

HIGH LIFE ISSUES CALL FOR SCRAP PAPER

Two-Week Campaign Offers Students Chance To Bolster Nation At War

Organizing to give everyone a chance to aid in national defense, High Life will launch Tuesday an all-out drive to collect waste paper, Betty Routh, business manager, announced today.

Stanley Johnson, faculty member in charge of the supply shop, will help in putting on the campaign. He stated that a large thermometer will be placed in the hall to register the amount of paper each home room collects. This will be recorded by chairmen, who will report daily.

Everyone Can Help

"This," declared Mr. Johnson, "is the chance everyone has been looking for. There is not one person who cannot do his part by bringing old papers and magazines to sell to Uncle Sam." The proceeds from the campaign will be added to High Life's funds.

It is understood that this campaign will not interfere with a similar one being carried out by the student council, as the student council is collecting only the paper used at school, while the High Life campaign is to collect paper from the homes.

Prize May Be Offered

Prizes to the home room which collects the largest number of pounds of waste paper may be offered. Other publicity stunts will also be offered in an attempt to reach the ultimate goal of the campaign, the collection of 2,000 pounds of paper.

Charles Holder, student in Miss Henri Etta Lee's art class, is in charge of the art work for the drive. Holder has constructed a number of black arrows which will indicate the daily number of pounds of waste paper gathered by each room.

Avon Players To Give 'Hamlet' Here April 2

"Hamlet," Shakespeare's most famous tragedy, will be presented by the Avon players Thursday morning, April 2, at 10 a. m., in the Senior high school auditorium.

"Since the price of admission, tax included, is only 25 cents, this unusual opportunity to see a complete Shakespearean drama presented by a nationally-known group of actors should be snapped up by every English student in the high school," declared Miss Mims, head of the English department, which is sponsoring the event.

Selman To Portray Hamlet

Joseph Selman, for 11 years director of the Avon players, will portray the exacting role of the moody, depressed Hamlet. His brother, Harold, will be seen in the part of the wary old counselor, Polonius.

Eugenie DuRose, who has supported such stars as Robert B. Mentall, Edna Mae Oliver and Walter Connolly and has drawn the highest praise for her performance of Lady Macbeth, will play Hamlet's mother, the queen, who marries her husband's murderer.

Vicks Offers G. H. S. Boys Special Training Course

"Announcement of special training courses available to G. H. S. students have just been made by Vick Chemical company," announced A. S. Proctor, director of distributive education, Tuesday.

"Qualifications applicants for the training must have, include good physical characteristics, good health, and a scholastic rank within the upper third of the applicant's class." Mr. Proctor continued. "The age limit is 17½ years. The boys must be dependable, responsible, willing to learn, and must possess initiative," he added.

Schumann, Edwards Head Dramatic Club

Shannon Schumann and Betty Gayle Edwards now Schumann as president and vice-president respectively of the Senior Dramatic club since their election at the society's semi-monthly meeting Tuesday, March 10. Other students holding office include Eleanor White, secretary and Dan Wagoner, treasurer.

The society passed a motion for the redecoration and much-needed improvement of the stage scenery and green room. Della Mae Trotter, will serve as chairman of the committee for decoration, which will repaint the two dressing rooms under the stage, obtain a property room and refinish the school's present scenery.

The club's spring production, "He Had a Past," has been tentatively set for May 1. Those taking part in the drama include Daisy Belle Anderson, Shannon Schumann, Jean Dinwiddie, Ann Thornton, Shelia Kaplan, Dot Snyder, Mollie Peck, Bob Perry, Mervine Merritt, Jack Watson and Arvil Moser.

'I'm A Legless Tray' Posters Remind Students of Duty

Have you ever been helpless and had no one to help you? If you have never been, you don't realize how the "legless" trays feel, or the way the trash that's left on the table in the cafeteria moans in its plight.

Art Classes Make Posters

Trays that are left on table every day seem to say, "I'm a legless tray; please assist me to the window," or "We trays can't walk—it's your place to carry us," or at least that's the interpretation given by the students of Miss Henri Etta Lee's art classes when they made posters last week for the school cafeteria in an effort to try to urge individuals to carry their trays to the window and waste materials to the trash cans.

Student Council Project

This is a project recently started by the student council, under the supervision of the adviser, Mrs. Estelle LeGwin, in order to make the cafeteria a cleaner place in which to eat. In addition, the group hoped to speed up the lunch lines and to encourage students to return their trays to the dish window.

Forensic Team Enters Triangular Competition

Herbert Hattaway and Paul Miller, members of the Greensboro affirmative team, will debate the state query, "Resolved—That a union of the nations of the western hemisphere should be established," against the negative team of Reynolds high of Winston-Salem, in chapel next Friday, in the first round of the North Carolina debate tournament.

