

Glee Clubs Combine To Form Chorus

Raymond Brietz established a mixed chorus of 85 students, March 26, during homeroom period, when the group met for the first time. They will continue to meet during that period Mondays, Tuesdays, and Fridays until the end of the semester.

This chorus will follow the same routine as that of the capella choir, which was established last semester.

The capella choir will combine with the second chorus and will give an evening program during National Music week, May 4-10. Tickets will be sold to help the students defray expenses incurred on trips to the contests in Winston-Salem and Greensboro.

Anne Arnold Assumes Duties of School Nurse

Assisting Dr. Jean McAllister in the school clinic, Miss Anne Arnold, of the Peabody Public Health department in Nashville, Tennessee, has recently taken over the job of nurse at Greensboro high school. Dr. McAllister, temporary clinic head because of the sudden influx of measles and mumps cases, will leave Miss Arnold in complete charge of the clinic.

Staff Nurse at Duke

After receiving her training at Appalachian State college and the City Memorial hospital at Winston-Salem, Miss Arnold worked as secretary to the county administrator in Yadkinville, the staff nurse at the Rowan Memorial hospital in Salisbury, the staff nurse at Duke hospital, and as a nurse in the Peabody public health department.

Students may find Miss Arnold in the clinic from 9 o'clock until 11 o'clock. After these hours she works for the public health department.

Mad House Blues or History Repeats Itself

Revolutionary war is being fought right here in our own little village. Yep! Washington repeats his courageous stand of 1778; Patrick Henry renews his challenge for liberty; Paul Revere makes his daring venture of 1775. American patriots again defend their famous Bunker Hill; John Brown takes to the trail; and Indians let out their blood-thirsty cries of olden days!

Old Greensburghers, resting in their eternal beds, turn over and over in their graves. "My!" you can hear them say, "have our young folks gone stark mad?"

No, they aren't mad—at least, not yet. For until the wee hours of the night they toil, renewing America's colorful and adventurous days of the past.

The reason: term papers!!

STATIONERY
Printed, engraved, or stamped
Also Open Stock
Wills' Book Store

AMBULANCE
"In a Hurry"

Call

Forbis & Murray

Elva Spencer Wins Prize As Champion Club Typist

Student Artist Works For "Uncle Sam"

In compliance with a request from the post office, Rud Fayad, art student in Miss Henri Etta Lee's class, has prepared the plaster eagle shown. (Photo by David Nicholson.)

By typing 54 words per minute with only three mistakes, Elva Spencer, vice-president of the Commercial club, achieved top honors yesterday as the group's champion typist. She will receive a gold pin as a prize next week. Ann Chrismon, with a speed of 49 words per minute, came in with second place, announced Miss Frances Humphrey, business department instructor, today.

International Rules Used

International typing contest rules used for the test stipulated that entrants must make not more than one error a minute on a 10-minute timed test and that they must not erase. In scoring, Miss Humphrey deducted ten words for each error from the total number of words typed.

Elva, member of home room 300, chairman of the typing committee for the senior pageant, and a member of the special honor roll, will graduate in June.

202 Discusses Methods To Solve Lunch Delays

In an effort to reduce some of the congestion in the lunchroom, Miss Lily Walker's homeroom, 202, is making a study of the cafeteria situation.

In assisting the group in this work, Mrs. Emma Sharpe Avery, faculty supervisor of the lunch periods, has discussed with the students means of remedying the "bottlenecks" that hinder the efficiency of the cafeteria. The two most prevalent and annoying misdemeanors encountered, according to Mrs. Avery, are:

1. Breaking in line, thus causing other persons to wait longer than necessary for their food.
2. Requesting students to purchase food for a person far back in the line.

English Class to Present Radio Program in May

In order to continue their study of radio for education, members of Miss Cathleen Pike's second period English 6 class plan to present a program over WBIG, May 16. The broadcast will include a discussion on Greensboro authors whose works have recently been published. If the time permits, the students will review the following Greensboro books: They Don't Dance Much, by James Ross, Big Road Walker, by Mrs. Eula C. Duncan, and The Right Thing to Do, by Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown.

Stringfield Hears Band

Lamar Stringfield, prominent New York composer, conductor, and flutist, stopped in Greensboro to attend a rehearsal of the high school band.

Bring the whole family and dine at the
Mecca
Seafoods and Steaks

To turn all eyes in your direction
And always be dressed to perfection,
Come to H. & H. this very day
Our styles will please you right away.

H. & H. Clothing Co.
131 S. Davie St.

'Reading Aid to Writing', Jeffress Tells Students

"Read!" declared Carl Jeffress, former High Life editor and present Greensboro News-Record news director, in a speech last week, in which he told students of Mrs. Emma Sharp Avery's first period occupational class how to acquire journalistic style.

