35 Students Receive High Ratings At Duke, Davidson Music Contests

Thirty-five members of the GHS music department won eight superior and six excellent ratings at the state solo and ensemble contests that were held at Davidson College and Duke University.

Out of the five ensemble groups sent to Duke University to be judged, three groups received superior ratings while two brought back excellent.

The clarinet quartet composed of John Gardiner, Maxine Wells, Mary Lou Wall, and Sara Toenes was one of the three coping a superior rating. The others were the brass sextet composed of Leigh Winslow, Bill Kellam, Jerry Eller, Harold Nicholson, Bob Phillips, and Dick Frank, and the Brass Choir consisting of Leigh Winslow, Bill Kellam, Bob Phillips, Zade Turner, Gery Steed, Shelly Morgenstern, Jerry Eller, Helena Frost, Benton Ham, and Gwen Christiansen.

Eugene LeBauer, Barbara Kennerly, and Eleanor Zwicky playing the Flute Trio received an excellent rating along with the Horn Quartet composed of Dick Frank, Becky Motley, Jimmy Griggs, and Tom Hill.

Nine members of the GHS concert orchestra brought many hon-

Three Vocal Groups Leave For '54 Contest

Three vocal choruses left Greensboro today to represent GHS in the state music contest held in High Point.

Miss Eula Tuttle is the director of the groups which consist of a girls' chorus, boys' chorus, and the mixed choir.

Each group will sing two selections, and they are judged by three teachers from high schools over the state.

The selections made by the girls' chorus are "Greetings" by Brahms and "Adoramuste, Christe" by di Lasso. The boys' chorus is singing "Come Now Sweet Death" and "Jesus, Joy of My Endeavor," both written by Bach.

The choir, which will sing about 3 p. m., has elected to perform "The Last Words of David," a work by Randall Thompson, and "Salvation Is Created."

Last year the choruses went to Salisbury and received superior ratings for each group.

The groups left early this morning by chartered busses and will return late this afternoon.

Classes Schedule Plays For April 2 Presentation

On April 2 at 8 p. m., the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore Classes will each present a one-act play to determine which class shall take a winner to Chapel Hill for the Annual State Drama Festival.

The Opening of a Door, a drama, will be presented by the seniors. Members of the cast include Margaret Kinsey, Gloria McQueen, Barbara Massey, Forbes Ramsey, Dale Pearce, Mike Tenko, and Jo Frances Bullard. Raoula Bach, Bootsie Fowler, David Sox, Robert Landreth, and George Cox make up the technical crew.

The Running Tide, another drama, will be given by the juniors. Those who make up the cast include Eleanor Pearman, and Harvey Knox at the present. The rest of the cast will be announced at a later date.

For Whom The Telephone Rings, a comedy, will be dramatized by the sophomores. The cast is composed of Carol Mae Horney, Michael Gardner, Shirley Smith, Bob Herford, Gail Apple, and Mike Powell. The technical staff will be announced later.

The winning class will receive the One-Act Play cup.

Winthrop To Be Host To J. C. L. Convention

Twenty-two members of the local Junior Classical League will attend the annual Latin Forum which will be held at Winthrop College in South Carolina on Saturday, March 20.

These GHS delegates will observe the functioning of South Carolina's state Latin meeting. The aim of the Forum is to bring together as many Latin students as possible and to demonstrate to them that Latin is not dead but is still making a rich cultural contribution to our civilization.

Last year South Carolina's Forum attracted national attention by a write-up in TIME magazine. This year it will be covered by LIFE.

Highlighting the agenda for the day will be a play presented by students of Dresher High School, Columbia; a lecture on the daily life among the Romans by Gladys Martin, who is on the faculty of Mississippi State College for Women; and a panel of 'Roman Quiz Kids.'

PADDY SUE WALL

Wall Voted JCL Prexy At Asheville Convention

Paddy Sue Wall of Greensboro Senior High was elected president of the state-wide Junior Classical League at the annual convention held in Asheville last Saturday.