Rachael Whiteside and Neil Beard, representing the negative, will debate the High Point team in the Bison city at the same time.

City-Wide Easter Seal Campaign Launched

Ouida Poole announced after a supper meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Monday that the Senior high inter-club council would sponsor the Easter Seal campaign throughout the Greensboro city schools.

Although Ann Newton has been named chairman of the event, she will be assisted by Ouida, who is president of the Greensboro inter-club council, a girl reserve organization. The council is composed of the president, vice-president and one representative from each girl reserve club in the city.

Miss Rosa Abbot, member of the National Association for the Study of Exceptional Children, and president of the local chapter, told the members of the council about the details of the campaign and explained how they would be helping the institutions for crippled children in North Carolina.

Booth in Main Hall

A booth will be placed in the front hall a week before Easter and students will have a chance to purchase the stamps there. Members of the Senior girl reserves, the Be Worthwhiles, will present a radio program over the radio each day and on Saturday before Easter they will sell paper lilies, similar to poppies, on Elm street.

The junior clubs will put on skits at the junior high schools and grammar schools in order to encourage the sales in those schools. The negro girl reserves will be in charge of the campaign in their district.

Miller Leads Discussion At New York Meeting

Speaking before one of the Saturday morning group meetings of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association convention last week, Paul Miller, editor of High Life and one of five Greensboro delegates to the New York meet, served as chairman for a panel discussion on "A Sound Editorial Policy."

Miller was invited to lead the group by the committee in charge of the convention programs.

Miller also won honorable mention for newswriting in the southeastern states Quill and Scroll contest held for scholastic students, revealed Rachael Whiteside, president of the local group, March 9.

Other members of the advanced class also entered the local contest which included newswriting and headline writing contests.

Routh Heads NCEA Elections Committee

Principal A. P. Routh was appointed chairman of the elections committee of the North Carolina Education association by K. G. Phillips, president of the N. C. E. A., last week.

Other members of the committee include W. H. Cude, Colfax; Miss Pauline Hassell, Edenton; W. B. Harrell, Fayetteville; and Mrs. Ruth Vick Warren, Wilmington.

McFarland, Sewell New Co-Captains For Grid Team

At the annual banquet held for the football, wrestling and basketball squads Dave Sewell, scrappy center and Bob McFarland, powerful halfback, were named co-captains of the '42 edition of the whirlwind grid team.

Sewell, who alternated with Bob Fendren at the pivot position last fall, played a rugged brand of ball and despite his size was a demon on defense as well as offense. Sewell also won the state championship in the 145 pound division in wrestling and is a candidate for baseball.

McFarland was known by many fans as being the hardest driving fullback in the state last season in spite of his weight. McFarland and McCormick split the duties the past grid season at the plunging back spot, but McFarland has been shifted to the right wing in spring practice.

Arithmetic, Geography Aid Navy Recruits

To inform high schools of methods in which they can aid graduates planning to enter the navy, the Navy Educational program committee issued a poster last month which explains the basic requirements in arithmetic and science for all technical work.

Arithmetic, geometry, elements of physics, physical geography, trigonometry, algebra and physics of electricity are listed as subjects that should be studied.

Winners in the local division of the annual state art contest, including alumni, were officially announced last week by Mrs. Callie O. Braswell, head of the art department.

David Evans, Richard Kiser, Billie Gene Phipps and Kenna Beall won honors for work in the fields of watercolor painting, design and crayon drawing.

Others Win in Various Fields

Large Group Wins in Sketching

Pencil drawings and sketches, J. R. Lackey, Douglass Hunt, Bill Cavan, Catherine Winn and Rachael Whiteside; ink drawings and sketches, Billy Carr, Dot Smitherman, Douglass Hunt, Kenna Beall and Marshall Adams; charcoal drawing, Dacia Lewis and Lou Ellen Duncan; pastel drawing, Gene Thornton; oil painting, Dora Kirkpatrick; watercolor painting, Catherine Winn, Douglass Hunt and Dora Kirkpatrick; ceramics, Ralph Cole, Harold Keels, Ed York and J. P. Williams; and lettering, Daisy Belle Anderson and Virginia Stoffel.

200 New Books Displayed In Library Last Week

"Approximately 200 new books, costing about $300, arrived in the library last week," stated Mrs. Beatrice Hall, school librarian, today. These new books on display included replacements of lost books and copies of popular volumes which are in constant use, Mrs. Hall concluded.

Some of these widely read books include "The White Cliffs," Alice Duer Miller; "These Men I Knew," Rositer Forges; "South By Thunderbird," Gudson Strode; "The American Way" and "Full Ahead," Felix Rissenberg, Jr.; "Buried Alive," Arnold Bennett; "Let the King Beware," Honore Morrow; "The Tree of Liberty," Elizabeth Page.
