

THE CARTER G. WOODSON SCHOOL: CONNECTING THE PAST, CONFRONTING THE PRESENT, CONQUERING THE FUTURE

Derrick Harley

By Derrick Harley

Recently, The Carter G. Woodson School celebrated the expansion of the school with its addition of a new building. The Carter G. Woodson School of Challenge first opened August of 1997, using the Urban League of Winston-Salem and The Anderson Center of Winston-Salem State University as its two first instruction sites. In September of 1997, we moved into the building that is now our instruction facility. For years, the head officials of Carter G. Woodson have dreamed of increasing its body of students, and each year, more and more people were coming aboard. With the increase of population in Winston-Salem, Carter G. Woodson increased its numbers, but wanted to make it so that more and more people could attend the institution.

"Exactly how did Carter G. Woodson School come to be?" you may ask. The answer is two extraordinary women by the name of Hazel Mack-Hilliard and Ruth Hopkins wanted to give students of color an equal opportunity in the North

ALLSTATE OPENS DOWNTOWN

Chris Fuller

Allstate newest agency Fuller & Associates Insurance Agency is proud to be a part of the growth and vision of Winston Salem's downtown community. Fuller & Associates is located between 4th Street and the west end at 930 Burke Street.

This is an exciting time to be part of the downtown community with the development of luxury and high rise apartments and condos, shops, restaurants, business and the arts.

Chris Fuller owner of Fuller & Associates considered Greensboro, High Point and Winston-Salem but fell in love with the people of Winston-Salem, its community and saw the vision and opportunity of downtown while working in Winston as a vice-president for Bank of America.

The downtown agency will be able to provide property, auto, life, commercial insurance, individual health plans, along with retirement, annuities, mutual funds, Allstate checking and Business insurance including group health and retirement.

The team at the Allstate's downtown office is committed to providing customer service that goes beyond expectations. "We are proud to be able to provide the best products at great prices but customer service is our team's cornerstone. I feel our downtown location will provide the convenience that the community needs whether getting new insurance,

Chronicles Players Contribution to the Game and Civil Rights

WINSTON-SALEM, NC They were among the most prolific scorers and top defensive players in college basketball. But most of the nation in the 1950s and 1960s had never heard of them and had no idea of the impact African-American basketball players from Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) would ultimately have on the game or in the area of civil rights until now, thanks to an exciting and informative documentary film, Black Magic. A special pre-screening of the film will be shown at Winston-Salem State University's K.R. Williams Auditorium on Friday, February 22, at 7 p.m.

The 90-minute preview screening of the film is free and open to the public. What will be shown at WSSU is a modified version of the actual four-hour documentary that will air in two parts March 16 and 17 on ESPN.

The telecast of Black Magic on ESPN at 9 p.m. on Sunday, March 16 and Monday, March 17 is brought to you the way a film of this importance should be presented. Through the sponsorship of the Russell Athletic Group and State Farm, Black Magic will be broadcast without commercial interruption.

The first time that ESPN has ever presented a broadcast in this manner. Part One will air immediately following ESPN's Bracketology show (analyzing the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament
