

HIGH LIFE

From the Gate City of the South and the Birthplace of O. Henry

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL, GREENSBORO, N. C., MARCH 14, 1958

Charles Bowles Scheduled To Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon For Graduation

Charles P. Bowles, pastor of the West Market Street Methodist Church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to this year's GHS graduating class at his church Sunday evening, June 1.

Known to young people as the father of Joe, Class of 1957, and Lynn, now a sophomore, Dr. Bowles was born in Guilford College. He attended Guilford College and Duke University, receiving an A.B. Degree from the latter institution. He then enrolled in the Graduate School of Duke University where he received his M.A. Degree and later his B.D. Degree from the Duke Divinity School. In 1955 High Point College conferred upon him an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Dr. Bowles' Activities

As a member of the Western North Carolina Conference, Dr. Bowles has four times been elected delegate to the Southeastern Jurisdictional Conference, and was a delegate in 1956 to the General Conference. He is a member of The Commission of Deacons

Work for The Methodist Church. He is a trustee of Duke University, Brevard College, The Methodist Home for the Aged, The Children's Home, and has served for many years on the Board of Managers of the Duke Pastors' School.

Appears In Who's Who

In February 1955, he participated in the International Evangelistic Crusade to Cuba, and was selected as one of the speakers for the 1955 Methodist Series of the Protestant Hour, sponsored by the Joint Radio Committee, of the Methodist Church. He has a constant interest in the field of Christian Education, serving on the Conference Board and its Executive Committee for many years. Due to this interest he has attended many Church-Wide Conferences and Assemblies, taught in Christian Worker's Training Schools, and represents the General Board of Education on numerous occasions at conference assemblies and pastors' schools in the Southeastern Jurisdiction. In June of 1957 Dr. Bowles was appointed International Chaplain of Civitan International in its Chicago Convention and also became a member of the Religious Commission of The National Conference of Christians and Jews. Dr. Bowles' name appears in the 1958-59 edition of "Who's Who in America."

DR. CHARLES P. BOWLES

700 Science Students Enter Projects In Fair

Projects entered today, March 14, for the annual Science Fair at Greensboro Senior High in the boys' gymnasium from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; numbered approximately 700, of a wide variety coming from members of all science classes.

The Science faculty in charge of responsibilities for the Science Fair from Senior High are Mrs. Kate Everhart, chairman; Miss Sarah E. Yarborough, chairman of public relations; Sam L. Whiteley and David A. Upstill, co-chairmen for decorations; and Mrs. Eloise Higgins and Miss Notie Day White, co-chairmen for correspondence and prizes.

A display of projects will be at WPMY-TV station on the Old Rebel Show, Carroll Stoker's Morning Show, TV Matinee, and What's Cooking Today. Television and radio stations will have spot announcements all during the day as well as interviews with different students who have entered projects.

Winners from the local area will go to the district fair at Wake Forest College, March 29, 1958. From there the winners will go to the State Fair at Duke Uni-

Way To Go, Boys . . . . .

Snodderly Wins Morehead Scholarship; GHS Places Finalists In Competition

Senior High is placing winners and finalists in competition for most of the major college scholarships in this area, according to A. P. Routh, GHS principal.

Jim Sawers, senior, is the winner of the Angier B. Duke Scholarship which is worth $4,000 toward schooling at Duke University. Jim is also a very active member of the Junior Engineers and he also has a project in the finals of the Westinghouse Search For Talent Contest.

Max Snodderly, senior, has been selected as a winner of one of the 35 John M. Morehead Scholarships awarded to senior high school boys for studies at the University of North Carolina. The scholarship is valued at $5,000 toward four years of study. Max is a superlative, president of Junior Engineers, and past editor of HIGH LIFE.

Meyressa Hughes and Add Penfield, seniors, are finalists in the competition for the George Foster Hankins Scholarship to Wake Forest. This scholarship is based on need. Meyressa and Add are scheduled for a day of testing and interviews at Wake Forest, Friday, March 14.

Seven seniors have made the finals of the competition sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Foundation. They are Denny Broadhurst, Peggy Earle, Buddy Rives, Betty Rose, Jim Sawers, Max Snodderly, and Angelyn Stokes.

In addition, the principal's office has been notified that nine other GHS students placed so high on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Examination that they may possibly come into consideration for a scholarship. These are Connie Coltrane, Ralph Daniel, Judy Hartsook, Mary Henderson, Elizabeth Miller, Rhoda

JCL Club Members Meet In Chapel Hill

GHS's chapter of JCL was represented in Chapel Hill, Saturday, March 8, at the annual state JCL Convention by a delegation of 70 students—55 from Senior and 15 from Aycock Junior High School.

First on the agenda for the

Tryouts For Torchlight Talent Show March 12

Tryouts for the annual Torchlight talent show were conducted in the GHS auditorium, Wednesday, March 12 and will be again March 20.

The talent show will be presented to the student body, Tuesday, March 25.

group was registration, followed by the business session. At 11 there began several discussion groups: Roman Banquets, JCL Programs, Latin Week, and National-State-Local JCL. Those who were not attending the various discussion groups were invited to a movie, "Wings to Italy." The sponsors were also busy at this hour attending a meeting to discuss the program for the day.

One of the main features of the day was the planetarium show, "Devils, Demons, and Stars," presented twice so that all delegates could see it.

At 2 the afternoon programs began. First on schedule for the group was the initiation ceremony presented by Greensboro members of JCL. After the main business meeting of the afternoon, committee reports were given, nominations for state offices were announced, and elections held.

While in Chapel Hill the group purchased the state JCL newspaper, "Torch NC". Mrs. Mary Madlin and Miss Mildred Maddox, GHS Latin teachers, chaperoned the group.

In the upper photo Jim Sawers, Angier B. Duke winner, is shown, and Max Snodderly, Morehead winner is pictured at lower right.

Honor Code Day Has Assembly, Discussion

Honor Code Day took place this year Tuesday, March 11, during the first two periods, with first period being an assembly and second a home room discussion period.

Bowles, Glenn Speak

Dr. Charles Bowles, minister at West Market Street Methodist Church, spoke to the student body, with his thought centering around the principles of the Honor Code. GHS's own Lody Glenn, assistant principal, also talked to the pupils during this assembly.

Second period was designated as a time for the individual home rooms to have discussion groups concerning the Honor Code. Each group consisted of a council member and several members of the home room. These panels presented questions and topics for the students to comment on, along with analyzing the Honor Code and what it means to the individual student.

Laura Pearce, chairman of the Honor Code committee, met with members of the home rooms Wednesday, March 5, when each member received a list of suggestions for topics of discussion.