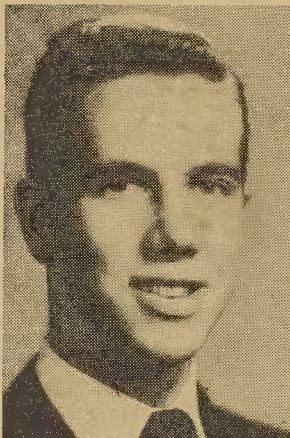

Latin and Greek students make up the group which Paddy Sue has served as vice-president. Paddy Sue, who is a second year Latin student under Mrs. Mary Madlin, was elected last year when the convention was held in Greensboro. Her main job as vice-president has been editing TORCH which is the state J. C. L. newspaper.

At the convention this year, Paddy Sue was nominated and supported by the High Point club. D. Ann Welch was Paddy's campaign manager.

After lunch on Saturday the candidates were presented and elected. Paddy received the honor late in the evening session.

As president Paddy's main job will be the planning of next year's convention which will be held in Chapel Hill.

FORBES RAMSEY

Ramsey Receives $1,250 In '54 Morehead Awards

"I wasn't sure that it was my name they called," replied Forbes Ramsey when questioned about his winning the $1,250 Morehead scholarship, renewable each of his four years at the University of North Carolina.

"For three days we had been interviewed and questioned. Then after waiting for an hour for the result of my efforts, I was so nervous that it didn't register when my name was read off with the others," he explained.

Forbes, who is classified by his teachers as a well-rounded student, went through stages of elimination before he was finally chosen. The first stage was here at Senior when he was interviewed by a representative of the county committee. After successfully completing the district finals at Winston-Salem, Forbes was notified that he was one of the six chosen to compete with 33 other boys from North Carolina and Virginia in the finals of the contest. On Monday and Tuesday, March 8 and 9, Forbes was interviewed at Chapel Hill by members of the Morehead Scholarship Committee.

Tuesday night he and the other boys were feted at a banquet in the dining room of the Morehead Planetarium. After the banquet the boys received a letter informing the winners of their selection for the finals. The 22 boys who were left were interviewed again

Boren To Represent F. T. A. At Conclave

Lynn Boren, junior, left yesterday to represent the GHS chapter of Future Teachers of America at the meeting of the North Carolina Education Association in Raleigh which will continue through Saturday.

Members of the Senior High FTA chapter elected Lynn to represent them at this meeting. All of the FTA chapters of the state will have a representative who will be recognized at the NCEA gathering.

FTA representatives will attend meetings at the Capitol Building, Raleigh Memorial Auditorium, The New Highway Building Auditorium, and the Ambassador Theatre.

New officers of the state FTA for 1954-55 will be elected today by all the North Carolina representatives.

Homespun Box Placed For Creative Entries

Students wishing to have any of their creative work published in HOMESPUN, a literary magazine sponsored by Quill and Scroll, may place their contributions in the white box in the main hall.

If possible the entries should be typed.

Class Day Committee Selects Bell As Head

Committees have been appointed to begin work on the 1954 Class Day which is to be held May 23.

Betty Bell was selected by the general committee to serve as over-all chairman for the annual festivities. Miss Eula Tuttle will serve as faculty adviser for the group.

Senior English teachers will compose an advisory board to aid the committee in compiling the program. They include Mrs. Edna Earle Randolph, Miss Mozelle Causey, Miss Sara Mims, Miss Edna Nicholson, Miss Virginia Powell, and Mrs. Louise Morgan.

Committees have been chosen to decide the outstanding events in the seniors' three years at high school: sophomore year, Cordelia Goodnight and Martha Jester; junior year, Gloria Gilmore and Amanda McConnell; and senior year, Bettie Jane Upchurch and Joe Clapp.

Members of the committee are working on a central theme around which to base the entire program. Others besides those on the years' committee are Stewart Colson, Dawn Barbour, Kitten Barringer, Beckie Schweistris, Barbara Sharpe, Kelly Maness, and Jimmy Powell, who is Senior Class president and chairman for all graduation plans.

