The LSP's honored Linda Jo Thompson, senior, as their new member at an open house given after the regular club meeting, Wednesday, September 18.

Linda Harrison, president, ordered pins for new members and for others who wished to have one. They are rectangular shape with the face in blue, the club color, and LSP done in gold.

Daily Doubles

"Going steady" is what this week's Mr. and Miss X have been saying for quite a while now . . . almost two years to be exact. Right, Miss X?

Do you want to hear more? Well here goes . . . Miss X, a senior, is a pert 5 feet 6 inches tall and hails from home room M202. She is an active member of the choir and of the Youth Recreation Council.

Mr. X, a senior "Demolayer," is a 6 foot member of the stage-crew and is from home room 100.

Still listening? Well, string along . . .

Mr. and Miss X have been seen together around GHS since they spoke their "steady vows" October 6, 1955. You've probably heard them singing either "All My Life" by Roy Hamilton because it's Miss X's favorite, or "Let's Have a Party," which still ranks tops with Mr. X.

Whether it's at Wolf's Coffee Shop, Mr. X's favorite hangout, or just anywhere together, as Miss X prefers, you'll probably find Mr. X enjoying his favorite food—steak, while Miss X will order French fried onions, her favorite delicacy.

Don't stop now, there's still more!

Mr. and Miss X both agree that they enjoy double dating when they're with a couple who is a lot of fun. Arguing and "falsehoods" are two big DON'TS with both, and they enjoy sports and thinking up interesting things to do.

Who are they? Why, don't you know? Oh, well, here's a hint to where they are . . .

Our commercials are quite hot. And what they say can mean a lot!

Sue Snow Edits Column Concerning School News

City School News, a column which appears Monday through Friday in the GREENSBORO RECORD, is written this year by Sue Snow, junior, and will appear throughout the school year.

All news and events occurring in the 22 city schools, with the exception of Senior High, are included in the column. This is the only way for the schools to be represented in the paper. The column has and will continue daily. The first article was printed Tuesday, September 10.

Sue has had journalism experience as she is on the HIGH LIFE staff, but this is her first attempt at such an article.

Howard Lockamy, Student, 'Earns While He Learns'

"Earn while you learn" should be Howard Lockamy's slogan. That's exactly what Howard's doing.

A senior here at GHS, Howard has been in business for himself for two years and is already planning ways and means to expand. While he was working at the Victory Theatre, he noticed some rather old vending machines the management was going to replace. This started him thinking: Why work for someone else when I can work for myself?

Rents Machines

At first he wanted to buy the Victory's machines. Then one day he noticed an ad in the DAILY NEWS to rent vending machines and made contacts with a woman in High Point to "get the dope."

As it turned out, Howard could rent machines for popcorn and French fries, and start his own concession stand. Now he takes his portable business with him to Reynold's Coliseum for rock 'n roll shows, etc., to the Southern Speedway in Darlington, and the Tarheel Race Track in Greensboro. At the Coliseum he hires boys to take the French fries and popcorn through the audience while he manages the stand.

Brisk Business

Doing a brisk business, Howard has now earned enough to build his own trailer, to be named "Howard's." It should be completed by October 8 in time to take to Winston, and he will be available to feed the hungry hordes at the County Fair when it comes to Greensboro.

Looks To Future

Looking to the future, Howard hopes to keep expanding—one little, two little, and three little trailers, etc. Then maybe some day he will deal in vending machines and start another youngster like himself on a prosperous business.
