Phi Mu Entertains at Tea October 20

Gamma Gamma chapter of the Phi Mu fraternity entertained with a lovely tea on Tuesday, October 20, from five to six in honor of Mrs. Marian Hogan, national inspector, and the pledges of the different fraternities on the campus.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Hagan, Miss Jane Renfrow, president of the chapter and Miss Carolyn Arnette, president of the pledges.

The Phi Mu color scheme of old rose and white was carried out in the decorations. Dainty colonial bouquets were given as favors.

About seventy-five guests called during the hour.

Press Convention Being Held at Duke

Delegates from Campus Publications Sent

The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association is now holding its Fall Convention at Duke University in Durham. This is held twice a year at some college belonging to the Association.

The delegates from each college publication meet together to discuss the different problems that confront them in their work. There are always some well-known people there at the convention who lecture to the group on subjects dealing with their own work. The entire group separate into smaller groups made up of the officers of the same publication from different colleges; that is, all the editors of the annuals meet and discuss the hardships they have confronting them, while all the Business Managers rack their brains how to raise money for their publications.

Dorothy Edmunson was elected Secretary of the Press Association at the Spring meeting held in Raleigh and Queens-Chicora is quite proud of this honor.

PERSONALS

This needs headlines, but being as how all the headlines are filled out, this will have to suffice! Margaret Johanson took off from the campus for the first time this year and spent the week-end in the metropolis of Hartsville. In granting this interview to a reporter, she raved forth on a comparison of the two cities, Charlotte and the one in which she was a guest.

Pee Wee, Ann Clegg and Morrison's House President, all went down to visit Hannah with Margaret down in Hartsville. Don't ask Pee Wee who she's in love with now—please!

Beaty went to Raleigh with her relatives and ate on a couple of more pounds on account of the food.

Virginia Shellum went home again this week-end. This looks bad—hum—was the reason with her Saturday in Burwell Hall? I'm just being sorta curious.

Lib Mason's brother caused quite a great deal of excitement when he came to take her home for the week-end. Even Miss Forman had to get just another glimpse of him!

Ethel Mae Baine was royally welcomed back to her Alma Mater over the week-end. Franie Johanson entertained her, and her sister, Mildred, and Ester Stuart. And did you see them checking out all over town in the "Chevy"?

The Kappa Delta's had a picnic feed down at the house Sunday night. Everyone contributed their best loved food and can you imagine the conglomeration of material!

Well—there must have been one big convention down in Mooresville this past week-end. Sarah White, Janet, Emily Cooper and Beth were all congregated there! Now, I wouldn't tell you as a friend, all the dirt I've heard!

Frances Harry trotted home to have a big ol' bull session with the family—you could tell for days ahead she was going, 'cause that head of hers had one grand wave after another.

Rosalie Wyman and Mary China went down to Kershaw—did you know that they both had business to attend to?

Ginia Parsons and Mildred Gooding stayed out in town using their grand new privilege. Did you ask Ginia how things are going?

Martha Tyson stayed in town for the week-end and had one heap big time thinking of all she had to do once she got back to school.

Now here's a sweet little bedtime story. Little Stone went to Winston-Salem and—well, she thinks the Green Room is lovely. She is willing to advocate bigger and better Green Rooms.

Olivia Curlee went to Derita to get back to nature and pick some wild flowers. Bet she enjoyed the good cooking.

Frances Sipplemeger and Laura Stallings both went home. Know they were thinking, all the time while away, of what was going on here.

Dot Edmonson and Janet gave the Alpha Delta Pi feed Sunday night. Gee, and what a bull session they had around that big fire place afterwards!

Plans were set forth by many and food by Lois and Ann McLaughlin at the Alpha Gamma Delta House, Sunday night. Boy, wasn't it good.

Hattie DuBose went home and so did Buena Winecoff. Margaret Floyd also took off at the first moment possible to return at the last moment allowable!

Alpha Gamma Delta Gives Housewarming

Large Number of Faculty and Students Attend First Formal Opening of Fraternity's New House

A lovely social event of this week was the Alpha Gamma Delta house warming and presentation of the pledges, Wednesday afternoon. The hours were: Freshmen and Juniors, four to five; Sophomores and Seniors from five to six.

Receiving at the entrance were Misses Margaret Johanson, president of Gamma Gamma chapter, Anne Clegg, president of the pledges, Mabel Murphy, sponsor, and the patronesses, Mrs. F. M. Redd and Mrs. Parks Kirkpatrick. The guests, numbering around two hundred and including members of the faculty and of the student body, were served with sandwiches, Russian tea, mints, and nuts. Roses in the fraternity's colors, red and buff, were arranged attractively about the room.

The Alpha Gamma Delta Fraternity House is the newest on the campus, it being completed around the latter part of August. It is of stucco, and is built on the English plan. The interior is tastefully and comfortably furnished, and has every modern convenience. The house warming was the official opening to the students and faculty, and the number attending Wednesday afternoon assures the interest in the new addition to Sorority Row.

ECHOES

The dusky shadows fall—
The day draws to a close—
The lonely lark whistles a call
And in the distance come echoes.

Of foot steps dear and sweet
That sound and resound again
Hurrying eagerly the one to meet
In the gentle summer rain.

Ah! have you never heard
Echoes that call you from your dreams—
Whispering a tender longing word
Echoes wanting and asking it seems.
