Columbia Tops Whirlwinds In Duke Tournament, 37-30

Friday the thirteenth and a strong Columbia, South Carolina, quintet proved to be the downfall of Coach Bob Jamieson's basketballers last week-end in an opening round contest of the Duke-Durham high school invitational tournament, won by Burgin high of Kentucky.

In the first game of the tournament, which brought together the top eight scholastic teams of the South, an early lead and the shooting of Henry Martin gave the South Carolinians a 37-30 win over the local cagers.

Columbia Takes Early Lead

The early minutes of the game beat the locals. Columbia led at the quarter by 10 points, and at one time ran the lead to 20-3. In the third period, which proved fatal to Whirlwind opponents all season, the Gate City quint rallied to get back in the game, but the early advantage was never overcome. The final period saw the teams evenly matched.

Martin Leads Scorers

Martin demonstrated his skill of shooting throughout the game, and as a result, he was far ahead of the pack in scoring, ringing up 22 points. Al Koepfle trailed him with 10 points for the locals. The margin of victory, however, came from the free-throw line, Columbia sinking nine shots, while Greensboro, which used this method effectively all year, was way off, as they secured two points.

In the semi-final bracket the North Carolina champion, Durham, was vastly superior to Columbia, conquering them by the decisive score of 60-29.

In the upper bracket the unseeded Burgin, Kentucky, team upset the third-ranking Greenville, South Carolina, squad in the semi-finals, after toppling the top team, John Marshal of Richmond, in the opening round.

In the championship game the Kentuckians were led by two all-tournament players, Jack Coleman and Guilford Waggener, to a 41-36 victory for the title. Consolation honors went to Greenville, which trounced Columbia 45-30.

Golfers Expect Practice To Begin In Two Weeks

Thirty-Three Report For Spring Football

Snow flurries stopped spring football practice for Coach Jamieson's Whirlwinds Monday, but hard work was in order for Tuesday when 33 eager boys inaugurated drills for the spring season.

Work for the first day included two on one blocking, working on the blocking dummy, passing, kicking, head on tackling and ended with a short scrimmage.

Since line Coach G. O. Mann was absent because of a teacher's meeting, Jack King, Jim Groome, Bob Campbell, Bob Fordren, Jim Anthony and Garland Wolfe, senior lettermen, took over the line duties. Buddy Mulligan and Bennett Newell assisted Jamieson with the backfield.

For the next few weeks, the boys will work on fundamentals of the gridiron sport.

"Forward march! . . . 1, 2, 3, 4 . . . 1, 2, 3, 4! Column halt! Dismissed!"
"Boy, what a drill," sighs a prospective soldier. "Geo, Murphy, let's don't do that again!" cries another.

Such are the comments heard from the direction of the field house every Tuesday at the end of gym.

However, one of the aforementioned "comments" seemed to be louder than all the rest. It was the utterance of one, Emuf N. Brogans, the slightly less than below average G. H. S. student. "My feet are sore!" he moaned.

Then, the illustrious Mr. Brogans was interviewed for comments and criticisms on the expanded physical education program.

"This physical ed's o. k., I guess," Emuf declared, "that is—all except drill and tumbling!" Explaining what he meant by this, Brogans continued, "Well, drill isn't so bad except we walk all over creation. The guys in front go so fast that you have to break your neck to keep up. I guess by now, I could beat that Greg Rice in the two mile run!"

Miss Sara Mims' English 8 classes began their term papers this week.

Girls Practice Pyramids, Tumbling, Group Stunts in Gymnasium Classes

Building pyramids, tumbling and practicing such stunts as the "flying angel," "Turk stand," and "bear dance" were the order of the day for the girls' physical education classes last Monday, declared Miss Doris Hutchinson, director of the girls' physical education department, March 18.

The girls will be required to pass 10 out of a total of 15 stunts, she continued.

Difficult Stunts Described
In the "flying angel" feat, one of the most difficult, the "victim" lies on her back with feet perpendicular to the mat. After the "angel" places herself so that her pelvic bones are sustained by the assistant's feet and her shoulders are supported by the victim's uplifted hands, she flings back her head and stretches out her arms while lifting her legs parallel to the floor.

"For about three weeks, the girls will continue work on pyramids, stunts and tumbling. Then the classes will study the fundamentals of softball and will form teams to compete within each class. Following this season, recreational sports, such as badminton, horse shoes and ping-pong will be practiced by the girls. Miss Hutchinson concluded.
