Civitan Club Sells Cakes; To Issue Pocket Bulletin

GHS Junior Civitan Club ended the year with fruit cake sales and will begin the new year by issuing Pocket Bulletin Board Number 5.

The Club ended the year with the sale of season tickets for basketball and wrestling. All the members together sold over 700 tickets. During Christmas holidays the members distributed fruitcakes with a total of 1400 pounds of fruitcake being sold.

Club members have also started their second sale of Whirlie booster buttons, when the sale of 250 in one tremendous sale called for reordering. Next Tuesday the Junior Civitan Club will distribute to each student Pocket Bulletin Board No. 5, which will have the swimming and wrestling schedule on it.

Senior High Library Closes For Inventory

Miss Mildred Herring, librarian, has announced that Senior High's library will be closed during the week of January 20 through January 25 in order to take the annual inventory of library books.

Since students were allowed to check out books during the Christmas holidays, exam week is the only time that an inventory can be made.

It has also been requested that any unclaimed library books be placed in the box outside the library door.

GHS Concert Band Invited To Perform For Canadian Bandmasters' Assembly

Senior's Concert Band has been invited and received permission from the Board of Education to perform for the Canadian Bandmasters Mid-Winter Meeting at Waterloo Ontario, this spring.

According to Director Herbert Hazelman, the band was invited by the Canadian bandmasters in 1954. At this time the Concert Band was performing at the Midwest National Band Clinic in Chicago. The Canadians, who were also present at the clinic, were impressed by Senior's group and expressed the wish for them to visit Canada. Mr. Hazelman also said that this was the first time that the trip has been worked out successfully.

Scheduled to leave Greensboro Tuesday morning, April 22, and return Sunday, April 27, the band will be transported by three chartered Trailway buses. The scenic views along the way will include Shenandoah Valley and Niagara Falls.

Concert band members include 34 seniors, 47 juniors, and 13 sophomores. They are selling their concerts in order to raise the needed funds, and all proceeds from the forthcoming concerts will go towards the established goal. Members of the band will also sell tickets to the annual SPEBSQSA (Barber Shop Quartets) at Aycock Auditorium in February.

Musical selections for the tour will include numbers from the band's extensive repertoire and several others chosen especially for the occasion. They will also play the selections which they will have performed at the State Music Contest the previous week.

Greensboro's band has once again been selected to represent the southeastern section of the United States at an important event. It is also the first North Carolina band to receive the honor of appearing before a foreign bandmasters' association.

Band president, Meyressa Hughes, says that if the teachers notice that band members seem to be trying harder than usual, it may be in view of the fact that failure in academic subjects will certainly mar his chances of a wonderful trip.

'Stairway To The Stars' Theme For Annual Dance

"Stairway To The Stars" will be the theme of the annual Mid-winter's dance for the student body Wednesday, January 22, from nine to twelve, in the Girls' Gym.

Music will be provided by the Charlie Strong Combo who played for the basketball open house, Friday, January 10. He will bring six pieces.

Chairman of the dance committee is Robin Farr, junior on the Student Council. Carol Smith, sophomore, is the other council representative, while Shelia Sapero and Kay Smith, juniors, are from the student body.

Tickets have been on sale since Monday, January 13. They may still be purchased at 50 cents each from any member of the Council.

A curved stairway under the band stand, behind which will hang a backdrop of dark blue gauze with twinkling lights shining through, creates the illusion of a "Stairway to the Stars." More stars of all sizes and shapes will be suspended from the ceiling throughout the gym.

"Student support has been wonderful," remarked Robin, in regard to sheets the Council passed out to home rooms several weeks ago asking for volunteers in decorating. She says the Council expects about 500 to attend.

Robin Farr and Pen Waldron set the scene for the theme for the Midwinter's, "Stairway to the Stars."

The College Board Examination is one of the most widely used entrance qualifying tests and is prerequisite for entrance to any branch of the University of North Carolina.

Greensboro is one of about 20 cities in North Carolina in which the test is given periodically. The next college Board Examination in Greensboro will be in March, Greensboro Senior High's principal A. P. Routh announced. Students must apply in writing to take the test.

General Assembly

The General Assembly of North Carolina has set up a "Scholarship Loan Fund for Prospective Teachers". This loan applies to those Seniors who might be interested in teaching. The Loan Fund is administered by the State Board of Education and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction at Raleigh.
