Junior Civitan Group Sells Season Tickets For 16 Athletic Events

Season tickets seem to be the words with members of the Junior Civitan Club at present, for they, making no profit, are offering to the members of the student body, tickets to 16 athletic events for the price of $2.00.

Each person who purchases one of the season ticket booklets will be saving $6 sum total. This booklet will include tickets to all home basketball games and all wrestling matches.

The members of the Junior Civitan Club are stressing the sale of these tickets to boost the school spirit of the student body.

Pledge cards, pertaining to the season tickets, were signed in home rooms, Thursday, November 21, and Friday, November 22. The tickets will be issued upon payment of $2.00, December 2, 3, and 4. Cards can still be obtained from any Junior Civitan member.

The Junior Civitan Club is hoping that a large percentage of the student body will buy these tickets in order to have big crowds of people at the basketball and wrestling events.

Semester seven seniors received into the society included Julia Adams, Mary Lee Adams, Janet Coble, Ann Elder, Rachel Jessup, Judy Lea, and Sue Levine. Others were Jan Phillips, Buddy Rives, Harry Smith, Max Snodderly, Angelyn Stokes, Becky Tuck, Kitty White, and Anne Wilson.

In order to be eligible for membership, a person must excel in scholarship, leadership, service and character. An average of 90 is required as is an evidence of scholarship, ability, service to school and church, and a good conduct record.

At the last meeting of Torchlight, November 21, the group elected Harry Smith, senior, treasurer for the present school year. Harry will be in charge of the Torchlight Talent Show in the spring.

During the program, presided over by Jean Medearis, president, these four qualifications were briefly outlined. Taking part were Meyressa Hughes, scholarship; Sandra Holderness, leadership; Jey Deifell, service; and Laura Pearce, character. Devotions were given by Connie Coltrane.

In outlining the methods used for selection of members, A. P. Routh, principal, stated that he believed Senior High's to be most democratic. Here a list of all persons eligible is distributed to students, who then vote for those they feel to be worthy. Faculty members likewise vote by the same method. Those receiving the greatest number of votes are then forwarded to a faculty advisory committee which voices its opinion. Finally Torchlight members vote before school on the day of tapping.

There will be another tapping in the spring at which time both seniors and juniors will be chosen for membership. Adviser to the Society is Mrs. Mary Madlin, assisted by Miss Sara Mims.

Marsha Bumpass Reigns In City's Holiday Parade

Marsha Bumpass, recently chosen by her senior classmates as best-looking superlative, reigned by appointment of Mayor George Roach, as "Miss Greensboro" November 29 in the Holiday Jubilee Parade, co-sponsored by the Greensboro Merchants Association, the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce, and the Greensboro Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Oasis Shrine Club was the setting for the Holiday Jubilee Ball given Thursday night, November 28, in honor of the 30 beauty queens. Early Friday morning at the Mayfair Cafeteria the girls were entertained at a Holiday Jubilee breakfast. Following the breakfast they rode in the parade in convertibles. Immediately after the parade a reception at the O. Henry Hotel preceded the crowning of the Holiday Jubilee Queen of 1958, who will receive a $400 scholarship to the school of her choice. The crowning took place at the Greensboro Country Club after the dinner at one o'clock.

T. G. Overstreet, chairman of the Jubilee Parade, requested either the mayors or civic clubs of approximately 40 cities within driving distance of Greensboro to send a representative to be a contestant in the competition. The judges graded the girls on personality, poise, and beauty.

Local merchants and club organizations sponsored the floats in the parade.

Inter-Club Council Group Coordinates Club Projects

Senior High's Inter-Club Council's newly elected officers are Hugh Blair, president; Anne Davis, vice-president; Dorothy Klutz, secretary; and Jean Medearis, publicity chairman.

The Council's constitution has been written, and several committees have already been formed to study problems which have arisen. As a result the high school has received good publicity in the city papers.

The purpose of the Inter-Club Council, as it has been stated in the Constitution, is to encourage new clubs to be formed and to see that the clubs work together harmoniously. The council feels strongly about the first part of this statement. They say, "We want as many people as possible to be in social clubs. We welcome any group that wants to form a new club. All they are required to have for membership in the Inter-Club Council is a constitution and a small entrance fee.

"Social clubs are one way to make up for the sad lack of recreation in Greensboro. Let's see that they don't destroy themselves by a foolish prank and thereby kill the best source of social life in this town," the council says.

Officers of Senior's new Inter-Club Council are Dorothy Klutz, Anne Davis, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Hugh Blair, and Jean Medearis. Mrs. Taylor, also president of the PTSA, advises the group.
