the program given by Mrs. Blackburn's nature study class in an earlier April program.

Industrial Arts to Have Exhibit

On May 9-14 the industrial arts departments of the city schools will have an exhibit in the window at Odell Hardware company on South Elm street. The exhibit will include articles made from strap iron and wood; also articles made in the mechanical drawing and printing rooms.
