

CLAXTONIAN LITERARY SOCIETY DICUSS PINS

On Monday, January 24th, the Claxtonian Literary Society held a call meeting for the purpose of selecting our Society pins. The chairman of the committee, Alice Waynick, stated prices and facts concerning each of the four pins chosen by the committee. Estelle Mendenhall had drawn outlines of the pins on the blackboard and the vote was easily cast.

All those who desire pins will please notify Alice Waynick immediately.

GLEE CLUB PRACTICE

Because it has been examination week, the Orchestra and glee clubs have not had their usual practice. However, they will renew their practices this week with as much zeal and firmer than ever.

Everyone wishes our musical members luck, and hope to have the pleasure of hearing them again soon.

Where can a man buy a cap for his knee,
Or a key to the lock of his hair?
Can his eyes be called an academy
Because there are pupils there?
In the crown of his head, what games are found?

Who travels the bridge of his nose?
Can he use, when shingling the roof of his mouth,
The nails on the end of his toes?

Can the crook of his elbow be sent to jail?
If so, what did he do?
How does he sharpen his shoulder blade?
I'll be hanged if I know—do you?
Can he sit in the shade of the palm of his hand?

Or beat on the drum of his ear?
Does the calf of his leg eat the corn on his toes?

If so—why not grow corn on the ear?

Lucy was gazing through the window of a local photographer, her eye glued on a certain picture. It was the annual procession of school children through the village.

"Mary, come ere!" she shrieked.
"What's the matter, Lucy?" asked the other.

"Well, you see that photo of Annie Smith on the third row there."

"Yes," replied Mary, "and what about it?"

"An' you see the pair of boots behind Annie?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's me!"

Spanish, Shorthand, English, History,
Gee! Its some mystery.
How I'll ever pass,
But I'm thankful I'm not alone—
In my class!

How to Make a Ford!

A little gas,
A little oil,
A little spark
A little coil.

A piece of tin,
And a two-inch board,
Put them together
And you'll have a "Ford."

Miss Morrow to Harry Brumley, after she had told him to pay attention several times: "Harry Brumley, you haven't got any more control over your mind than I have!"

"TENNIS"

The spiders all wished to play tennis,
They spun their fine nets right away.
For balls they procured some round currants,
For rackets they hunted all day.

Then noisily rude with his buzzing,
Along came a huge bumble bee,
And crashed through the delicate netting;
"I'll furnish a racket," said he.

MR. PRICE RESIGNS AS PRINCIPAL OF HIGH SCHOOL

He Goes to Birmingham to Take up Religious Work

The High School teachers are planning to give a farewell banquet for Mr. Price on Tuesday, Feb. 1, at High School Cafeteria. We are extremely sorry to lose Mr. Price, but we feel that he is to be congratulated on his promotion. He goes to enter the field of religious education where his superior training in educational work and unusual native ability will find a broader field for expression. His connection with the High School ends Jan. 28. Mr. and Mrs. Price will leave for Birmingham, Ala., their future home, about the middle of February.

The service Mr. Price has rendered the Greensboro High School is inestimable. We feel that in the field of organization and scholarship his work will be a permanent contribution to our progress.

Mr. Guy Phillips, who will succeed Mr. Price as principal of the High School, visited the school Wednesday. We feel that we are very fortunate to secure Mr. Phillips as he is a school man of recognized ability and broad experience. He graduated from U. N. C. in the class of 1913, and accepted a position as head of the English department and coach of the football team in the Raleigh high school.

Here his work attracted such wide spread attention he was elected to the superintendency of the Oxford schools at the expiration of his second year. This position he filled until last summer when he resigned to organize a county thrift program under the auspices of the Oxford banks.

Mr. Phillips expressed himself as being pleased with the organization of our school and is enthusiastic in undertaking the completion of the year's program.

Miss Summer in Latin trying to assign the lesson: "All of you please be sure and study this vocabulary out loud to yourself."
