

Students Interview Stars of 'Oklahoma'

By JOHN UTLEY

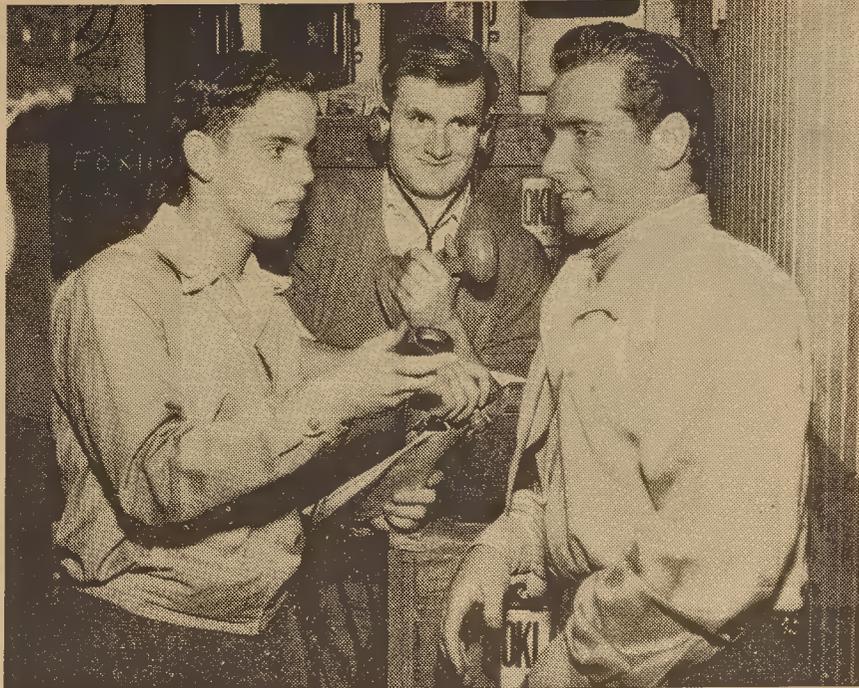

Broadway came to Greensboro, February 21-23! Yes, in all its glorious color of stars and lights, The Theatre Guild of New York brought that wonderful show of Rodgers and Hammerstein, "Oklahoma," to Greensboro.

"Oklahoma"—playing five years on Broadway, with a packed house every performance—now is appearing all over the world in different touring companies. Greensboro had the extreme privilege of seeing the number one company.

Who could have had more fun, than those select few, who managed to "meet the stars?" Your "Youth On the Air" (WBG-11:30 Saturday morning) roving reporter, John Utley, and Bob Murray, Master-ceremonies of program, had the honor of meeting the stars. With a few microphones, cables, and a wire recorder, we tramped to the National Theatre, walked in, down some steps, through a door, down in a dirt tunnel for 20-30 yards, and up through an opening, and there to stare us in the face was Miss Ann Crowley, the beautiful 18 year co-star of "Oklahoma." After setting up our equipment, we then turned to Miss Crowley, and I, with my great supply of curiosity and interest, asked her: "What part do you play in 'Oklahoma'?" She replied "Laury." Miss Crowley has played in "Oklahoma" for the past four and a half years. She joined "Oklahoma" when she was only 15. She has also played in "Carousel", and many other Broadway hits.

When asked as to her previous training, she stated that she had had no more training than the average high school girl—such training as singing lessons, and dancing.

Miss Crowley, was exceedingly interested in our work as well as in her own. She has attended high school, but not college.

At that moment, Miss Crowley had to return to the stage for the remainder of the act. So we turned, and walked down the hall to see a handsome young man, who calmly stated that he was "Curly"! This man was Mr. Milton Clary, who co-stars with Miss Crowley. Mr. Clary is from Indianapolis, Indiana. He has been singing professionally for about six years. As an interesting side light, it should be noted that Mr. Clary's lucky day is Friday the 13th. He joined "Oklahoma," Friday, June 13, 1947.

One of the most charming and entertaining persons we talked to was Miss Alicia Krug. Miss Krug is a professional ballet dancer. She danced with Laury in the dream ballet sequence of the show.

In addition to the above persons, we talked to Murvyn Vye (Jud), Roy Milton ("Curly") in dream ballet, Edith Gresham (Aunt Eller), and a few chorus girls, as well as Hy Anzel, the peddler.

As a rule, most of the stars, stated that unless you are serious about getting into show business—"Then don't!!!"

It is remarkable to note that most of the stars of "Oklahoma" prefer the professional stage to Hollywood, or radio.

We shall always remember the warmth and kindness which these great people of "Oklahoma" gave us. "Oklahoma" is a great show, and this same adjective—great—describes its cast.

So was an evening, backstage Broadway!

Officer: Why were you racing through town at that rate of speed?

Buddy Stout: My brakes were out of order and I wanted to get home before there was an accident.

The Book Worm

After high school—what? One of the most important decisions any young person must make is that of choosing a career. Hundreds of jobs are open to qualified persons—jobs in the fields of radio, journalism, personnel, chemistry, medicine, banking, labor relations, engineering, machine shop work, business administration, agriculture, electricity, designing, law, printing, masonry public relations. The list could go on and on. Choosing one career from so many often puts a person in quite a daze as he tries to survey the entire field.

Many factors enter into the final choice. First of all, what career holds the most interest for you? Will you be able to adjust yourself satisfactorily to the working conditions of that career? How much preparation is necessary? What about hours and salary? Can your chosen career be followed in the section of the country in which you want to live? What about retirement provisions in this career? What opportunities are there for advancement? Questions to be considered are almost endless.

As Senior High approaches Career Day, the library staff invites each student to see the books and pamphlets available on various careers. The library has material on almost any career in which you may be interested. Up-to-date pamphlets will answer many of your questions. Books on careers are plentiful.

We suggest a few helpful books and pamphlets. "Your Plans for the Future," by Detjen, points out the important things to consider in choosing a career, getting your first job, and holding your job. Choosing the right career and analyzing yourself for the job are discussed in the pamphlet "How to Choose a Career" by Humphreys. A discussion of various careers, landing the job you want, and advancing on the job will be found in "Get the Job," by Abraham.
