New Girls Are Welcomed By SCA at Vespers

Candle Light Sunday Service
Impressive; Members
Wear White

In a beautiful and impressive candle-light service on Sunday night, October 13, the Student Christian Association of Queens-Chicora welcomed into the association the freshmen and the girls who have come to Queens for the first time.

The members of the S.C.A. Cabinet came in singing: "Father of the Lights", every member in white, holding a lighted candle. After a short worship service the president of the S.C.A., Rachel Hamilton, welcomed the new girls, and then as a symbol of the beginning of their work in the Christian Association, each girl came up and lighted her candle from that of the president. After Jane Davis, chairman of the freshman class, gave the response to the welcome, all went out one by one singing "Follow the Gleam" and formed a large circle of lighted candles on the campus. The recognition service was ended with everyone joining hands and singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Kryl's Band Plays at Queens, Oct. 26; Large Crowd Anticipated at Concert

Band Enters Thirteenth Consecutive Season. Kryl To Give Cornet Solo; White, Kinard and Templeton Added
Soloists. Program of Varied Interest.

On Saturday, October 26, in the Queens-Chicora Chapel auditorium, Bohumir Kryl, world famous Virtuoso and conductor, will present to the Queens' students and the music lovers of Charlotte his famed Symphony Band in an afternoon concert.

This year the Kryl band is entering upon its thirtieth consecutive season, during which period it has given over twelve thousand concerts and has traveled over one million miles. That the educational factor of the Kryl Band concerts is worthwhile and appreciated is proved by the repeated re-engagements, year after year, by colleges and universities throughout the country where the band has appeared.

The great Kryl himself, who has by many musical authorities been accorded the place as the world's premier cornetist, will appear on the program as the cornet soloist. As a soloist formerly with John Philip Sousa's Band and later with his own, Kryl has proved himself complete master of the cornet, and his performance is anticipated as one of the most enjoyable features of the program.

Other able soloists who will appear on the program are Josephine Kryl White, violinist; Nell Kinard, soprano; and Ruth Templeton, harpist.

The program for the Kryl concert follows:

Overture to the Opera "Mignon"

Bohumir Kryl, that lion-maned conductor, electrified with personality, always displays the art of showmanship in the arrangement and presentation of his programs. By alternating masterpieces of composition with better-known band selections, he achieves a variety which appeals to everyone, whether talented in music or not.

Kryl's band is a unit of superior musical excellence, and the band concert is being looked forward to as the outstanding musical performance at Queens for the year.

New York—R. O. T. C., long a violent point of controversy at City College here, is an unrestricted elective this term, and liberals are pointing to the change as a signal victory for them.

Previously, either hygiene or military science was compulsory.

Edwards Talks On Meaning of Friends

Friendship Is Essential To College Life

Dean Edwards spoke to the student body on Thursday, October 17th on "Qualities that make for fine friendships." "There are no friends like college friends," said the Dean, "none so much appreciated in the reflections of later life." Before considering the fine qualities of friendship, the negative qualities which tend to destroy friendships were presented: the dangers of being self-centered, over-sensitive, and careless about personal habits. The Dean offered an anecdote for each of these destructive traits and then gave as the four main points of her talk the fine qualities which promote happiness among individuals and even nations. These points are: (1) sincerity, (2) intelligent interests, (3) self-reliance, (4) inbred respect for other people.

The students were urged to think carefully on these points and to strive to attain these heights.

Robinson Tells of Choral Club Plans

Miss Grace Robinson, voice instructor, plans to make the Queens-Chicora music department receive state recognition this year with the Choral Club. She is encouraging the whole school to try out for the club and says that she has found some unusually good material. The Choral Club will be rather large, having about thirty-five members. From this group, Miss Robinson plans to select a smaller group of those whose voices blend and train them to make trips to other colleges in the vicinity.

Dining Room Scene of Holiday Fete

Floor Show Features; Grand March, Colored Lights, Attractive Booths, Varied Costumes, Add Interest.

Friday, October 18, from 8:30 to 11:30, wrinkled care was banished from Queens-Chicora campus by the lordly figures of Sport and Laughter. The occasion for the withdrawal of the serious-minded monarch was the party arranged by the senior and sophomore classes who saw the need of releasing the aged spirit.

Instead of commonplace college girls there arrived on the scene creatures of glamour, some strange, others beautiful. In the grand march, led by Miss Henderson and Dr. Kratz, were found the spirit of might, a Spanish senorita, an Indian maiden, spirit of Halloween—all escorted by dashing modern cavaliers. Mr. McAlister Carson, Mr. Hunter Marshall, and Mr. Eddie Jones, who were invited to be judges, were in a dilemma, but finally reached a decision as to the best couple, the funniest, the prettiest, and the most original costumes.

Master of ceremonies, Ruth Grover, introduced to the appreciative spectators entertainment worthy of the occasion. The famous Hubbard sisters, surpassing all previous records, were followed by the skillful Tango team, Manning and Wicker. Other dancers, including the team Virginia Hubbard and Dot Ehrhardt and the soloists Margaret Land and Katherine Lowrance, gave graceful interpretations of popular numbers. Further diversion was furnished by the much sought after fortune tellers, Marian the clever, Babs the mystic, and Nell the astute.

Grover Addresses Auxiliary Groups

Ruth Grover has recently spoken before two Districts of the Presbyterian Auxiliary, telling them of the many wonderful improvements which have been made on the campus and in the buildings during the summer. She also told them of the fine new additions to the faculty.

The groups to which Miss Grover spoke were: The Charlotte District, on October 8, at which about 100 were present; and on Thursday, October 10, the Mecklenburg District at Bethel Church. About 170 were at this meeting.

SCA Keeps Y Store

Cabinet Members In Charge. Profits
Used For Beneficial Causes

The "Y" store is a Student Christian Association project and is under the direction and supervision of this body. The members of the Cabinet take turns in looking after the store and keeping it running smoothly. The profit which is made from the store is used in various beneficial causes; students are sent to conferences; help is given to mountain missions and other phases of church work. One of the outstanding projects for which the money is used is to present to the student body a fall speaker, who each year holds a series of evangelistic meetings.
