Queens Honor List Selected

Highest Rating Group to Get Class Privileges Under New Procedure

On February 5, the dean's list of Queens-Chicora College was announced by the Dean of Instruction, of Instruction. This year our college is adopting a procedure used by many colleges and universities in recognizing students of unusual ability.

At the beginning of each year a list of students who have achieved unusually fine records will be announced by the Dean of Instruction. Students on this list will not be held to the usual regulations for class attendance but will be placed upon their own responsibility.

If these students are able to maintain their high level of accomplishment under this system, they will continue in the same plan as long as they remain in college. If, however, the final grades of any student are materially lowered, such a student will again be subject to the customary attendance regulations and may not have her name on the Dean's list again.

The Dean of Instruction has announced the list of students who will initiate this plan. They are Miss Margaret Calder, Miss Sarah Hunsucker and Miss Catherine Marshall of Charlotte, Miss Helen West of Mooresville, Miss Elizabeth Martin and Miss Jane Wiley of Charlotte, Miss Mary Phillips of Matthews, Miss Helen Hatcher of Winchester, Va., Miss Marguerite Buffam, Miss Estelle Hull, Miss Edith Gallant, Miss Elizabeth Green, Miss Annie Murry Long, and Miss Martha Grace Hood, all of Charlotte.