Included in the Class Day will be the Last Will and Testament of the Prophecy, and the superlatives. This, the most humorous of the graduation exercises, will take place in a special Thursday morning assembly.

Citizens Of Month

Members of the Citizenship Honor Roll for the first six weeks of the spring semester have been announced.

Kitten Barringer and Ralph Bright are the seniors who received this honor.

Rachel Allen and Banks Ritchie were chosen from the Junior Class. Sara Toenes and Walker Lockett are best citizens from the Sophomore Class.

These people were chosen for their achievements in scholarship and citizenship.

Ninety-seven sophomores and juniors have signaled their desire to be candidates in the spring election.

Three boys have decided to run for school president. They are Jimmy Jordan, who will be boosted by Ken Cates, R. B. Arthur, supported by Jimmy Jones, and Donnie DeSanto, who has Barbara Massey as his campaign manager.

For vice-president of the school, two girls, Julie Redhead and Sue Simmons, are campaigning for this honor. Their boosters are Arthur Balderacchi and Becky Schweistris, respectively.

Running for secretary are Janie Walters, supported by Don Patterson, and Gail Kirkman boosted by Betty Bell.

Two sophomores, Dick Robinson and Leon Boggs, are the aspirants for treasurer. Harriett Perkins is booster for Dick and Bill Turner for Leon.

In the race for traffic chief Steve Arthur and Bob Cowan are vying for the head of the patrols. They are boosted by Jack King and Bob Grant, respectively.

For class representatives are Brokie Lineweaver, Phyllis Brooks, Kay Wrenn, Lynn Boren, Holly Deifell, Terry Ann Garrison, Sylvia Kimbro, Carolyn Scott, Pat Frazier, Deanna Dickson, Susan Hege, Dava Cashwell, Rachel Allen, Clara Alexander, Julianna Clark, Alan Pultz, and Margie Boren.

Six GHS Teachers Attend NCEA Meet

Attending the North Carolina Education Association meeting starting today in Raleigh are Miss Estelle Mitchell, Miss Edna Nicholson, Miss Virginia Powell, Miss Mildred Herring, Miss Mozelle Causey, and Mrs. Jeannette McArthur.

These six Senior High School teachers are going to the meeting as official delegates, but Mr. A. P. Routh, principal, is going as an unofficial delegate. His time will be taken up with both general and departmental meetings and lighter entertainment in the form of luncheons and teas.

Schools from all over North Carolina are allowed one delegate for every 10 teachers on the faculty; hence six were chosen from the 60 teachers here.

For several years past the meeting was held in Asheville.

Citation Awarded Store Salesman For Service Beyond Call of Duty

As a crown was placed upon his brow by a smiling admirer, the following citation was read to a salesman in the school store on the morning of March 10, 1954:

This citation is awarded Coach Robert L. "Lody" Glenn in recognition of service above and beyond the call of duty. As driver of the "Whirlbird," Coach Glenn has let neither rain nor sleet nor snow nor slush nor broken windshield wipers keep him from taking the Whirlies on their way of conquest. Nor has a roasted left leg, and a wet, freezing right leg prevented him from completing such a remarkable feat as driving the "Whirlbird." Thoughts of the "Whirlbird" out in 20 degree weather with a radiator filled with water were enough to cause Coach Glenn to leave his family circle in the middle of the night to drain its radiator.

This devotion to duty has earned Coach Glenn the undying respect of all.

Presented by his co-workers on the coaching staff of the basketball team in conjunction with the managers of the school store, this citation of honor and the crown of trinkets on an express cap brought a watermelon grin to the face of the coach, who, at the time, was working at the store counter selling term paper cards to frantic seniors.

Credit for the idea has been given to Mr. W. E. Taylor, Coach Bob Jamieson, Mr. Stanley Johnson and Cordelia Goodnight, who decorated the headgear.
