

The Collegiate Review

Put chickens on a twelve-hour working day by means of an alarm-clock attachment, is the recommendation of Prof. C. G. Card, head of Michigan State College's poultry husbandry department. By getting them up two hours earlier, they will eat more food and lay more eggs, he says.

Thieves at the University of Texas are playful. After a midnight swipe of $8.00, one left a note which read, "Thanks for the eight bucks! Will return later," Signed "Ima Robber."

An honorary degree is a degree conferred on a man who proved that he could win without it.

Basketball Semi-Finals To Be Played

Sister classes will meet in what promises to be some of the best basketball games in recent years, in the semi-finals to be played Monday night, March 15, at 7:00. Then on Wednesday night, the winners of Monday's games will play off the finals. Miss Margaret Moore, director of physical education at Central High School, has been secured to referee these games.

Immediately after basketball is over, practices will begin for May Day, this year to take the form of a Japanese flower festival. Also, the Spring beginner's swimming class will be organized very soon.

Consider The Editors And How They Toil

Consider the Editor! A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in town. The physician getteth 10 plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a cremo.

Behold, the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth in the paper a swell piece. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she, and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor gets a note of thank from the sweet girl graduate.

And the daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney.

Behold, she returneth, and the youth of the town fall down to worship. She picketh one and lo she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send unto the editor a bid to the wedding, and behold, the bids are fashioned in another city.

Flowery and long is the wedding notice the editor printeth. The minister getteth his bit.

The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the dead, and the darned thing cometh out "Gone To Her Last Roasting Place."

And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subs, even unto the third and fourth generations.—The Rambler.

Dr. Moore Speaks To Student Body

On two Thursdays recently, Queens girls have had the privilege of hearing Dr. Oren Moore, prominent physician of Charlotte, speak on subjects of vital interest to every girl. On the eleventh of February, Dr. Moore gave his first general talk, "The Modern Girl and Her Friendship With Young Men." Dr. Moore stressed the apparently lost quality of modern woman, femininity. This quality, he stated, is woman's greatest weapon. This world of ours is in control of man only in appearance; in reality, "it is a woman's world."

From this first excellent talk, there developed a plan by which Dr. Moore was to give a series of three lectures. The subjects chosen were "Marriage", "A Girl's Adaptation To Her Work", and "Vocational Guidance." Of these three talks, only the first has been given. On the twenty-fifth of February, Dr. Moore offered a lecture filled with valuable advice and instruction on the difficult art of being married. "Too often," he said, "a girl takes, what should be, the most important step in her life without a full realization of its importance." A bit of advice which is worth remembering a lifetime was brought out by Dr. Moore. A wife should not allow her husband to learn all of her talents in a year's time. She should keep his interest alive with something new, something different to spring upon him from time to time.

Literary Society Holds Meetings

Creative Writing Group of Literary Society met Wednesday afternoon, March 10, at the Phi Mu house.

Plans for the magazine that the group will publish were discussed. The committee in charge of this magazine is: Sue Mauldin, Barbara Shatzer, and Caddie Willis.

The Book Tea and Dramatic groups of the Literary Society have combined and have purchased a number of books which are now in the library. It is hoped that this plan will enable more students to make use of the books.

A University of Iowa professor who planned to go on a bobsleighbing party with students had to stay home because his mother wouldn't let him go. She claimed "such a party is not dignified enough for a college teacher."
