

Autumn At Grimsley

By Randy Apple

'Count Me In' Comes Nov. 8, 9

By Dewitt Carrol

History comes alive in entertaining style in an unusual Bicentennial program to appear at Grimsley Senior High School Monday, Nov. 8, at 9 and 10 a.m. Mrs. Anita Schenck, coordinator of the Guilford County American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, said today.

"Called 'Count Me In,' it is a multimedia presentation that mixes history with entertainment." said Mrs. Schenck. The show was produced at a cost of $90,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration and initial transfer of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration of the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produced at a cost of $100,000 for the same produ stration, and is jointly presented by ARBA and our county commission. Rick Trow Produc-tions of Philadelphia created the show. Trow specializes in high school events. The firm has presented well over 100,000 such productions as the one that will be seen here.

'This doesn't attempt to teach

"This doesn't attempt to teach history in the traditional fashion." Mrs. Schenck continued, "but in a modern style that combines slides, films and audience participation. For instance, a Ted Baxter-type anchorman begins a news report on the outbreak of the Revolution by saying, 'The war in Massachusetts continues, but more on that later,' and goes into a commercial, a commercial,

"There are man-in-the-street interviews on how the colonists feel about the Revolution, including one housewife who says she's 'bloody mad about having to shelter British soldiers.'

Gerry Falcone, a Philadelphia actor, will be master of ceremonies. Six unsuspecting students will be chosen for parodies of such TV game shows as "The Dating Game," "What's My Line?" and "Truth or Consequences."

A girl from the audience will be brought on stage, handed a bouquet, and told, "This Is Your Life, Alice Adams." On the screen will be scenes from the life of a 19th century woman, first in a one-room schoolhouse, then as an office worker in a textile plant, and next as a passenger on a train moving West.

There are commercials for Poor There are commercials for Poor Richard's Almanac and for a rip-off of the 1800's -- Dr. Wilson's Electric Belt for Ladies. The latter is guaranteed to cure back pains, heart problems, dyslexia, kidney failure "and you ladies know what else."

Mrs. Schenck said the idea behind "Count Me In" is to give students and adults alike a sense of what made this country great.

of what made this country great. The show conveys a feeling that the audience is living during the 200-year span, covered in entertaining fashion.

High school students in many parts of the nation have enjoyed the show, which will be making its only scheduled appearance in Next. Combined Land. North Carolina. Local presenta-tions will be made at Greensboro Grimsley, Page, Dudley and Smith; Ragsdale, Western Guilford, Northwest and Southeast, and at Andrews and Central in High Point.

Sponsors are Alderman Studios, Adams-Millis, Western Electric, Drexel-Heritage, Guilford Mills, Pilot Life, Burlington Industries, Cone Mills Corp., Carolina Steel, Ciba-Geigy and the Guilford Bicentennial Commission mission.

Grimsley's shows are sponsored by Cone Mills Corp. and

'Count Me In' is a educational and entertaining experience that comes on November eight and nine. Burlington Industries, Inc.

Papers, The Game, The Election

A Column by David Bulla

Friday, October 29, 1976

It was three weeks ago that this chool reached the abyss. For one full week students, especially seniors made sure they had their last few licks in. And, though, by Friday no one was hurt or hospitalized, the chances of an accident were not remote. After the rain-out on Friday, the gamed was moved to Saturday, slightly burting the ottendance and the hurting the attendance, and the fervor ended.

The election is on November 2. and the time for all good 18 year olds to come to the assistance of their country is imminent. If you have the chance to vote, please use that right! Besides the President, you will be voting for a congressman, state senators and house members, and other members of the state govern-ment. These state jobs are just as important as federal positions.

After all, we need to put some of the more frivolous items that tie down our National legislature back to the individual states.

National Newspaper Week was october 10 through 17. We did not publish a paper around that time. but we would like to thank those of you who purchase this publication and those of you who are supporting us through letters-to-the-editor, feature and news stories, and photos.

By Charlie Brown

Explorer Posts

Scuba Diving, Zoology and Aviation are all part of the new Explorer Posts.

Explorer Posts are for the student who has a special interest or career interest in one of the many fields available. They are being designed to cultivate and increase student interest and knowledge. The Posts bring together both students and professionals discussing and participating in activities of each special interest.

Mr. Wade, the career counse-lor, is helping organize this worthy activity, and he will talk to any student who is interested. Meeting dates and membership dues information can also be found from Mr. Wade.

The Posts are open to anyone who has an interest and can be very informative and fun. Besides the Posts below, other Posts will be added during the year, and if you have a career interest not listed please contact Mr. Wade for further information.

The following are a list of Posts now in progress. Medicine, Aviation Camping Law, Photography, Nursing, Government, Postal Service, Computers and Data Processing, Dentistry, Computer Technology, Business, Secretarial, Zoology, Radio Communications, Art, Sea Exploring, Cosmetology, Law Enforcement Cosmetology, Law Enforcement, Indian Lore, Veterinary Medicine, Wildlife, Chemistry, Fire Science, Scuba Diving, Social Work, Special Education and Handicapped.