Although Mr. Jeffress included in his talk other phases of newspaper work, printing and linotype operation, for instance, he emphasized the news writing angle and urged a prospective journalist to read literature of all ages and to learn English history and economics thoroughly.

The talk, second in a series of addresses by representatives of the business world, followed a speech by Miss Elsie Caldwell, president of the Business and Professional Women's club, the previous week, on "The Successful Business Woman."

Floyd, Routh, Garber Head Latin Group

Elected at the last meeting, new officers for the Latin club as announced by Miss Gertrude Farlow, adviser, are president, Preston Floyd; vice-president, Betty Routh; and secretary, Jean Garber.

Alumni Notes

Christine Allen, '38 graduate, has recently been appointed business manager of Coraddi, literary magazine of Woman's college. Christine is also a member of the home economics, Quill, Young Democrat, and Physics clubs.

In recognition of high scholastic achievements at Woman's college, Bobbie Lee Clegg, and Alice Porter, class of '37, were recently elected to the Woman's college section of the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in North Carolina. Both students are active members of a group of college clubs.

Stewart Motor Co.
Phone 4371
Body and Fender Repairing

Sales  Service

Joseph Ruzicka

"Craftstyle"

Library Book Binding

Greensboro, N. C.

Baltimore, Md.

Council Convention To Meet April 29; Atkinson Chairman

"Members of the Greensboro Senior high school student council will play host to some 100 students and teachers when the first annual conference for the north central district of the State Student Council congress meets on April 29," Lelia Atkinson, secretary of the Senior high school student body and chairman for the event, announced today.

Hicks State Leader

Walter Hicks, student from Goldsboro high school, is serving as state chairman for the regional events. Members of the planning committee from Greensboro include Bill Brinkley, Jewel Hyatt, Bob Perry, and Beverly Heitman. Douglass Hunt and Jewel Hyatt will serve as official delegates from Senior high.

The program for the day follows:

- Registration—9:00-10:00.
- Opening session—10:00-11:00.
- Group meetings—11:15-12:15.
- Lunch—12:15-1:00.
- Business session—1:00-2:30. (Election of officers).
- Adjournment—2:30.

A registration fee of 25 cents will be collected from each delegate and adviser.

Science Classes See Film On Preparation of Meats

"Meat and Romance," an entertaining educational movie, was the chief feature of a joint meeting of the home economics and biology classes held last week. Kyle Benbow, member of Mrs. Emma Avery's home room, acted as director in presenting the film.

The moving picture, which was made by a national packing company, showed the types of meats and methods of preparing them. A demonstration showing the correct way to carve meat was an added feature.

Club Groups to Suspend Meetings After May 1

As commencement plans will occupy the homeroom time of all seniors for the last month before graduation, clubs will suspend meetings for the month of May, announced Principal A. P. Routh, Wednesday.

These organizations, except Torchlight and Quill and Scroll, which have met on alternate Mondays, have regularly met on the first and third or second and fourth Wednesdays of each week.

Students Secure Use Of 90 New Books

"Out on the shelves and ready for the students' use are the 90 new books received recently in the school library," announced Miss Agnes Wren, librarian, yesterday. The majority of the books have been published in the past two years and have proven entertaining as well as educational, according to the librarian.

Biography of Stephen Foster

An interesting biography is "He Heard America Sing," by Claire Lee Purdy, which deals with the life of a gifted and lovable composer, Stephen Foster, who won the hearts of so many with his humorous and sad Negro ballads and "haunting love lyrics." The Mexican war, the days of '49, and the Civil war form the story's background.

Budge Gives Advice

Another book right in season is "Budge on Tennis," by Donald Budge, sportsman and outstanding tennis champion. In this book the perfect strokes are not only described, but also illustrated in 64 action photographs of Budge in play. Budge is an authority on this sport, having captured the world's four major tennis titles last year—the British, American, French, and Australian championships.

Allison Danzig has contributed to this book a biographical sketch which "takes you behind the scenes" and reveals methods used by Budge to perfect his game.

Library Carries Exhibit For Pan-American Week

In connection with Pan-American week, observed April 15-18, the school library exhibited much material pertaining to the Pan-American countries. Miss Henri Etta Lee's art class designed several posters, one of which depicts Latin American flags.

Also on display were Mexican articles, relics of Misses Margaret Moser and Louise Smith's journey there last summer, and several South American items belonging to Sam Barnes, G.H.S. student and former resident of South America.

Members of Coach Bob Jamieson's second period physical education class are cleaning and preparing the tennis courts for spring practice.

We have a complete line of
Summer Sportswear for Ladies
See Our Assortment
Montgomery Ward & Company

All that's worth printing ...

... is worth printing well

McCulloch & Swain
Paramount Printing

SPECIALIZING IN PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS

806 Trinity St.

P. O. Box 1193

Phone 8809

GREENSBORO, N. C.